Ulster County Agricultural Scene... Rains Devastating

In this, the first of a two part series on the effect of the rains on agriculture in Ulster County, officials of area agricultural organizations tell of widespread damage and loss to crops.

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON

The rains came this spring, and the rains came this summer—the rains kept coming, making it wetter and wetter, and in their wake was left a bleak picture indeed for the agriculture of Ulster County.

Dairy farmers, fruit growers, and corn and vegetable farmers will all probably take a loss this year according to William H. Palmer, agriculture agent with the Ulster County Cooperative Extension Service.

Palmer explains that the collection of data concerning the situation is by no means finished and is an ongoing process.

Among the hardest hit by the seemingly endless deluge are the dairy farmers. Palmer estimates that by the middle of July they had harvested only ten per cent of the normal amount of hay.

"This is disastrous," the agriculture agent told The Freeman.

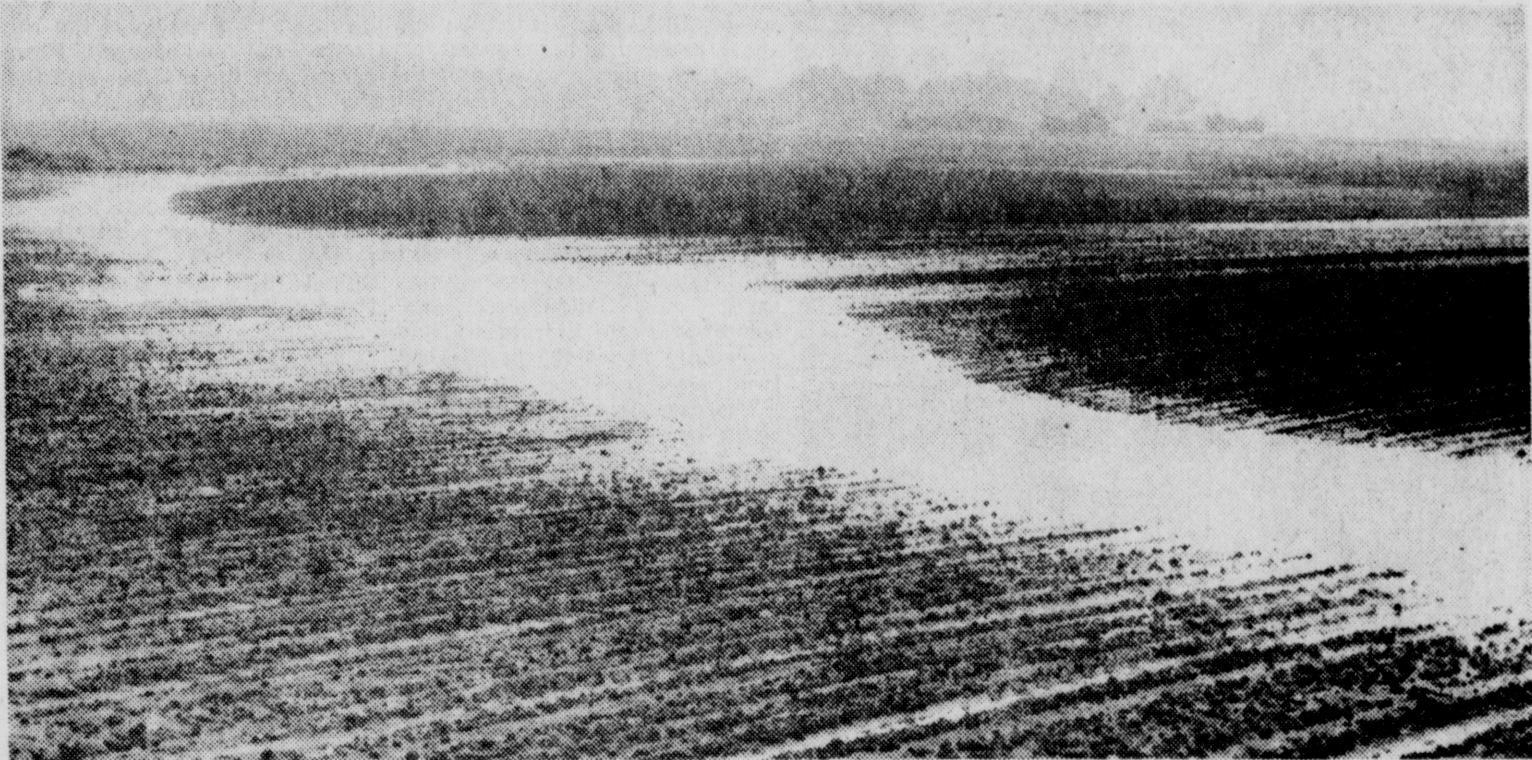

The hay is stored to feed the cows during the winter months, Palmer explains, and without it dairymen are forced to bear the costly burden for winter fodder.

The rain has effected the hay harvest in a number of ways. To begin with, many fields are too wet to run tractors through, and as a result the unharvested hay begins to rot and mold.

With the first cutting of hay still standing, the second and third cuttings are being suffocated according to Palmer. In addition, the high moisture content of the hay and the poor drying conditions bring on the danger of spontaneous combustion if attempts are made to store it.

Not the least of the dairymen's problems is the fact that what hay there is has been standing too long after maturation that its nutritional value is far too low to serve their needs.

According to Palmer, there have been rumors of dairymen who are thinking of selling out.

A rain-forced delay in the planting of both field and sweet corn could result in problems if there is an early frost, Palmer says.

"There is a real threat that field corn will not mature before the frost hits," he told The Freeman.

This, too, may add to the woes of the dairymen, as the field corn is used as feed for their cows.

Sweet corn growers are just beginning to harvest "in a modest way" according to Palmer, but it will be "some time" before the harvest reaches any volume.

In the long run, the volume will be reduced "considerably" for the sweet corn harvest, which is presently about a week to ten days behind schedule for early pickings Palmer estimates.

An early frost might also hit sweet corn which was planted late, says the agriculture agent, who adds that the delay was so long that some fields never got planted.

Fruit growers have already felt the effect of the wetness on the cherry and strawberry crops, but their problems may extend even into the 1973 apple crop, Palmer states.

Rains around harvest time caused sweet cherries to swell and burst with too much moisture, allowing rot and fungus growth to set in, the agriculture agent explains. Strawberries, too, have been beset with rot, he adds.

A fungus growth due to the wetness is threatening the yield for this year's apples and is forcing growers to spray their trees much more frequently than normal to hold the growth down.

Presently this year's apple crop looks "just average" Palmer explains, but spring blooms had a potential for a heavy harvest. He blames the losses more on a lack of sunshine than directly on the wet conditions.

Cloudy conditions during June may also threaten next year's apple crop, Palmer says. It is then that the buds for next year's crop are formed.

In general, it is too early to tell what effect the rains will have on prices, explains David Squire, executive director of the Ulster County Agriculture and Stabilization Commission.

Squire does add, however, that there is "no doubt" vegetable prices will be higher.

Palmer says prices will depend on supply and demand, and indicates that he expects sweet corn will be more expensive to buy this year.

Some aid to the farmers could come if Ulster County is declared a disaster area.

Thus far this has not occurred, Palmer explains, because areas hardest hit by hurricane Agnes were the main target for relief funds. Ulster County's problems have stemmed from more than Agnes, with widespread flooding occurring before the hurricane hit the Hudson Valley.

Steps are presently being taken toward getting the disaster declaration. On June 29 the Ulster County disaster committee recommended the county be declared a disaster area, and subsequently supplemental reports on the extent of damage have been filed with the state disaster committee of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Will Preserve 'Winning Team'

THE 'WINNING TEAM'

(UPI Telephoto)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Less than two weeks after the Democrats nominated George S. McGovern to oppose him, President Nixon announced Saturday he would preserve his "winning team" of 1968 and keep Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as his running mate this fall.

Agnew, leaving for a four-day tour of the Pacific Northwest and Alaska, said he was "tremendously gratified" and would campaign on issues rather than personalities. He promptly lashed out at the Democrats as a party controlled by an "ideological elite."

Nixon's decision, relayed to reporters by White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler, removed virtually the only element of suspense previously in store for the Republican National Convention starting Aug. 21 in Miami Beach.

It ended all speculation that the President might turn to Texas Democrat John B. Connally to replace Agnew on the GOP ticket, and still the cautious rumblings of discontent over Agnew within Republican ranks.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who urged Nixon only last Tuesday to replace Agnew in the interests of the "total ticket and the country," or else leave the vice presidential choice up to the convention, quickly backed down Saturday.

The President's decision, he said, "ends the speculation about the vice presidency. I have stated before that I will support the ticket, and I will do so."

Nixon informed Agnew of his decision at an hour-long meeting Friday in his White House office, and broke the news to Connally that night over dinner at Camp David, Md., where the former Treasury secretary was an overnight guest.

The President and Connally returned to Washington at midday. Connally to stay and Nixon to attend a private wedding before returning to his Maryland mountain retreat. Outside the church, Nixon clasped his hands before reporters and said with a grin: "I just say at a wedding, you just don't break up a winning team. So we see you today."

Agnew, speaking to reporters at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., said he had not tried to pressure Nixon on his choice of a 1972 running mate by building a "constituency" of his own.

Asked whether he ever had any doubts about staying on, he replied: "We all have our moments of insecurity, but I never believed I was in serious trouble. I would have served the campaign anyway."

The vice president scorned the Democratic party as "presently controlled by an ideological elite" that would grant amnesty to draft dodgers and "beg" Hanoi to release U.S. prisoners of war.

And he seemed unimpressed by McGovern's running mate, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri. "He's a personable young man," said Agnew. "He's not bad for a fifth or sixth draft choice."

The Republicans will hold a three-day convention in four weeks in the same city, Miami Beach, where the Democrats fought bitterly and openly before choosing McGovern and Eagleton, a little-known freshman senator and Catholic with a liberal, antiwar record, as their standard bearers this fall.

Massive Drive by British Against IRA in Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops fought their way into Irish Republican Army strongholds in Belfast Saturday, seizing explosives and weapons and scores of suspected IRA extremists in one of the biggest such crackdowns in the three years of Northern Ireland's violence.

William Whitelaw, Secretary of State for Ulster, said the large scale operation was an "immediate and clear response" to the IRA bombings which killed 11 persons and injured at least 130 in Belfast Friday.

Whitelaw said British troops had been given firm orders to hunt down the "killers, bomb-makers, and the fanatics who mastermind them." He said in a statement the IRA's bombs and bullets tactics were doomed to failure. "On behalf of Her Majesty's government I tell you now they WILL fail," Whitelaw said.

The Army said five more persons died in other incidents late Friday and early Saturday, bringing the over-all death toll since August 1969 to 469, including 39 since the end of an IRA truce 13 days ago.

A spokesman said snipers fired at least 1,000 rounds at soldiers who moved into the Roman Catholic Markets, Ballymurphy, Lower Falls, Ardoyne and Andersonstown districts around dawn. None of the soldiers was hit, the spokesman said, adding that troops reported shooting at least 11 gunmen. At least 62 suspected members of the IRA's militant provisional wing which claimed responsibility for Friday's 24 bombing attacks were arrested and turned over to police, the army said. In addition, it said "large quantities" of the explosive gelignite, hand grenades and other weapons were seized during the sweeps.

Army sources said about 1,500 British soldiers took part in the operation, the biggest against the IRA since troop raids into the same areas last August after the Ulster government's introduction of internment of suspected extremists.

Following the bombings Friday, the militant Protestant Ulster Vanguard Movement called on Whitelaw and British Prime Minister Edward Heath to resign and said if British troops did not move against the terrorists, the Protestants would. A Vanguard statement said "the time for talking is over."

Her Majesty's government is determined that men of violence will not succeed," Whitelaw said. "This course will lead them to total disaster. The sooner they realize it, the better."

In other bloodshed during the night, three gunmen shot and killed Joseph Rosatta, a Catholic, when he answered a knock on his door in the Old Park district of Belfast.

Police said the bodies of a young couple were found early Saturday in a stolen car in the Forth River district and the body of another man was discovered in the Liffey Street area later.

COVERING A VICTIM — British soldiers watch as policemen cover body of one of two soldiers killed in the bomb explosion at a bus depot in Belfast. Three civilians also died in the blast.

$3.5 Million UCCC Budget

STONE RIDGE — An increase of $237,679 over 1971-72 is called for in this year's Ulster County Community College budget which totals $3,503,667.

Ulster County's share of the budget is approximately 27.7 per cent, or $970,117, an increase of $123,430 over last year.

Dr. George B. Erbsstein, president of the college, termed it a "modest increase" and explained that part of the rise was due to the fact that for the first time full utilization of the physical plant will be achieved.

Erbsstein also attributed approximately $75,000 of the increase to monies for instructional equipment which in previous years had been included in a separate budget for which the county paid 50 per cent. The state paid the other 50 per cent.

State aid toward operating expenses for 1972-73 comes to $1,197,018, or approximately 34.1 per cent of the total budget. Increase in state aid over last year is $83,151.

The student share toward the budget is projected to be approximately the same as the county's, with recent tuition rises apparently giving a boost in that direction.

Tuition for full-time students has been raised $25 to $575 for 1972-73. Part-time students will pay $21 per credit hour, as compared with $18.50 last year. The remainder of the funds for the 1972-73 Community College budget will come from federal aid and other sources, including payment from other counties for their students which attend Ulster.

The largest portion of the total budget is earmarked for payment for instruction, with $1,613,197 going in that direction, an increase of $7,986 over 1971-72.

The greatest increase over last year's budget comes in the area of "general institutional service and expense." Budgeted for 1972-73 is $316,941, compared with $73,882 a year ago, which is generally attributable to transfers of items from other areas of the budget and the reasons mentioned by Erbsstein.

The greatest decrease from 1971-72 comes in the area of "general administration." A decrease of $40,670 to $245,887 shows up in this year's budget.

Modest decreases also are present under the general heading of "extension and public service," and "library" budgeted at $30,803 and $143,241 respectively.

An increase of approximately $23,000 is budgeted for "maintenance and operation of plant," with this year's total coming to $450,650.

"Student services" and "employee benefits" are scheduled for modest increases this year. They are budgeted at $212,507, and $491,341 respectively.

The Ulster County Legislature has set Thursday, July 27 as the date for a public meeting on the Community College budget.

Soviet Military Team Fast Leaving Egypt

CAIRO (UPI)—An Egyptian government spokesman said Saturday Soviet military advisers are leaving "fairly quickly" even though President Anwar Sadat set no deadline when he asked Moscow to call them home from Egypt.

At the same time, he said Egypt will continue to provide facilities for Soviet warships in the Mediterranean while denying there were any Russian bases on Egyptian territory.

(Arab diplomatic reports reaching Beirut from Cairo said Egyptians tricked Soviet military advisers into evacuating key installations by inviting them to a reception and then ordering Egyptian troops to occupy the sites. Other unconfirmed reports from the same sources said there were armed clashes between some lower echelon Russians and Egyptian troops but gave no details.)

Mohammed Hassan Zayyat, minister of information, said all Soviet military "advisers and counsellors" will leave Egypt but that a number of Soviet personnel training Egyptians in the use of advanced weapons would remain.

Zayyat also told a news conference the United States was not informed in advance of Sadat's decision to oust the advisers and hinted that statements by Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird on the developments were incorrect. Zayyat said there "is not one single base for the Soviet Union" on Egyptian territory.

"What we gave the Russians were facilities for water and the repair of their ships," he said. "They had these facilities and will continue to have them."

Zayyat said Egypt would provide "the same facilities to the Americans if they needed them—but they do not."

Asked about Laird's statements that the Soviets were removing their pilots and missilemen, Zayyat said the American defense secretary "has sources of information other than ours, but these sources were the reason of such catastrophes as the Bay of Pigs (in Cuba)."

Historical Society Efforts Show Results

Paltz Huguenot Street...Remarkable Showplace

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ Huguenot Street in New Paltz, "The Oldest Street in America with Its Original Houses," is the remarkable showplace that it is only because of the efforts of the Huguenot Historical Society, an organization nearly as remarkable as the street.

The society began in 1894, according to its present president and director, Kenneth E. Hasbrouck. It was dedicated to the preservation of antiquities and saving the houses. The society was quite active for 15 or 16 years, Hasbrouck says, and acquired a fine display of family memorabilia, bought the Jean Hasbrouck house to serve as a Memorial House, and put up the present monument. The society president also is historian for Ulster County. The society seemed to run out of steam after that. The older generation passed on, the younger generation was not so interested, and the membership, which probably reached a high as 250, began to slip. A world war, a depression, and another world war intervened. "A lot of smaller societies became sort of complacent," according to Hasbrouck. The complacency changed when Walter Hasbrouck became president and Kenneth Hasbrouck secretary-treasurer in 1948. The two Hasbroucks were only distantly related, but they shared a common interest in their Huguenot heritage. When they checked the society's membership rolls, recalls Kenneth Hasbrouck, they found that of the 150 listed members only about 40 or 50 were still living. A membership drive seemed to be in order.

It had quick results, and the membership grew to about 300. The membership is still growing, Hasbrouck says there are about 3,000 members now, "we get one or two nearly every day." The day before the Freeman interview with Hasbrouck, the society enrolled three new members, and Hasbrouck said the society had grown by about 500 in the last two years.

The first task of the newly revitalized society was to get its name changed. It was founded in 1894 as the Huguenot Patriotic Monumental Historical Society of New Paltz, New York, Inc. "People couldn't get all of that on a check," Hasbrouck noted. The words "Patriotic" and "Monumental," worthy though they might be, bowed to practicality.

The second task was the preservation of the irreplaceable documents, at the time housed in the rather unsuitable New Paltz town highway barn. A drive was made for a weather and fire proof vault, and the entire collection of documents which date from around 1660 and are in French, Dutch, a combination of both, or English, are now housed in the vault beneath the Jean Hasbrouck Memorial House.

Fortunately, many of the documents had been catalogued during the term of Franklin Delano Roosevelt when he was governor of New York State. "That was a good move," Hasbrouck observed.

An early society benefactor was the late Innis Young of Poughkeepsie, who, along with his sister Annette I. Young, became interested in the stone houses through Hasbrouck's book on them.

He donated furniture and funds for the restoration of the Memorial House ("It was a great mass of discommodation," Hasbrouck remembers) and donated Locust Lawn, an 1814 mansion built by Josiah Hasbrouck.

Locust Lawn is on Route 32 South, about four and one-half miles south of New Paltz, and it has been restored to its original condition. It was donated with all its furniture.

To purchase, maintain, and endow the stone houses on Huguenot Street, family organizations were formed

The Hasbrouck Family Association was first, in 1956. It purchased the Abraham Hasbrouck house, restored it, and nearly has its endowment completed.

The society bought the Freer House in 1955, with no money. It got a mortgage from the New Paltz Savings Bank (now the Inter-County Savings Bank), and borrowed $6,000 from the Jamison Foundation of the New Paltz Reformed Church. It was rented out for a time, and then the Freer-Low Family Association was formed in 1962. The association paid off the mortgage and the Jamison loan.

The Bevier-Elting House was donated by Elting family to the society in 1963, and is maintained by the Bevier-Elting Family Association.

The Deyo family bought the Deyo House, in which the society now has its main offices, in December, 1971. The association was formed in 1964.

The Crispell family, formed in 1966, had a goal of rebuilding the old French Church, and realized that goal this year. The DuBois family bought the Old Fort in 1966, the Lefevre family the 1799 House in 1967, and the Schoonmaker family intends to build the society a library.

The Gerow family maintains the Friend's Meeting House in Plattekill.

The society also owns the Old Blake House, which dated from 1818, at Libertyville, and has a bird sanctuary near Locust Lawn.

All of the family houses are owned by the society.

Hasbrouck estimated that about $500,000 had been spent on Huguenot Street. The money used for the restoration was spent, except in rare cases, locally. All of the funds came from society members.

You don't have to be a Huguenot descendant to join the society, Hasbrouck said anyone interested in the society's aims is welcome.

New Paltz' annual Stone House Day will be held Aug. 5 this year. All who attend Stone House Day or come any day but a Monday, can see the results of private individuals' dedication to history and their heritage.

Seminar...Still Openings

NEW PALTZ The Seminar devoted to local and county history of the five counties (Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Sullivan and Greene) sponsored by the Huguenot Historical Society, New Paltz, is still open to a limited number of people who are interested in Mid-Hudson area history. take advantage of portions of

It is possible for people to the Seminar as they wish. Town Historians, county historians, librarians and research personnel will be available to lecture and give advice to those who are interested in genealogy, local history, county history, or other phases of the excellent resources being made available.

The program begins Sunday, July 30. A reception will be held at Deyo House, Huguenot Street at 7:30 for all those who have enrolled.

On Monday, the day will be devoted to material from the five counties. A general history of the counties will be given in lecture form, followed by the research procedures necessary for results in the various areas.

Tuesday will be devoted to touring historical landmarks, followed by a dinner at Lake Mohonk in the evening. Mrs. Harry Clark Boden IV will be the principal speaker. Her topic will be Hereditary Societies in the United States.

Wednesday will be spent in learning about material of the five counties in lectures, followed by question periods supervised by the county historians. People who have had years of experience in historical research will be present.

Thursday is Town Historian's Day. The five counties will be represented by the people of various areas that will be able to explain the resources in their towns.

Friday will be devoted to the resources in the county clerk's offices and the main libraries in the five counties.

On Saturday, members of the Seminar will be guests for Stone House Day at New Paltz.

Any person who wishes to have further information, may call or write Seminar, Huguenot Historical Society, New Paltz, P.O. Box 339, New Paltz, New York 12561.

Browsing at KAL...

By BEATRICE BERGER HAVE FODOR'S, WILL TRAVEL...

While browsing at the Kingston Area Library, I noticed a collection of FODOR'S GUIDES to faraway places neatly stacked on an uppermost shelf. Having a wanderlust soul, I randomly selected some books to look at, and carried them to an oversized oak table in one of the large, book-lined rooms.

It was library quiet, except for the intruding sound of my thumped-down books, the squeaky-sliding of my chair, and the soft-rustling movements of this reader settling into place.

"Which one?" I thought as I quickly scanned the titles: "France?" "Greece?" "Israel?" "Germany?" "Japan?"

I casually reached for Greece and aimlessly flipped the pages for a cursory view of the contents: photographs, illustrations, and a colorful atlas flicked by. Almost willfully, the pages settled at the opening chapter, "Facts At Your Fingertips." I scanned the pointers on How to Plan Your Trip, When to Go, Where to Go, What It Will Cost, Off-Season Travel, and just about everything you need to know to travel abroad.

The title, "The Greek Way of Life" intrigued me, so I settled more firmly in my seat and launched into the next chapter.

I learned that the Greeks are possibly the most talkative, probably the most social, and certainly one of the most hospitable people in Europe. Honoring an ancient tradition of gracious hospitality to strangers, their warm welcome is typical of a country where the word for foreigners (xeinos) is still used with respect. There are tales of poor villagers slaughtering a kid or a lamb in honor of the tourist, thus elevating him to Olympian status.

The place where one can really get to know these openhearted, frank, and generous people is in the Greek Kafeneion, which is a cross between a living room, an office, a reading room, a club and a gambling casino. Over a thimbleful of Turkish coffee and a large glass of water, the Greeks will spend hours in endless discussions of politics, of books, and of life, true to the saying: "The cafe is where the heart is; home is just a place to sleep."

Enter the cafe, and they will approach you directly. (There is no word for standoffish in the Greek language.) American? Where are you staying? How much are you paying for your room? Are you married or single? How much do you make? "Come back tomorrow night" is the gracious invitation that usually ends the first meeting, and your new Greek friends will probably call you by your first name the next time you meet.

Now, absorbed by the Greek scene, I purposefully read on to "Shopping in Athens" where I learned that antiques and local handicrafts are the items the traveler is recommended to buy in Greece, and was advised to start the shopping tour in the Monastiraki area where the antique dealers are concentrated. While there, tourists always visit picturesque Pan-drossos Street because the shopkeepers or their assistants know most of the foreign languages and here one is able to bargain to the heart's content.

A shadow fell across the table. I glanced at my watch. It was time to go. Determined to continue with my "voyage" to faraway lands, I picked up the books, carried them to the librarian's desk, and handed her my card.

"Planning a trip?" asked Mrs. Lehr.

"I was just in Greece," I said jokingly.

So whichever way you plan to travel — by plane, ship, or armchair — read FODOR'S GUIDES for complete factual information and delightful reading. It is all that it is stacked up to be.

Esopus Town...New Private School

By JON POWERS

ESOPUS A new private school for children with learning disabilities will open its doors in September in the Town of Esopus.

The Millstream School will be located on the site of the former McLaren School in Esopus, although the operation of the new facility will in no way be connected to the old McLaren School.

Extensive renovation of the historic site is now underway to prepare the school for its projected September opening. Administration, classroom and dormitory buildings are being painted and rehabilitated.

When the Millstream School opens in September, it is expected to accommodate 60 residential and 40 day-time students. The school's administration is currently in the process of interviewing teachers for the estimated 15-20 instructional positions that will be filled.

The new academic facility was recently granted a provisional charter by the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York.

Supervising the operation of the new school will be Col. John W. Lafko (USAF Ret.), who will serve as executive director. He explained that the school will provide special education for students in grades one through six, encompassing ages six to 14.

"Our main objective at The Millstream School," said Col. Lafko, "is to provide a total program of special education tailored to meet the needs of the individual student and in a healthy home-like environment." He added that emphasis will be placed on the development of reading skills so that students will be prepared to handle more complex subject matter later in their education.

Lafko said that he expects that a majority of the 40 daytime, or commuter, students will come from the Kingston and Ulster County area; many of the residential students will come from New York City, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

"Our aim is to help the child with average or above average academic potential who has been failing in a competitively graded school system, and is unable to keep pace with his contemporaries because of learning difficulty or learning disability in the perceptual language or arithmetic skills," said Col. Lafko.

"We intend to provide special tutorial guidance to meet student needs," Col. Lafko continued, "to give this instruction in relatively small classes and in a home-like environment best suited to the needs and requirements of each student."

Lafko explained why he felt tutorial education is a necessity: "In our growing society, the American child is confronted with an ever-increasing demand for educational excellence. His success in secondary and advanced schooling is increasingly important if he is to achieve his legitimate goals and aims in life. The child who can read, spell and compose easily is basically well-equipped to advance in meeting these demands, but any child who has difficulty with the basic language arts is destined to inevitably suffer many classroom defeats and frustrations, if not educational disaster."

The Millstream School will operate as a non-profit organization under the direction of a Board of Trustees, made up of both laymen and professional educators. A professional advisory board, said Col. Lafko, "will insure the highest quality of educational and consulting staff excellence."

The school has already retained a Consultant in Special Education. He is Ronald C. Brown, an educational diagnostician with the Clinical Education Service, an executive assistant with the National Committee on governmental Affairs and a member of the National Association for Children with Learning Disabilities.

While with the Air Force, Col. Lafko was responsible for the regulation and standardization of 52 special schools in 12 states. A native of the Hudson Valley, he most recently lived in Washington, D. C. He will also serve as business manager of the school.

The Millstream School will be located on the site of the former Payne Whitney estate off Route 9W six miles south of Kingston. The campus area covers nine acres, and includes a large fieldstone mansion that will be used as an administration building. Other buildings will be used as student dormitories. The property also includes a large gymnasium and dining hall.

Married house parents will live at the school to supervise the non-academic activities of the students.

Lafko said that the school will respond to the "conservative" families in the Hudson Valley area, and will emphasize traditional educational values and discipline. Admission enquiries should be directed immediately to The Millstream School, P.O. Box 231, Kingston.

THE MILLSTREAM CAMPUS—The nine-acre campus of the new Millstream School in Esopus is undergoing extensive rehabilitation this month in preparation for the estimated 100 students who will enter the private boarding and day-time school in September. Some of the 60 residential students will live in the dormitory building shown in top photo; the old fieldstone mansion in the bottom photo is part of a complex that will serve as administration center, library and classroom building. The campus also includes a large gymnasium, dining hall and additional dormitories. It is located on the site of the former Payne Whitney estate just off Route 9W. The Millstream School will emphasize the education of elementary students who have learning disabilities; a staff of between 15-20 teachers will provide the instruction. (Freeman photos by Haines)

Children's Parade Wednesday

KINGSTON Fantasyland Comes to Kingston will be the theme of the 10-division sixth annual Children's Day parade scheduled for next Wednesday night July 26, according to Ron Gabriele, director of summer activities for the Kingston Recreation Department.

Marchers will step off at 7 o'clock after assembling in the parking lot in the rear of Kingston High School. Groups participating have been requested to meet in that area between 6:15 and 6:30 p.m.

The parade will proceed up Broadway, right at Governor Clinton Hotel, up Clinton Avenue and into the Kingston Shopping Plaza area. Units will disband on the far side of Britt's store in the Plaza.

A judge's stand will be located in front of the Governor Clinton Hotel deciding on trophies to be awarded winners in the following categories:

Best senior band, best junior band, best appearing float, best appearing unit and the best appearing playground. Trophy awards will be made at the Plaza.

Following are units participating in the 10-division parade:

LILLIAN SALAPATIS

REV. DAVID C. GAISE

Two More Key Posts for '73 United

KINGSTON The 1973 Campaign Cabinet of the United Way of Ulster County took a step closer to completion today when two more community leaders were appointed to key campaign posts.

Campaign Chairman, Alfred J. Brocco, announced the appointments of the Rev. David C. Gaise as chairman of the Ecclesiastical Division and Mrs. Lillian Salapatis as chairman of the fund-raising division. In making the announcement, Brocco said the organizational structure of the 1973 Campaign team is gradually taking shape, and I am more confident than ever that our campaign goal of $404,000 will be reached."

The Rev. Mr. Gaise has been pastor of Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer since 1947. Active in community affairs, he is vice-president of the Kingston Area Council of Churches, secretary of the Ulster County Mental Health Board and a member of the Kingston Kiwanis Club.

Mrs. Salapatis, of 25 Harding Avenue, is a graduate of Washington Irving High School in New York City and Morant's Business School in Kingston.

She has been active in community life for many years, serving with the American Cancer Society as chairman for two years, and in various capacities with the Ulster County Republican Party. She was named Woman of the year in 1968 by the Young Republicans of the county. She is a member of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, Mental Health Association, Ulster County Women's Republican Club, Federation of Women's Club, and American Legion Auxiliary, Tillson Post. She is a member of St. Joseph's Church, and represents Social Services in Ulster County.

The United Way Campaign commences Sept. 13, with more than 800 volunteers expected to meet the minimal requirements of its fifteen member agencies.

Early Danger Signals

The Alcoholic...Symptoms

(This is the third article in a series sponsored by the Ulster County Association for Mental Health researched and written to inform the people of Ulster County about the problems of alcohol abuse.)
By PATRICIA W. VAN NESS

In the first article the alcoholic was defined as a person whose drinking regularly or continuously interferes with his home life, his job, his relationship with his friends and his health. This means that the alcoholic is using a depressant drug—alcohol—in order to deal with his primary interpersonal relationships. This may not in fact be obvious to those persons involved, for the alcoholic does a fantastic job of deluding others as well as himself. That is why recognizing the early symptoms is so essential and difficult.

Alcoholics begin as social drinkers and the clues to their incipient illness are very hard to detect. They use alcohol, as do many other persons, as a means of relaxing, but they also experience a rewarding relief from tensions and anxiety. They find excuses to "have a few," and as their relief drinking continues, greater amounts are needed for the desired lift. Sedation, if ever, they are intoxicated—their symptom is their need. They have to drink in order to be social and are therefore not social drinkers. This stage may last from 1 to 10 years.

The early, symptomatic stage has an obvious, significant danger signal: Warning—blackout. This is simply amnesia for an event that occurred under the influence of alcohol and cannot be recalled even when described in detail by others present. The alcoholic has not passed out, or even been heavily intoxicated, he just can't remember.

At this point a number of symptoms begin to surface, though it will take a perceptive person to notice them. The alcoholic increasingly uses alcohol as a persistent means of solving his problems, and it becomes an important element in planning his activities. "Will there be drinks?" becomes a basic concern. Now the frequent drinking spree, heavy drinking, and drunkenness become evident as he defies the drinking standards of his primary groups. An obsessive craving sets in, he sneaks drinks, he needs a drink at definite periods of the day to gain courage. He reacts with guilt and anxiety and loses control of his drinking behavior. Family, friends and boss now become critical, but he excuses himself to them, and deludes himself by blaming them for driving him to drink. This stage also lasts anywhere from 1 to 10 years.

By the time he has reached the second, or crucial phase, he has become an uncontrolled compulsive drinker and is suffering from the illness of alcoholism. He begins drinking in the morning to cure the hangover and the shakes which is the beginning phase of withdrawal effects — "D.D.T.'s" or delirium tremens. He goes on extended benders and in remorse makes elaborate plans to "go on the wagon" which he is incapable of accomplishing. His social life has now become association with other alcoholics, his family has disintegrated and he has probably lost his job. For him the only important matter is the protection of his supply. He begins to suffer physical symptoms beyond the pain of hangover — polyneuropathy and vitamin deficiencies, and becomes very susceptible to pneumonia and emphysema. He may also become paranoid. This is a progressive stage lasting about 2 to 5 years.

The chronic or third stage describes what we usually think of as an alcoholic — he lives to drink and drinks to live. His emotional responses are abnormal, his thinking is impaired and though not basically dishonest, he will do anything to keep his supply. It's at this stage that delirium tremens set in if he doesn't have a drink and they can be fatal. He develops severe cirrhosis of the liver, which will be fatal unless treated immediately, or he becomes insane. These crucial and chronic stages can be avoided if the symptoms of early alcoholism are recognized by the alcoholic.

Perhaps this list of questions will be helpful to someone:

Do you take a drink the first thing in the morning?

Do you drink alone?

Do you feel the necessity for a drink at a definite time of the day?

Do you have blackouts or periods of amnesia?

Do you go on frequent drinking sprees?

Do you miss time from work or duties as a result of drinking?

Do you deny you are drinking?

Do you have periods of remorse following drinking sprees?

Do you start promising not to drink the way you have?

Do you begin to lie about your drinking?

Do you find yourself beginning to gulp drinks while other people drink slowly?

Do you take a drink before going out to a party where you know there will be drinking?

Do you space your drinks, or try to space them, and always fail?

Do you find excuses for drinking, or excuses for celebrating?

Do you feel the necessity for a pick-me-up, which must be alcoholic?

Do you take a drink to settle your nerves?

If the answer to only a few of these questions is yes, then you may be an alcoholic.

Alcoholism is a curable disease. Where to get help will be the subject of the next article.

Camp Wendy for Girl Scouts... Room for July 30 Session

KINGSTON Ninety-two campers completed their first week of resident camp at the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts' Camp Wendy near Wallkill July 15. Hikes, cookouts, rowing, canoeing, swimming were highlights of their week.

A second group of girls arrived Sunday, July 16, and will stay for two weeks. The longer session will allow campers more opportunities to develop skills in backpacking, canoe trips, and horsemanship.

There are still openings for the July 30 to Aug. 12 session. Operating concurrently will be a one-week session on Aug. 6-12 which was not in the original schedule, but was added to accommodate girls wishing to attend one week for whom there was no space July 9-15. There are openings for both one and two-week campers, no experience is required and non-members are welcome. Interested parents or girls should call the Girl Scout office, 411 Washington Avenue, for further information.

Serving on the Camp Wendy Staff are:

program director. Waterfront Staff includes Nancy Nitschke, Saugerties; Linda Bartow, New Paltz; Joann Grieco, Kingston. Troop leaders include Kathleen Powers, Port Ewen; Carol Weiss, Basking Ridge, N.J.; Judy Hill, Temple, Pa.; Cherie Richards, Brick Township, N.J.; Ellen Sherry, Kingston; Kathleen Melber, Saugerties; Judith Hansen, Kingston; Cynthia Holliday, New Paltz; Maureen Fagen, Kingston. Kitchen Staff members are Gail Goff, North Chili, N.Y.; Mary Cornwell, New Paltz and Stephen Dailey, Newburgh.

The swimming pool, which was started in June, is showing progress, but completion has been delayed by the rain. In addition to activities at Camp Wendy, 80 girls started two weeks of day camping at Camp Katrina. Mrs. John Murdoch is camp director. Katrina is located on the Harry and Marie Siemsen's farm on Sawkill Road. The girls arrive in buses at 9:30 a.m. and leave at 3:30 p.m. Program includes campcraft, nature hikes and crafts, an overnight, and other activities planned by troops and camper's council.

Two other day camps are scheduled for next month:

Indian Valley. Camp will be held in the Kerhonkson-Ellenville area Aug. 7-11. Mrs. David Ennis will be the camp director. Singing Pines Day Camp, Mrs. Harry Foster, director, will be held on the Camp Wendy campsite near Wallkill Aug. 14-17.

Mental Health Report... Significant Funding Word

The Ulster County Association for Mental Health has been informed of a most significant development in funding services under the New York State Community Mental Health Services Law, which will benefit not only the Ulster County Mental Health Center, but also the Mental Health Contract Agencies in the county in respect of those services which they provide under contract with the Ulster County Mental Health Board. These agencies are: Association for Retarded Children, Benedictine Hospital, Gateway Industries, Southern Ulster Mental Health Clinic, and the Ulster County Association for Mental Health.

A broader range of community and state services for the mentally disabled are now eligible for 75 per cent reimbursement of their program costs by the federal government the Social Security Act.

As a result of work recently completed by an interagency task force which included representatives of the Department of Mental Hygiene, New York State has amended its social services plan to broaden the base of services eligible for federal reimbursement.

Taking advantage of titles IV-A and VI, amendments to the U.S. Social Security Act, the Department of Mental Hygiene, through the Department of Social Services, is applying to the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for 75 per cent reimbursement of costs of operating a range of services.

The request for reimbursement is based on the interpretation of these services as social in purpose, contributing to the effort of preventing disabled people from becoming dependent upon public assistance.

The Gallup Poll...Mc Starts Out Same as Humphrey in '68 Campaign

By GEORGE GALLUP
Copyright, 1972,
Field Enterprises, Inc.
PRINCETON, N. J.
Sen. George McGovern, 1972 Democratic nominee, starts his presidential campaign trailing President Nixon by about the same margin that Sen. Hubert Humphrey trailed Nixon following the Democratic convention in 1968.

In a survey conducted immediately following the Miami convention, Senator McGovern is found to trail President Richard Nixon by 14 percentage points, 32 to 46 per cent, with 18 per cent going to Gov.

George Wallace, a possible third party candidate.
By way of comparison, a three-way trial heat taken following the Democratic convention in 1968 showed Humphrey trailing Nixon by 12 percentage points, 31 to 43 per cent, with Wallace winning 19 per cent of the vote at that time.

Since many political observers do not expect Wallace to run again this year, the latest trial heats also matched only Nixon and McGovern.
This two-way test shows

Nixon widening his lead with Wallace not in the race — from 14 points to 19 points, with Wallace supporters choosing Nixon over McGovern by a bout a 2-to-1 ratio.
Senator McGovern has registered no immediate gains over his pre-convention standing. Similarly, Senator Humphrey in 1968 did not get a significant boost from the 1968 convention and improved his vote only marginally, as determined by Gallup Poll trial heats at the time.

While McGovern currently trails Nixon by a wide margin —as Humphrey did in 1968—

he can take encouragement from the fact that, as 36 years of polling history have shown, the wide lead of a front-runner early in a campaign typically

The race in 1968 is, of course, a perfect example. Humphrey started slowly following the convention that year, but gained momentum in October and almost succeeded in overtaking Nixon by the time of the election.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 23, 1972

WASHINGTON — In their first comment on the U.S. presidential campaign, the North Vietnamese have informed us they expect President Nixon to win re-election, but they would prefer to deal with George McGovern.

From their Paris embassy, North Vietnamese spokesmen have sent us an exclusive message that they feel sure McGovern would pull U.S. troops out of Vietnam as he has promised. They also believe he would keep his word not to give more military backing to the Saigon regime.

They, therefore, not only would negotiate the POW issue with McGovern, but they would move fast, suggested one North Vietnamese diplomat, to return American prisoners.

But the North Vietnamese conceded, in the end, they probably will have to negotiate with a re-elected Richard Nixon. They couldn't afford therefore, to place all their bets on McGovern, they said.

Hanoi's views on the election were delivered to us by an emissary who met with them for a total of four and one-half hours. For diplomatic reasons, we agreed to withhold the names of the participants.

All the discussions were held in French, so we can only paraphrase what the North Vietnamese said. Their suspicion of Nixon seemed almost paranoid, their trust in McGovern wary.

Nixon Paranoia
They recited Nixon's record back to his 1953-61 term as vice president when he made saber-rattling speeches about Indochina. Nevertheless, they were ready to negotiate with Nixon in 1971, they said, for the total withdrawal of U.S. forces and the immediate return of U.S. prisoners.

But the rigged re-election of President Thieu on October 1 and the escalated bombing of North Vietnam a few days later, they said exacerbated their old suspicions of Nixon. Now they feared Nixon would listen to Thieu's appeals for renewed U.S. intervention in the Vietnam War. As evidence, they cited the build-up of U.S. forces in neighboring Thailand and the increase in air-naval units around Vietnam.

The Communist diplomats said they trusted McGovern, if he should be elected, not to reintervene in the war. But one diplomat suggested they would make rapid arrangements with McGovern to return American prisoners so he would have no excuse to reintervene.

The North Vietnamese said they would make an accounting of U.S. missing, insofar as possible, at the same time a POW settlement is reached.

The 60 to 100 Americans held by the Communist forces in Laos, the North Vietnamese said, could be returned as part of a general U.S. agreement to withdraw from Indochina. They said the Americans held in Cambodia could also be returned as part of a general Indochina settlement.

A Cambodian Communist, who was present during the discussions, said the American prisoners in Cambodia are suspected CIA agents and special forces, not combat troops captured during the U.S. incursion of May 1970.

Bombing of Dikes
The North Vietnamese were particularly emotional over the alleged American bombing of the dikes, which they pleaded could lead to two million deaths from drowning and starvation.

We have seen secret Pentagon documents which substantiate the U.S. claim that the Red River dikes and dams are off limits to our bombers. The documents indicate, however, that some flood-control installations have been hit accidentally, because of the close proximity of military targets.

The North Vietnamese explained to our emissary that they had bolstered the hillsides above the dams and dikes with trees, grass and underbrush. The torrential rains last year eroded these natural barriers. Thus, U.S. bombs exploding near the dikes jar the weakened bulwarks and cause severe leaks.

Some roads also run directly on top of dikes, they said. A combination of air raids, defoliation and artificial rain-making, they feared, could turn their flood-control system into a huge mudslide.

Footnote: Intelligence reports suggest that Moscow and Peking, unlike Hanoi, would prefer to deal with Richard Nixon than George McGovern. The reason, apparently, is that they feel more comfortable with the known Nixon than the unknown McGovern.

Appeal to Pope
Three priests imprisoned in Brazil's dread Sao Paulo penitentiary have smuggled out a letter to Pope Paul begging him to intervene against the torturing of political prisoners by Brazilian authorities.

The priests' letter, dated June 29, said they had fasted 21 days in protest against "atrocious tortures" that have killed more than 200 Brazilians. Although the priests claim they and hundreds of others are political prisoners, they have been thrown into common cells with rapists, murderers and other hardened criminals.

In their signed letter to the Pope, the three priests begged him to "pray for us, because we need your prayers very much. . . . We ask you with humility to intercede for the political prisoners of Sao Paulo and Brazil; in this dramatic moment, in the way that Your Holiness judges most suitable."

A copy of the letter was smuggled out to us through American friends of the three priests.

Hanoi Watching Campaign

Freeman Editorials

The New Breed

Not only has the Democratic Party gone back to the Great Plains for a Populist and an idealist in the mold of Williams Jennings Bryan for its candidate for President, Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, it has also taken the first step to remodel itself for the future. As one young delegate said on the floor of the convention, "People like me are going to own the Democratic Party in 1976."

McGovern saw his New Breed, as he calls his young followers, capturing the party along with him, when he offered the full facilities of his machine to Democratic candidates "from court house to Congress." It was smart politics, for the New Breed must be kept busy and enthusiastic if McGovern is to take firm control of the party establishment and put it to his own use in the November election.

Of course, McGovern was bidding for votes and also to make peace with the establishment and bind together friends and former foes within the party for the hardest part of all, the campaign against President Nixon.

McGovern had put together an eager, skilled and highly efficient team of young people who comprised a political machine, the likes of which had not been seen since Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal coalition. There will be a rest before the hard drive for votes begins again. McGovern has filled the void for his people with his call for them to remain active and carry his "politics of change" back to all grass-roots levels.

In both the primary and nonprimary states, the party's McGovern-made reform rules made possible the New Breed machine. His supporters did the work that produced the votes in the primaries. Adroit skill packed the local and district caucuses in the non-primary states to dominate delegate selection. The sum of these efforts was the amazing total of first vote delegates that put McGovern over.

Many of the establishment, hundreds and hundreds of elected officials, from Speaker Carl Albert, usually the powerful permanent chairman, to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, were on the sidelines looking in. The New Breed had shooed them away. The question now is, will the Old Pros continue to sit out the election in order to regain their status, or will they "go to the aid of the party?"

Slowdown on Crime

Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst's announcement that serious crime rose but one percentage point in this first quarter, over the same period last year won the accolade from President Nixon that "it is the best news yet on the crime front." For it was the lowest percentage of gain in 11 years; the climax of the crime fighting campaign that the administration launched four years ago.

During the 1968 campaign, Nixon hammered away at Democrats for their "laxness in lowering the crime rate." Now, he feels, he has performed the impossible by lowering the crime rate and making good his pledge to control "crime in the streets."

Of course, the crime rate is still going up. But this rise of one percentage compares very favorably with the 6 per cent rise for the same period last year, 13 per cent in 1970, and 10 per cent in 1969. In the days before this anti-crime drive—1960 to 1968—the increase totaled 122 per cent.

The FBI report lists the 10 most populous cities, in order of their crime reduction, as: New York, Detroit, Chicago, Washington, Baltimore, Dallas, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Houston and Philadelphia. Nixon sent the mayors of each of these cities wires congratulating them on their performances. That they are cities which a presidential candidate wants in his corner this fall does not reduce the value of their accomplishment.

AGNEW ON LEGAL SERVICES—At the Texas Bar Association convention in Houston, Vice President Agnew soundly took the Federal Legal Services program to task again. He said that its lawyers disregard individual poor clients in order to aid publishers of underground newspapers, antiwar activists, and professional welfarists who want laws changed to favor themselves. These lawyers are paid to help the poor.

Soviet Problems Grow

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Egypt's expulsion of Soviet advisors has brought into the headlines difficulties that Moscow has been running into throughout the Middle East recently.

—First, Numbers of Arabs are becoming disillusioned economically.

At the start, Arab leaders had magnificent dreams of what Soviet assistance would bring. As is now evident, this prosperity is not working out. The reaction is strong.

Worse yet, the Arabs are finding that when they buy goods from the Soviet Union under Moscow aid agreements, they frequently pay 15 to 25 per cent more than on Western world markets. They're learning that what they sell to the U.S.S.R. under these aid arrangements often nets them 10 to 15 per cent less than they could get elsewhere.

—Second, Despite some considerable caution in Moscow, the Soviet Union is finding itself more and more embroiled in inter-Arab rivalries and ambitions.

If Moscow takes either side in these quarrels, it makes enemies of the opposition. If it doesn't favor either, it makes enemies of both.

The Russians lost ground in Morocco when they sided with Algeria in the border war between these two nations. Moscow has weakened its influence in Iraq by its on-again, off-again backing of Kurdish minority groups in that country.

The U.S.S.R. is now faced with a most difficult decision on how to act in the Iraq-Iran quarrel over influence in the Persian Gulf.

—Third, There's the problem of Arab Communist parties. If Moscow backs these local Red groups, their intrigues can put egg on the Kremlin's face, as did the aborted Red-supported coup in the Sudan last summer. In these cases, Russia loses influence with a government whose friendship it needs.

But if Moscow fails to back the local Communists, as is true more often than not of late, then Russia loses control of these undergrounds and forfeits to some extent to China its position as world-wide leader of the Communist movement.

Peking has been taking advantage of this Soviet dilemma, stepping in with propaganda, comfort, technical advice and some training and a little money in order to pick up those Middle East Communist groups Russia alienates. All of which makes the Soviet task more difficult.

As a result of these Soviet problems, prospects for some U.S.-Russian agreement on the Middle East are becoming brighter. And the possibilities for a more normal relationship between the United States and the Arab lands may be in the cards.

The decision by Yemen to improve its contacts with Washington may be a tipoff of things to come.

Martin F. Nolan Says

Shades of General Custer

WASHINGTON — George McGovern has fallen upon a heavily symbolic dateline for the origin of news about his ruminations in the Black Hills. The town just leaps off the map and into the imagination—CUSTER, South Dakota.

The earlier George was a long-haired general, an elitist whose singular trait — and fatal flaw — was single-mindedness with missionary zeal. One can just see Sitting Bull in the White House waiting for the current George to lead his 7th Cavalry troop into the Little Big Horn of radicalism.

The Custer context also provides a framework for the process afoot in the McGovern campaign right now: the night of the long knives. Some of the faithful aides-de-camp will be left behind in Washington during the campaign. New faces appear at the general's side; others depart.

When McGovern took off for his Sylvan Lake resort he took with him just two staff companions, two tattered Indian fighters, Richard Dougherty and Frederick G. Dutton.

Dick Dougherty is officially the press secretary for the campaign, approximately the 13th man to hold that title. But he is also, as he described himself on arrival in 1971, a "professional eminence grise." A former reporter for the Los Angeles Times and New York Herald Tribune, Dougherty is sort of an up-town leprechaun, an unflappable spokesman with a novelist's eye, a bartender's disposition and a policeman's heart. Dougherty used to be press spokesman for the New York City Police Department, tough-enough training for his current chores.

Fred Dutton is harder to explain. A former Assistant Secretary of State, a member of the Board of Regents of the University of California, a successful lawyer, he is nonetheless one of the least pretentious men in politics. Dutton has no title in the campaign and seeks none. A former Robert Kennedy intimate, he drifted into the campaign during the California primary and has never left McGovern's side.

Dutton represents the theories of the new politics and the tactics of the old. His advice is valued by McGovern and unlike his other RFK colleague, Frank Mankiewicz, Dutton is seldom photographed and interviewed. Dutton's mastery of registration facts and figures led McGovern to make voter registration the keystone of the fall campaign. If anyone is the ranking grey eminence of the campaign, Dutton is.

Mankiewicz will also travel with the candidate, complete with sardonic wit and sound publicity instincts. The son of Herman Mankiewicz who wrote "Citizen Kane," Frank knows as much about camera angles as does Orson Welles.

McGovern's "brain trust" of Gordon Weil and John Holm will stay in Washington, apparently to guard the computers that delivered up the candidate's defense and welfare programs. A former McGovern "bodyguard," Weil is a brittle economist and express secretary who prided himself on being the naysayer during the primaries. His advice during the fall election will apparently be given long distance.

When any candidate talks about "broadening his base," it's a good bet that his aides are trying to narrow access to the man himself. Newcomers are as welcome as braves from another tribe and must endure a gantlet of hostility until the candidate himself confers the magic touch.

The McGovern platoon in South Dakota, like its 19th century counterpart under George Armstrong Custer, waits in the wilderness. The echoes of the 7th Cav's theme, "Garry Owen," must sound like taps. And none of them knows whether the next arrow comes from one of their own men.

Yoakum's Hokum

3d Man at Debate

By ROBERT YOAKUM

Now that the Democrats have nominated their man, the cast is complete. And I know what the autumn will be like for me: There I am — in this dream — sitting between Nixon and McGovern. I am the third man in a televised debate of the kind that the Democratic nominee wants to have with President Nixon. I am terrified.

I know what it's going to be like because I've been through it before. Asleep, I am a regular participant in events of this kind.

During the California primary, for example, when McGovern debated Hubert Humphrey, my restless nights were filled with endless preparations, briefings by my staff, suggestions pouring in from well-wishers, ministrations by make-up artists, and the agonizing hour of grilling before millions of television viewers.

Anyway, there I am, sandwiched between Nixon and McGovern. Frank Reynolds of ABC appears to be the sole interrogator. He's very businesslike, almost brusque.

"We'll begin with you, Mr. Yoakum. I'd like to quote something from a speech you made before the Economics Committee of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce on February 29, 1957"

"There wasn't any February 29th in 1957," I say, surprised at the computer-like agility of my memory. But Reynolds is clearly not pleased.

"May I go on?"

"Of course."

"In February of 1957 you said that — and I quote — 'The Federal Reserve should supervise the aggregates as much as they do the money supply, the money supply plus time deposits other than large certificates of deposit, the credit proxies like Euro-dollar borrowings, and reserves available to support private deposits.' Now, given this view, Mr. Yoakum, can we assume you think that some firming up in short-term interest rates is inevitable?"

"Are you sure I said that?" I ask, trying to remember anything at all from my class in Economics I.

"According to the Boston papers, that's exactly what you said."

"I see. Well, golly, I wonder whether it wouldn't be fairer to give one of the other gentlemen a crack at that one first." I nod, with what I hope looks like a generous smile, toward Nixon and McGovern.

"No," replies a different, harsher voice. Suddenly our inquisitor is Lawrence Spivak, of NBC's "Meet the Press."

"No, Mr. Yoakum," says Spivak. "I'd like to hear your answer first. To repeat: 'If you decide to withdraw from the race, which of these two gentlemen would you support?'"

Oh-ho, I thought: A new interrogator; a new question. A new ball game. Good.

No, not good. Either answer is certain to infuriate one of my fellow debaters for the rest of the program, which has scarcely begun.

"Do I have to say it right here in front of everyone?" I ask. "Couldn't I whisper it to you?"

"No," says Spivak, in that pinched nasal voice of his. "You have to say it out loud right here."

"George Herman!" I say in surprise, since that's the CBS anchorman who has just replaced NBC's Spivak as moderator.

"I'm not running," replies Herman, "so you can't avoid the question by naming me. Now, Mr. Yoakum, if we can get an answer to the question"

Suddenly — a way out! I remember a congressman saying that the best exit from a political quagmire is by way of a patriotic quotation.

"Hold!" I cry, groping frantically for a stirring phrase. The cameras had begun to turn toward President Nixon, but now they wheel back toward me. If it's good enough, I tell myself, I'll not only stave off disaster but I'll pick up votes. Nixon and McGovern lean forward.

"The world will little note nor long remember what we do here, but it can never forget what we say here. Uh, I mean, ask not what you can do for your country; ask what it can do for you." I feel everything slipping away — the election, my political career, my friends, perhaps even my family. "The only thing we need not fear is fear itself."

I hear a snicker. It's decent George McGovern!

I hear a chuckle. It's staid Richard Nixon!

Then the camera crew, the people in the control booth, and all three inquisitors (Reynolds and Spivak have reappeared), begin to laugh. So do McGovern and Nixon. So, presumably, do tens of millions of television viewers.

What happens next is even more embarrassing because it happens after I awake. In a desperate attempt to save a shred of self-esteem, I rework the whole dream so that it appears I was deliberately being funny. After all, has anyone else in the world made McGovern or Nixon laugh out loud — not to mention Lawrence Spivak?

Mr. Douglass Bartow Manager
Ulster County Fair
U.C. Agricultural Society, Inc.,
112 Huguenot Street
New Paltz, N.Y. 12561

Dear Mr. Bartow:

Thank you so much for your letter of June 14th, concerning the 'greased pig-catching contest' in this year's Ulster County Fair.

The Directors of the Ulster County S.P.C.A. feel quite strongly — as last year's protests must have made clear — that there must be some other form of amusement for the children than that of chasing a greased pig.

Surely your governing Committee is able to think up educational forms of amusement for the children, of a more humane character, rather than promote this most inhumane demonstration.

There is absolutely no comparison, as you well know, between showing dogs, horses, and cattle, and allowing a frightened pig to be greased and then chased by a group of screaming children. Whether the pig is injured or not, it certainly is frightened for its life. If it wasn't it wouldn't run — so there could be no contest between the children and the pig. If a horse or dog were chased and frightened at an early age, it very well could take months or even years to bring the animal's temperament back to normal. You see I was brought up with dogs and horses, and I have worked with dogs (training) for a number of years.

I know that the 'greased pig-catching contest' has become traditional in County Fairs, but couldn't our ULSTER COUNTY FAIR COMMITTEE stand out as a leader in omitting this cruelty from the usual program of entertainment?

Of course, pigs do have an unfortunate future, but I cannot think of any practical reason for making their short stay on earth any more unpleasant than necessary.

I am speaking for the entire Board of Directors of the Ulster County S.P.C.A. when I say that our Society is against any inhumane form of amusement, and that of the 'greased pig-catching contest' in particular.

We are, after all, a HUMANE SOCIETY devoted to the PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

Sincerely,
Mrs. James H. Stoutenburgh

Albany Avenue

Editor, The Freeman:

It's happened again! The residents of Albany Avenue have lost another round in the fight to save the last few blocks from becoming rezoned commercial.

Last year the State threatened us with the widening of the street. Their plan (which was available for perusal if one had perseverance, at the regional office of the State Department of Transportation Office in Poughkeepsie) was to give us curbs, gutters, and storm sewers, since the whole street was such a mess. None of the men that would have made the final decision on the widening were aware that there were houses, trees, curbs, gutters, or sidewalks on part of the street. In fact they were a bit surprised when these features were pointed out to them on their maps.

There are between 90 and 100 homes on the street, between Broadway and Foxhall Avenue. Now, are we so desperate for land on which to put commercial establishments that this street must be used? Two more houses on Albany Avenue will be bulldozed down to make room for the Car Wash. Maybe the taxes for the expanded gas station and Car Wash will bring bundles of money into the City Treasury, so it won't miss the tax loss from these homes.

As usual whenever our representatives want to do something that they know we aren't going to like, they do it very quietly, and then when we are appalled at the result, they hasten to tell us that it was in the paper, and if we were on the ball we would have caught it. In further conversations with our Alderman, he pointed out that he didn't feel the need to tell us that this Car Wash was being planned, because he decided it would be an asset to the residents on the street. Would he consider it, or would the Mayor, or any other member of the common council consider it an asset to look out their front window into the open mouth of a Car Wash? Very unlikely!

Further, our esteemed Alderman said words to the effect, that it would be best, probably, if he would just work to see that all of Albany Avenue was rezoned commercial. Now this is from a man that we unfortunately elected, and theoretically at least, is to look out for our interests. Now the Humble Oil Co. has its main office at 280 N. Central Avenue in Hartsdale, with a regional office in Pellum New York. Does it seem likely that these people elected our Alderman, or any Alderman in Kingston? Does it seem right that outside business interests should always come before the citizens in this community? Our Alderman had all the time in the world to come around the night before election to urge us to vote for him, but when it comes time to look out for our collective interests, he has pointed out to us that he couldn't possibly tell everyone in the ward everything that is going on. We didn't ask him to tell us everything that is going on, we asked him to act in our behalf, for our wellbeing, when we elected him, and this he has failed to do. We will remember!

Sincerely,
ROSA LEE ICKES

Fourth Binnewater

Editor, The Freeman:

A lake is dead! Homeowners on Lake Hill above the Fourth Binnewater Lake have been witness to an ecological disaster of unprecedented proportions. The recreational paradise of the Town of Rosendale has been transformed into a reeking open sewer supporting only the growth of micro-organisms indicative of pollution by raw garbage and sewage. I have personally examined microscopically a sample of this turbid water and it appears that only one micro-organism is present, and that the lake is practically a pure culture of it.

Before corrective measures are instituted, causes must be established. The fifth Binnewater lake — Williams' — shows no sign of pollution and yet is less than a mile distant. Even with the heavy rains of the last month the water is clear and the lake level remains the same.

The fourth and fifth lakes differ in one major respect: the fifth lake has an outlet and the fourth does not. Since the only water loss from the fourth lake is by evaporation, any pollutants fostering growth of pollution-indicating micro-organisms will necessarily increase in concentration as evaporation occurs, and a vicious cycle of eutrophication is established. Without an outlet,

Since the difficulties in Hickory Bush and the obvious lake pollution came at about the same time, it appears that the heavy rains raised the lake to the point of establishing a water continuum between the lake and the controversial landfill area and that the fourth lake is also the run-off area for the town dump. When the lake drops to the point where this water continuity is broken, the lake pollution will cease and the difficulties in Hickory Bush will also be cleared up. To wait for this to come about by evaporation is to perpetuate a health hazard.

I suggest therefore that the possibly clogged natural outlet of the fourth lake be located and cleared. I believe there are "old-timers" still around who would know where this outlet is. An alternative would be a channel to the Rondout Creek. Either of these immediate alternatives would be more economical than relocating the Town Dump or Building and Incinerator. If the water connection between the dump and the lake is broken, the landfill could continue. The fourth lake would return to its first purity instead of remaining a foul-smelling stagnant pond.

Cruelty

Editor, The Freeman:

I recently read in the Kingston Freeman a statement about the Ulster County Fair. Seems once again they are having a hilarious time all set up — i.e.: having children chase a poor frightened animal (in this case a pig) around an enclosure. This is suppose to be great sport for the youngsters. It sure teaches them to be kind to animals, doesn't it?

I would love to have the sponsors of this affair — greased and thrown into an enclosure with screaming, yelling persons ten times bigger than themselves — grabbing them and jumping on them and see how "sporting" they would feel.

The Ulster County Fair has really sunk to the lowest level if this kind of thing has to be an attraction.

I fail to understand how any animal lover could attend the fair, or enter animals in any exhibits.

Dear Miss Geertsema,

We received so many compliments on the nice publicity you gave us for Stone House Day, we would like to pass the appreciation on to you. The spread in Tempo was called "the best ever" and all the other pictures and write-ups were equally fine. The ladies of the Guild were pleased with Mr. Kruh's pictures and we do thank him for making two trips in the rain to take them. Everyone enjoyed seeing the children, and I would like to thank you for sending us the prints of those pictures. They will be nice to have in our file. Thanks, too, to Mr. Powell and Mr. Schuster for the good follow-up. We didn't mind at all being on the front page of the Sunday edition! As they reported, we had a most successful day and feel that you people did indeed help to make it so.

Delegations Favor Retention of Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Leaders of state delegations to the Republican National Convention overwhelmingly favor the re-nomination of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, and thus welcome President Nixon's announcement that he wants Agnew for a second term.

Completed just before Nixon's announcement Saturday, a UPI survey of chairmen and other spokesmen for GOP state delegations showed that those in 37 states favored retention of the controversial Agnew.

Some hedged their comments by saying they favored Agnew but would go along with anyone chosen by the President, and some merely said they would favor Nixon's choice, whatever it was.

A few suggested that the all-liberal Democratic ticket of Sens. George S. McGovern and Thomas F. Eagleton gave Nixon more flexibility in picking a running mate.

Asked if the Democratic choices strengthened or weakened Agnew on the GOP ticket, replies from 16 states said it would have little or no effect and many gave no direct answer.

Robert J. Shaw, delegation and party chairman in Georgia, believed there would be an organized campaign in 13 southern and border states to renominate Agnew if Nixon had preferred another. Shaw also said a Nixon-Agnew ticket would give "a solid contrast" with a "more conservative" GOP ticket opposing a "more liberal" Democratic team.

But former Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel, who was fired by Nixon as secretary of interior, said the decision was one for the President alone. Asked if Agnew would be an asset, he implied doubt by saying, "The Republican party, somehow has got to capture the imagination, enthusiasm and support of 25 million new, young voters."

Although Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon, a one-time Agnew critic, now supports him, Secretary of State Clay Myers said the criticism from Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R.N.Y., and William Saxbe, R.Ore., pointed up the need for "a broad appeal to all voters, not just party loyalists." He said the Democratic ticket gave Nixon more latitude and perhaps justified looking for someone with "more appeal to youth, minorities and a wider spectrum within the party. As possibilities, Myers suggested Sens. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Mark Hatfield of Oregon and McCall.

Other Opinions
David Little, Idaho national committeeman, felt the conservative-sounding Agnew should be kept on the ticket because he thought the GOP "may be moving a little to the left to get more support from Democrats."

Other comments: David Trean, Louisiana national committeeman, who said the decision was up to the President, said he was not promoting former Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, a Texas Democrat, but that Connally might attract more votes than Agnew in Louisiana. Rudy Boschwitz, Minnesota national committeeman, said he would support the President but was aware of some sentiment in Minnesota that Connally would be stronger.

Lawrence K. Roos, head of the Missouri delegation: "I think the extremely liberal quality of the McGovern-Eagleton ticket removes the need for a southerner such as Connally to secure the South for President Nixon's reelection."

Thomas Wright, Rhode Island state chairman, said he did not "necessarily oppose" Agnew but that the second choice should be Connally and he believed a majority of Republicans would accept the Texan.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, an Agnew backer, said the Democratic ticket "is so far out of the mainstream of Texas politics that it has little or no effect on choice for a running mate."

Kent Shearer, Utah state chairman, favored Agnew but said he thought the Democratic nominations cost Agnew one asset in that the Democratic ticket carried no appeal to conservatives.

States where delegation spokesmen directly favored Agnew were Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

None were expressly opposed to Agnew.

Probe Ordered In Dutchess Jail Death

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—City Manager Donald O'Hara called Saturday for a thorough investigation into the death of a City Jail inmate and said he would make the results of the probe public.

The inmate, Jerome Pierce, 33, of Poughkeepsie, was found by a jailer late Friday night hanging from his cell bars with his belt tied around his neck. Police said the death was an apparent suicide that occurred sometime after Pierce was arrested Friday afternoon and booked on a charge of public intoxication.

Two Nabbed For Checks

ULSTER COUNTY Sheriff's deputies reported arresting two persons on Thursday in connection with separate incidents involving county checks—one a treasury check and the other a welfare assistance check.

Donald McMillan, 38, of 53 First Avenue, Kingston was charged with criminal possession of stolen property, third degree, after allegedly cashing an Ulster County treasury check made out to another person.

Arraigned before Town of Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly, McMillan pled guilty and was fined $50 and ordered to make full restitution for the amount of the check, $143.50.

Deputies arrested Barbara Tobler, 23, of Les Pommer Apartments, Lake Katrine, on charges of petit larceny. According to First Sergeant Donald Policastro, she attempted to obtain a duplicate check for one which she claimed had been stolen.

Investigation reportedly revealed that the Tobler woman had actually cashed the earlier check in the amount of $114.50, deputies said.

Arraigned before Justice Reilly, the Tobler woman was sentenced to 30 days in Ulster County jail and ordered to make full restitution for the check from the Social Services Department.

New York Dems Cite 'Ingredient'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Top New York Democrats said Saturday President Nixon's decision to keep Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as his running mate will be just the ingredient they need to elect George McGovern president.

"That's great for the Democratic party!" Assembly Minority Leader Stanley Steingut of Brooklyn boomed when he heard the news.

The word spread quickly among Democratic leaders, legislative candidates and campaign aides at a conference on campaign techniques.

Richard C. Wade, the college professor who is heading South Dakota Sen. George McGovern's campaign in New York State, emerged from a two-hour meeting with county party chairmen to hear of Nixon's announcement.

"We thank him," Wade said, a smile spreading across his face.

"We were afraid Nixon might try to improve himself," he added.

Wade said top Democrats had feared that Nixon might decide to drop Agnew from the Republican ticket in favor of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller or former Treasury Secretary John Connally, a Democrat now closely allied with Nixon.

State Democratic Chairman Joseph Crangle of Buffalo remarked, "I'm sure the most disappointed person is Mr. Rockefeller."

Crangle has said for months that Rockefeller's No. 1 goal now is to get Nixon re-elected to enhance his own chances of getting a federal appointment.

Rockefeller has denied any ambitions of holding a federal job.

He was at his home at Pocantico Hills where he issued a brief statement saying only: "As the Republican governors unanimously stated in their resolution adopted at the Republican Governors' Conference in West Virginia last May, we wholeheartedly support the reelection of President Nixon and Vice President Agnew."

An aide of the governor said Rockefeller was a sponsor of that resolution but "we aren't going to comment beyond that at this time."

Crangle said Nixon's decision to keep Agnew as his vice presidential nominee "greatly enhances our ability to win."

The state chairman said Agnew "represents everything that's wrong with the Republican party."

Crangle said he had gotten nearly all the party's county chairmen to join him in a state-debates will not serve the national interest."

In order for McGovern and Nixon—both former debaters—to meet on television during the campaign, the "equal time" requirements of the Federal Communications Act would have to be suspended. Such a bill has passed the Senate but is pending in the House.

During an impromptu meeting with reporters here in the Black Hills as he prepared to hold a day-long strategy meeting with top advisers and aides, McGovern tended to dismiss Nixon's announcement that he has asked Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to remain on the GOP ticket.

Same Tactics Expected
"We'll have pretty much the same kind of tactics that the Vice President is so famous for," McGovern said. "But it's really the team we expected to meet out on the hustings this fall."

"I don't think that it makes a lot of difference," he said when asked whether he would have preferred to see former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally on the ticket. "I think that Connally and Agnew both have somewhat the same approach. I don't think it would have made a lot of difference."

In his letter to Albert McGovern, a former Dakota Wesleyan debate coach, said: "Open and searching debates between the two nominees is particularly needed this year to help prove that our democratic system of choosing the nation's chief executive can work."

Eagleton on TV
"I hope he will accept it," McGovern remarked to reporters about the challenge to Nixon. "He's an old debater. He understands the importance of the voters' having a chance to evaluate the candidates in face-to-face debates."

"I think it's very important that the American people have a chance to evaluate Mr. Nixon and me in face-to-face debates."

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, McGovern's running mate, was expected to join campaign strategy discussions here Sunday after appearing on a national television news panel.

McGovern will drive to Rapid City, S.D., Sunday to appear on another national television news panel, but will return to this resort lake area for another week, ending his stay with a trip to his home town of Mitchell, S.D., and the state Democratic convention at Aberdeen, S.D. next weekend.

Chess Experts See Easy Fischer Win

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Chess experts predicted Saturday that American challenger Bobby Fischer would easily defeat world champion Boris Spassky in Sunday's sixth game unless the Russian can pull himself together and fight for his title.

Spassky retired to the seclusion of a downtown Reykjavik penthouse after Fischer defeated him Thursday to draw 2½ points each in their title match. Russian sources said Spassky was increasingly irritated by the American's behavior at the chess table.

The Russian sources said, however, the 35-year-old Spassky would be back in force after his 72-hour rest from the fifth game he lost after 27 moves, and denied reports he would ask for a postponement on medical grounds.

ABC producer Chet Forte said cameras might be in for Sunday's game although the temperamental 29-year-old Fischer vetoed camera positions shortly before starting his 24-hour sabbath as a member of the Church of God at midnight Friday.

"But Bobby has promised to come down to the hall when his sabbath has ended," Forte said. "There is plenty of time to work out new positions before he has to go back to concentrate on the game."

"Bobby said he wanted this great match of how he is licking Spassky brought out to his American fans but cannot accept the present set-up with us filming through three small holes in the wall above and to each side of the board. Although there is no noise, the physical presence is bothering him."

The sixth game is scheduled to start at 5 p.m. Sunday with Fischer playing white and making the first move on the polished marble board in the blacked-out hall.

Grandmasters observing the $250,000 "match of the century" said the rattled champion must pull himself together or see his crown slip.

Miguel Najdorf of Argentina summed the situation up this way: "Spassky is kaput (finished) unless his inner strength is stronger than I give him credit for. He is almost a broken man. Bobby gave him two points in advance being bothered by the TV cameras; he is playing against 22 million Russians and yet licking the champion so badly that it hurts."

Spassky was said to be getting increasingly irritated by Bobby's behavior at the table.

"Mr. Fischer has developed a nasty habit of jerking in his (swivel) chair, by getting up abruptly after making his moves and by tipping his right foot when sitting down," a source said.

London Zoo's Panda Dies of Old Age, 15

LONDON (UPI)—Chi-Chi, the London Zoo's giant panda who won the heart of millions around the world but spurred her Russian suitor An-An, died Saturday of old age. She was 15.

Children visiting the zoo burst into tears upon hearing the news.

"She died peacefully in her sleep at about 3 a.m.," said a zoo spokesman.

Chi-Chi declined food Friday, a sign that she was not well, and Dr. Michael Brambell, the zoo's curator of mammals, stayed with her during the night until she died, the spokesman said.

City Police OK Contract

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rank and file policemen voted Saturday to accept a new 50 million contract, raising average pay and increments for patrolmen on the nation's largest police force to nearly $17,000 a year.

Members of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association had surprised their leadership when they rejected essentially the same contract June 3. PBA President Edward Kiernan called it the "best ever worked out for any police force in the entire world."

Vols Week Declared

KINGSTON
The week of July 23-July 29 has been designated as Volunteer Firemen Week in a public decree issued by Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature.

Chairman Savago states: "One of the finest traditions of American community life is a service which people render to others without thought of compensation. The volunteer firemen of Ulster County have long been leaders in giving unselfish service in the protection of life and property in their communities. Through the unstinting efforts of the volunteer firemen each year, many lives and millions of dollars of property are preserved. The time and devotion to duty and firemanic instruction is rarely recognized and in essence is 'Democracy in Action.' As the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association is preparing for its 37th annual convention in the Village of Ellenville on July 27, 28 and 29, it is only fitting and proper that their heroic deeds and personal sacrifices are made known. Now, therefore, be it resolved that the Ulster County Legislature through its chairman, Peter J. Savago, do hereby decree that the week of July 23-July 29 be designated as Volunteer Firemen Week and urges the citizens of Ulster County through appropriate action and support to observe this special week."

In a smaller company, on the other hand, with a total capitalization of, say, 7 or 8 million shares, trading can be disrupted by large transactions. This is especially true if the company is a public one.

REPEAL, 1972—Miss Light Whiskey, Lisa Schneider, ends four years of "prohibition" as the first bottle of American light whiskey takes its place alongside the first bourbon to be sold following Repeal in 1933. The new category for distilled spirits became official on the first of the month (July 1) when the government released the new light whiskey from bond.

Light Whiskey.... An Ace in the Hole

CHICAGO, ILL. have backed their wager with 190 million gallons of light whiskey in the belief that consumers will make a rush on the bank.

Some distillers are hedging their bets, having filed for brand name registration but not entering the market until they see how the public responds to the new whiskey category. Others, such as Barton's QT, jumped in with both feet to "test" consumer reception. Barton Brands has already spent $4 million in advertising and promotion to back their wager.

Why all the fuss? Because the stakes are high. U.S. consumption of distilled spirits in 1970 alone reached 370 million gallons, according to the Light Whiskey Institute. Public tax revenues from the sale of distilled spirits in the same year amounted to more than $5.2 billion.

Business is always a gamble. Considering the size of the pot, it's not surprising U.S. whiskey producers are willing to bet plenty for a slice of it.

This week the American whiskey distillers are betting $100 million on a closed hand and what's more, they say it's no gamble.

Their confidence stems from an ace in the hole — "light whiskey," a totally new category of distilled spirits created by U.S. Government regulation to compete with Canadian and Scotch imports. The first barrels of the new product were released from bond July 1 following a four-year aging period.

"Many American producers feel they've got a sure winner," says Lester W. Abelson, Barton Brands chairman. "The new light whiskey is lighter in taste and color to suit consumer preferences, and it mixes well."

Abelson reports that more than 55 brands have been filed with the Federal Government.

What makes the venture risky is that whimsical phenomenon, the American consumer. Will he or she ante up a share of the purse for a new taste? Distillers

Kentucky Fried Chicken... Another 'Party' in August

MIAMI, FLA. be put through a blitz training program.

A Kentucky Fried Chicken store in the Kingston, N.Y. area is located at 426 Foxhall Avenue.

Dave's first big party occurred in Mid-July when the Democratic National Convention was held in the Gold Coast capital.

Cooking chicken dinners for the 5,500 delegates July 12 and 13 was the least of Kuhn's troubles. There was no big deal getting the 20-some Kentucky Fried Chicken stores in the Miami area to cook up an extra couple of hundred dinners each.

"We do a lot of catering. We've handled up to 15,000 dinners at one function," he says. "But there are other problems."

Like credentials, for instance. Because of the security measures, every one of the KFC workers will have to have special convention passes. And there are different credentials for each section of the giant Convention Hall, and different passes for different nights. Each employee will also have to have a police pass.

Each of the catering trucks will have to have special passes to get through the different gates. The traffic across the bridges to Miami Beach will be impossible, but "we can't start out too early because we want the chicken to be fresh."

Then there have been the lengthy sessions with Secret Service, which Kuhn says he can't, and the Secret Service won't discuss.

Kuhn also is being bombarded with volunteers, who are willing to do just anything to get close to the convention. These are mostly young people, sons and daughters of Senators, Representatives, Mayors, Cabinet Members and other Party officials.

There are a lot more applicants than openings, a patronage problem that politicians might be expected to understand.

Kuhn is resolving the problem by bouncing it back to the GOP central committee, who's going to screen the applicants. They'll

GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees this furnace against defects in materials and workmanship as follows:

- FOR 1 YEAR FROM DATE OF PURCHASE Montgomery Ward will repair or, at its option, replace defective parts free, including labor.
- FOR AN ADDITIONAL 19 YEARS Montgomery Ward will furnish free replacements for defective heat exchangers, charging only for installation.

For service under this guarantee, contact your nearest Montgomery Ward branch. Evidence of date of purchase required.

Only Wards deluxe furnaces have both high- and low-heat settings. This means that you use the low-heat setting for fall, spring, and mild weather; the high-heat for cold weather. The low heat is 2/3 the BTU capacity of the full heat. You burn only the fuel you need to maintain the desired temperature in your home. The major benefit of this new system is comfort. Unlike ordinary furnaces which fire only at a high-heat setting, Wards deluxe furnaces fire at a more comfortable low-heat level as well. This steady low-heat operation creates a flow of warmth in your home and reduces drafts by running at a more even pace — runs quietly, too!

- Heat exchanger is guaranteed 20 years
- Price includes thermostat which has a switch to let you change the flame and blower speed to the high- or low-heat setting
- Blower speed that changes automatically to match the size of the burner flame for a more quiet, continuous movement of warm air
- Direct-drive, multi-speed blower motor that's powerful enough for central air conditioning
- Furnace jacket is insulated to help conserve heat; wrap-around design of rigid jacket adds to the strength and appearance of furnace
- Fully automatic safety pilot that shuts off gas if pilot flame fails
- Self-cleaning cast-iron burners
- Factory-wired, ready to install

NEW YORK
Roy Webster has been named New York regional sales manager for Chrysler-Plymouth Division, F. G. Hazelroth, division general sales manager, announced.

Webster, a native of Jersey City, N.J., was manager of the division's Los Angeles sales region since October of 1971. Prior to that assignment he served as manager of the Pittsburgh sales region for two years.

The New York region includes northern New Jersey, metropolitan New York, Putnam and Westchester counties, Long Island and Fairfield county in Connecticut.

He served as a petty officer in the Navy before joining Chrysler-Plymouth Division in May of 1957.

He held a variety of positions in the Division between 1957 and 1963 in the New York sales region, including district manager in Patterson, N.J., Newark, Bergen County, Connecticut and Queens.

In 1963, he was promoted to New York regional distribution manager and the following year was named business management manager for the Newark Region.

In 1965, Webster became Minneapolis assistant regional manager and in 1968 was named to a similar position in the Detroit region.

The Chrysler-Plymouth dealer in the Kingston, N.Y. area is Kingston Chrysler Plymouth Inc., 515 Albany Ave.

Nirenberg... One Vote for Vice President

ALEX FOR V.P.—We arrived back from vacation to find the following note on our desk:

Q. Which Ulster County Democrat received a vote for vice president at the recent National Convention?

A. Alex J. Nirenberg.

The note was signed by our New Paltz bureau man, Wade Burkhardt, a sober fellow not (usually) given to wild flights of imagination. Perhaps the heat had gotten to the mild-mannered reporter. So, we called Alex.

"Yeah, it's true," Nirenberg said from his Ellenville home. "I guess it's true. Some people told me they heard the name Alex J. Nirenberg nominated for vice president on television."

Nirenberg was in Miami as a representative of the Ulster County Executive Committee. But he wasn't there when his name made history, having returned to Ellenville following McGovern's nomination. In fact, Alex didn't even get to hear his name on television.

Alex is undaunted, though, reasoning that it is the national party's loss, not his. "I could have put George over the top he quipped."

OFF AND RUNNING?—"Ted Feeney's the best thing we have going for us," a politician told us this week, following Feeney's reelection as city Republican chairman. The guy offering the opinion was a Democrat.

Republicans, on the other hand, may have agreed with the Democrat six weeks ago, now think that Feeney may be ready to lead the party to victory in '73. Feeney, since his "victory" in getting Dick Schermerhorn a 6-1 plurality in Kingston in the state senate primary June 20, is a changed man. He's gotten rid of some "dead wood" in the party (it's more like a forest with the Republicans), his executive committee meets almost weekly and he even returns telephone calls.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

Feeney has his work cut out for him but the fact that he is working should prove heartening to city Republicans.

MARTHA OPENS UP—Eddie Arace, president of the Central Broadway Businessmen Association, whom one city official refers to as "Martha Mitchell," has been quiet for nearly a year now while committees from his association and the Common Council work on parking lots for the area.

The last time we looked, Central Broadway was still steadily headed down hill and parking lots were conspicuous by their absence. Arace takes the same view, we are told, and his efforts to find out what's going on from either Mayor Koenig or Don Quick, chairman of the Council committee, have been met with Ye Olde Runaround.

Quick, Arace says, tells him it's up to the mayor and the mayor, Arace says, tells him Quick is working on it. We get pretty much the same story.

THE ANGRY BEAR—Jim Tyrrell, the Republican candidate for mayor in 1969, once described Andy Murphy, superintendent of recreation in Kingston, as "a large cuddly bear."

At the time, Murphy's name was being bandied about as a possible candidate against Tyrrell in the Republican primary. "Everybody likes Andy," Tyrrell said. "But they're not going to vote for a large cuddly bear."

We don't know about Murphy being "cuddly" but he is a big friendly man who seldom gets riled about anything.

We said seldom. Murphy is currently doing one of his infrequent burns over the fact that City Clerk Louie DeCicco scheduled a circus at Dietz stadium on the same day that Murphy's annual departmental Children's Day Parade is set for that site. The parade had to be rerouted to Kingston Plaza for termination.

Murphy shouldn't be too hard on Louie, for those things can happen to the best of city clerks. Four years ago, if memory serves, Bud Lyle, DeCicco's predecessor, scheduled a circus, a flea market and a baseball game at Dietz... all on the same day.

COUNCIL CAPERS—The aldermen went back into session Wednesday night and were at least smart enough to get out of there at a decent hour, thereby saving themselves from heat prostration.

Most of the talk was about the hiring of Department of Public Works Foreman Henry Cragan on a consulting basis. Cragan, 72, has been up for retirement for the past seven years but department officials could find no one to replace him. Either Cragan was a super foreman or the department heads lacked something in managerial expertise. The aldermen took both views, for the most part, praising Cragan and blasting the administration of the BPW.

The whole affair was very strange. The committee report recommending the hiring of Cragan passed by a 7-5 vote but the actual resolution authorizing it was defeated by the same vote with Clarence Stoutenberg and Joe McGrane switching over.

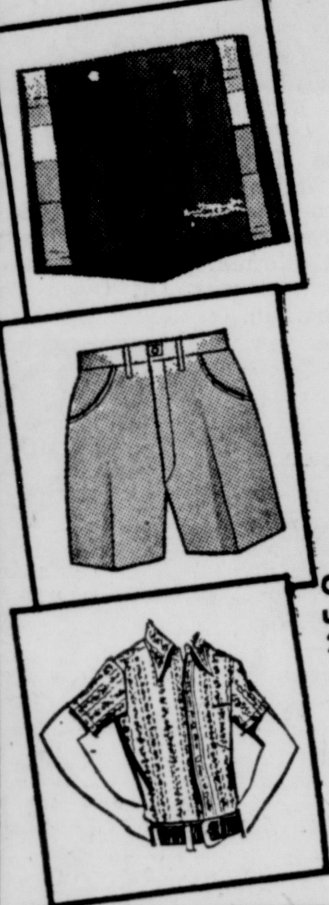

Cragan probably never had a chance but the aldermen chose to use his request as a forum to attack the BPW management. Cragan, after years of service, deserved better than that.

Allen Captures 5th State Amateur Title

BY STEVE KANE

POUGHKEEPSIE Claiming "fat, old people can still play golf," Don Allen of Rochester York wrapped up his fifth New York State Amateur Golf championship Saturday at the Dutchess Golf and Country Club carding a final round 71 for a 282, seven-shots better than Larry Zee of Tonawanda.

Kingston's Harvey Bostic, who struggled with his putter recorded a 77 for a 72-hole total of 300 and a tie for 16th place. Carrying a three-stroke lead into the last round, Allen, 34, was paired with challengers Wayne Levi and Don Davidson. Levi, after a 68 on Friday, was in the runner-up slot but ran into trouble on the seventh hole,

A 20-year-old from Herkimer, Levi triple bogied the difficult par four then lost shots on eight and nine to sink six strokes back at the turn. Allen played the front one over then strung birdies together on 12, 13 and 14 to settle all doubts about the outcome.

Zee fired 71 to burst out of the pack and lead a string of collegians into the top ten. Albany's Charles Murphy, the second round leader, recovered for a 209 and third position, and Bobby Heins of Monticello and Bob King of Rochester tied for fourth with 291.

Levi took sixth at 292. Davidson of Clinton and Dan O'Neill of Jamestown shared the eighth position at 293. The top eight finishers won exemptions from qualifying for next year's tournament. O'Neill, a second string All-American from Penn State and a high amateur finisher in this year's U.S. Open, shot the day's best round of even par 70.

Bostic, aiming for a top eight finish, started the day off well and was even after five holes. Birdies on Nos. 2 and 5 offset a double bogey on the fourth, but the Wiltwyck champ caught more double bogies on seven and 16.

"I just couldn't get down from around the greens," Bostic said. "I came into this tournament without any confidence, and I never made a putt."

The high rough bothered

Bostic as it did almost all of the golfers, but no one criticized the condition of the course.

"You had to be straight off the tees," Bostic said, "and I wasn't as consistent as I usually am. And just about every time I missed a green I took a bogey."

Allen, playing a methodical game, refused to be ruffled at anything. After two poor shots on the par five sixth, he shanked his third and barely made the fairway. He then laced a long iron to the green and rolled in a 20-footer for a par as neither Levi or Davidson could gain ground.

His birdie streak on the back nine came on putts of two, five and eight feet. "I putted well throughout the tournament," admitted Allen, an insurance broker by trade. The veteran had previously won this tournament in 1961, 1963, 1964 and 1970.

Allen expressed doubts about competing in the Porter Cup in Niagara Falls this year. The first four places in the State Amateur are awarded berths in that tournament, but the Rochester golfer said his city's annual tournament may take precedence.

Scores soared on the final day much to the surprise of observers. By far the coolest day of competition, no one broke par, and many shot themselves out of good finishes.

Neil Spitalny of Loudonville, among the leaders for three rounds, blew to an 83 and dropped a dozen places in the standings. In all, 11 contestants failed to break 80 on Saturday.

Tom Monticello, Endicott, came on strongly, but just missed exemption status with a 74-294. He was tied there by Bob Impaglia of Auburn who slipped to a 78.

This was one of the youngest fields ever entered in a state amateur tournament. The medal play format, preferred by most of the contestants, is deemed a fairer test, and the younger golfers fared better under the grueling heat conditions. Seven of the top ten finishers are college students.

A crowd of 250 followed the leaders around the 6400 yard course. Temperatures ranged in the low 90's and the light breezes made it the nicest weather of the tournament.

MULLIGANS Robert Longo, a competitor from Utica, was disqualified for playing a practice round on the course after Friday's competition. This was Harvey Bostic's third state tournament, but the first at medal play. Bostic, John Esterbrook and Jeff Berry, among others, will be in the Woodstock Open field on Monday. Tom Monticello parred the 190-yard, par three sixth hole on Friday—with a wedge. Rumors have placed the site of the 1973 tournament at Wolfert's Roost in Albany.

Yancey Leads by Three Strokes

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Determined Bert Yancey, still smarting from his recent slump, stormed from out of a three-way tie to shoot a three-under-par 67 Saturday and grab a three-stroke lead after the third round of the American Golf Classic.

Yancey, who put in extra practice time in recent weeks after missing the cut in two straight tournaments, made four birdies, only one bogey—on the final hole—and 13 pars in a steady round that left him with a six-under-par, 54-hole total of 204.

Lanny Wadkins, who shot a 64 to tie the course record, slipped into a second place tie at 207 with Kermit Zarley, who bogged the final hole for a 68.

Tom Ulozas, an Army golfing buddy of Orville Moody, Arnold Palmer and George Knudson were tied another stroke behind at 208.

Yancey, who has not won a tournament in more than two years, said he went to the practice range after missing the cut in the Western Open and the Cleveland Open late last month because "I realized how little I was working on my game."

Playing with Palmer in the next to last group on the course, a pairing that usually unnerves Palmer's opponent, Yancey outshot Palmer by three strokes. His only bogey came at the 465-yard, par four 18th hole where he hit his second shot into the rough behind the green and took three from there.

Steve Melnyk and Ray Floyd, who were tied with Yancey at the start of the day, had their problems. Melnyk bogied three straight holes midway through the back nine and shot a 73, leaving him six behind. Floyd, who bogied the 13th and had a double bogey at 14, and shot a 74, leaving him seven behind.

Defending champion Jerry Heard moved into contention with a 68 that tied him at 209 with Irwin Hale and Mike Hill, while Larry Hinson and Fred Marti were at even par 210 along with Melnyk.

Yancey sank a 15-foot birdie putt at the sixth hole, a five-footer at No. 10, a 12-footer at the 180-yard 12th hole which he reached with an eight-iron, and a 10-footer at No. 17.

He called the five-iron shot which put him on the green at the 390-yard 17th hole "my most rewarding shot of the day."

"I enjoyed beating him (Palmer) for a change," said Yancey, who also was paired with Palmer on the final day here four years ago when he lost a chance to win on the final hole.

"I've been in more sand the last two days than I have all year," said Palmer, who again had trouble controlling his drive.

Wadkins, who had his car stolen Saturday morning, made seven birdies on putts ranging up to 45 feet as he tied the course record set in 1968 by Don Bies.

"I'm driving real, real straight," Wadkins said.

Ulozas, a second year pro from Edison, N.J., got a chance to take over second place but bogied the final two holes, missing putts of three and five feet.

Esopus, Highland in Finale

KINGSTON It will be Esopus versus Highland in the final game of the District 16 Little League baseball championship Monday night.

That was decided Friday as Esopus nipped the Kingston Americans, 6-5, and Highland topped Rondout Valley, 6-1, in semi-final showdowns.

Esopus and Kingston went to a seventh inning before their game was clinched. The eventual winners had taken a three-run first inning lead but Kingston rallied to tie it after two. Then Esopus scratched out two more only to see the Americans even it up again.

Esopus put the big tally on the board in the seventh and pitcher Jim Foust made it stick by striking out the side.

Foust was the winner, striking out 10 and walking three. Gary Langton had two hits including a homer for Esopus. Rich Barton also laced two hits.

Jim Brown took the defeat. He and Vince Dingman each slashed two base knocks.

The powerful Highland team got home runs from Mike Soricelli and Joe Passante to offset a round-tripper by Randy Perry of Rondout.

Soricelli and Jim Delmar each had a pair of hits.

Pitcher Jeff Gersch limited Rondout to just the home run by Perry in gaining the win.

West Signs Big Pact

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jerry West has signed a new two-year contract with the Los Angeles Lakers, at a reported $300,000 a year.

'In Good Spirits'
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Auto racer Merle Bettenhausen, who suffered the loss of his right arm in a crash during the Michigan 200 last Sunday, was said by doctors of the Burn Center of the University of Michigan Medical Center Wednesday to be "in good spirits."

A spokesman said Bettenhausen is resting comfortably and has been out of bed for short periods.

West would not confirm the figure, but it was believed he had asked Lakers owner Jack Kent Cooke for a two-year pact totaling $600,000.

West, 34, had vowed to remain with the club until it won a league championship. He was a key figure in the Lakers' best season, which ended this spring with the National Basketball Association title.

The former University of West Virginia player, who joined the Lakers right out of college 11 years ago, would not project the length of his career beyond the two-year contract.

U.S. Netmen Take 2-0 Lead

SAN DIEGO, CHILE (UPI)—Harold Solomon, a 19-year-old tennis sensation from Silver Spring, Md., defeated veteran Patricio Cornejo, 9-7, 4-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-2, today to give the United States a 2-0 lead over Chile in their American zone Davis Cup final.

Stan Smith had given the U.S. a 1-0 lead with an opening singles victory earlier in the day, but darkness forced a halt to the Solomon-Cornejo match Friday with the players dividing the first two sets.

The U.S. was forced to wait another day to seek the clincher. The doubles match scheduled for today was postponed until Sunday to give Cornejo a rest. Cornejo and Jaime Fillol will face Smith and Erik Van Dillen in the twosomes, with the final two singles matches scheduled for Monday.

Willis Reed Denies Charges

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York Knicks' center Willis Reed denied that he had threatened two men with an umbrella Thursday night and promised to have witnesses who would back his story at a hearing scheduled for Aug. 3.

Reed, who led the Knicks to the NBA World Championship in 1970 but who missed most of the last two seasons with injuries, was arrested for reckless endangerment, menacing, harassment and impersonating a police officer after an argument with two men in front of his Queens Village, N.Y. home.

The trouble started when Reed backed his Lincoln Continental out of his driveway and, according to the off-duty policeman who filed the complaint, cut off another automobile.

Reed complained at a news conference Friday that he had been unjustly made out as the bad guy in accounts of the incident. Reed told his version of the story at the NBA Players Association offices in New York.

Jets Send Garay To Oakland

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (UPI)—The New York Jets sent Tony Garay, an offensive tackle from Hofstra to the Oakland Raiders Saturday in a completion of an earlier deal in which the Jets acquired defensive back Don Martin.

The Jets went through their first full scrimmage Saturday and tight end Richard Caster caught a 45-yard touchdown pass from rookie quarterback Mike Packer from Lockhaven (Pa.) State.

"The defense looked awfully good out there," said Weeb Ewbank, Jets' coach. "We've got lots of good defensive linemen and coach (Buddy) Ryan will have a tough job to cut them down."

Giants' Drill Satisfies Alex

WEST LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UPI)—The New York Giants of the National Football League engaged in their first full intra-squad game Saturday and head coach Alex Webster said he was "satisfied with the results."

"We achieved what we expected," Webster said after watching the offense beat the defense 12-0 on a 40-yard pass play from Randy Johnson to Joe Morrison and a 52-yard pass play from Ed Baker to Bob Tucker.

Parsons Heads 80-Player Field in Woodstock

By CHARLES J. TIANO

WOODSTOCK
Johnny Parsons, an amateur, came down from Auburn, N.Y., to win the prestigious Woodstock Open title with a crackling 4-under-66 in 1971.

He now plays out of Newton, Conn. but will be here Monday seeking to score a rare repeat in the 37th annual renewal of the Northeastern New York PGA's No. 1 tournament.

It won't be easy for Johnny. The 80-player field, evenly divided between 40 pros and 40 amateurs, is easily the finest ever to vie on the picturesque village links — even with the redoubtable Toby Lyons of Greenwich, Conn. and Leon Randall among the missing.

Parsons is certain to get a strong challenge from the Simon pure contingent that includes among others, Harvey Bostic of Wiltwyck Country Club, fresh off a sensational performance in the Ulster County Championship; Bobby Heins of Monticello, the 1970 champion; Ralph DeStefano of Dutchess and John Esterbrook of Powelton.

Al Stein of Glens Falls Country Club, the PGA president, and Jay Marshall of Pine Brook, who tied for low pro honors last year, head the list of play-for-pay entries.

Such hardy perennials as seven-time champion Armand Farina of Schenectady, Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill, Alex Sinclair of Mohawk will be in the field.

Best known among the pros making their debut in the Open is Nick Karl, golf coach at the U.S. Military Academy in West Point. A former college golfer at Ohio University, Karl was named to the Mid-American Conference all-conference team all three years from 1961 to 1963 and helped Ohio U. capture two team championships during that period.

Karl began his pro career as an assistant at the Guyan Golf and Country Club in Huntington, W. Va., his home state, in April, 1964. While there he won a number of tournaments, including the state junior pro championship.

In 1968, the year he came to West Point, Karl won the Tournament of Champions title at the Osiris Country Club in Walden.

Other newcomers from outside the Northeastern PGA include Gene Toth of Otterkill at Newburgh; Fred Lux, Jr., son of the Dutchess Golf and Country Club pro, Fred Lux; the Aaron brothers — Ken and Richie — of the Granit Hotel and Alan J. Flashner of the Nevele.

The tournament will be divided into morning and afternoon rounds, with the morning round starting at 8 a.m., the afternoon at 1 p.m. Sudden death playoff will be held to determine first place in the professional division.

The entries:

Gerry LaVergne, Catskill; Ray Panano, Williamstown; Ralph Montoya, Normanside; Stew Smith, Sawyerkill; Pat

Palmieri, Pittsfield; Bill Gressick, Pleasant View; Alex Sinclair, Mohawk; George Lauretti, Winding Brook; Lou Pedulla, Margaretville.

Jerry Moynihan, Edison; Gus Grygiel, Oneonta; Ed Gray, Tarry Brae; John J. Maury, Walhall; Louis Merkle, Canajoharie; Larry Ostrander, Windham; Dan Powell, Catskill; Rick Wolcott, Walhalla; Mike Fizer, Dutchess; Fred Lux Jr., U.S. Navy.

Nick Karl, West Point; Jim

Cornelius, Tall Timbers; Billy McGovern, Loch Sheldrake; Jim Hutchins, Woodstock; Rick Wright, Tom Gunning, Glens Falls; Gene Toth, Otterkill; Ed Bosse, Colonie.

Skip Lawlor, McGregor Links; Mark Farina, Van Patten; Jay Marshall, Pine Brook; Bob Haggerty, Jr., Schenectady Muny; Alan J. Flashner, Nevele.

(Amateurs)
John Parsons, Newton, Conn.; Bobby Heins, Liberty; Ray Billows, Ralph DeStefano, Heinz Mews, Dutchess; John Clancy, Mohawk; Bill Kaufman, Sawyerkill; John Gradi, Van Schaick; Bill Odenale, Lake Mohonk.

John Huba, Wolferts Roost; Peter Tolla, Amsterdam Muny; Bill Macarelli, Catskill; Steve Dropkin, Rivervale; Cliff Stratton Sr., Cliff Stratton Jr., Antlers; Mason Hutchins, Normanside; Rick Barthel, Rondout; Jeff Berry, Stony Ford.

Rondout Bank Gains Sweep

KINGSTON
Rondout National Bank team won 13 games and lost 3 in sweeping both halves of the 1972 American Little League race. The champions compiled a 6-2 record in the first half and 7-1 in the second half.

The team was coached by Ray Reilly and Sonny Curlin, with Bill Sinsabaugh serving as team manager.

Vince Dingman limited Montgomery Ward to one hit in a 5-2 victory in the pennant-clenching finale. He fanned 10 and hiked his record to a perfect 6-0.

Pat Gallo and Vince Dingman collected two hits apiece and Bob Ferraro knocked in two runs.

Vince Dingman (6-0) was the only undefeated pitcher in the league. Only four home runs were hit during the season because of the 200-foot fence, but Dan Curlin accounted for two in one game.

Dingman pitched 54 innings in nine games, yielding 27 hits, 13 runs. He struck out 87, walked 42 and hit two batters. Curlin posted a 4-2 record, with 47 Ks and only eight hits in 27 1-3 innings. Vince Ferraro posted a 3-1 mark in 17 2-3 innings, with 22 strikeouts and 26 walks.

Vince Dingman led the team in batting with a .389 average on 21 hits in 54 times at bat. He rapped one homer and six doubles. Pat Gallo had 16 hits in 48 trips for a .233 mark, with five doubles. Vince Ferraro was the other .300 hitter, with 17

Roy Wells Kickers Winner

NEW PALTZ
Roy Wells won last week's Kickers Tournament at Locust Tree Golf and Country Club. The score to match was 71, Wells shot 70 net.

Low net score for the round was Todd Grosshans' 68.

The recent Mother-Daughter & Father-Son event was won by the team of R. Grosshans and his son Todd with a 44-40 in the alternate shot event.

In a second Kickers tourney, Roger A. Felice of New Rochelle shot a 96-22-74 to take honors. Low net scores were 68's carded by R. Lupia and Eric Winkley.

A Best Ball Partners Tourney is set for Sunday and a Scotch Foursome is planned for July 30. The Club Championship qualifying rounds are scheduled for August 5 through 11. All events are open to the public.

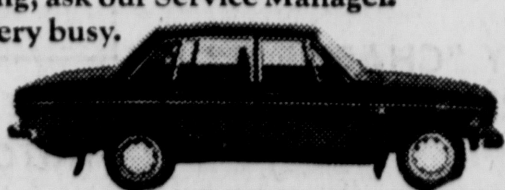

Martino Blasts 264

KINGSTON
Tom Martino was as hot as the outside temperature, exploding for a 264 solo in the most recent session of the Wednesday Night Mixed League. He did not, however, capture high series honors. That went to Marshall Amarello with 205-558.

Edna Van DeMark led the distaff side with a 507 triple. Team high score honors went to Jim's Atlantic with 712 and George's with 1870.

Sutton Shooting for 20

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — After being selected to play in his first All-Star game, Don Sutton will finally say it publicly. He's shooting for 20 victories.

With an 11-5 record and a 2.02 ERA, the ace of the Los Angeles pitching staff is at the zenith of a career that saw him join a Dodgers' rotation, which included Sandy Koufax, in his second pro season in 1966.

"I'll be perfectly honest," said Sutton, who has won 17 games twice before in his six previous big league seasons. "I'm thinking about 20 wins. I guess it's an arbitrary figure that every pitcher thinks about."

"But it's kind of a deceiving thing, though. A 20-10 pitcher, for example, isn't as good percentage-wise as a 19-9 pitcher."

The 27-year-old righthander may have thought about 20 victories before but he wouldn't admit it.

Sutton received word of his selection to the National League All-Star team when he arrived at Dodger Stadium Tuesday afternoon. The All-Star game is set for Atlanta next Tuesday.

"It was the most exciting moment of my career," he said with the smile of a man who had just pitched a no-hitter. "I'm on Cloud Nine and I'll be on it until Tuesday. I sure hope I get a chance to pitch."

"It means even more to me because all my family lives three to four hours from Atlanta. Everyone will be there."

So will his wife. "I called her. Get packed, honey, we're going to Atlanta," he added.

In a season in which the Dodgers have failed to fulfill their expectations in the National League West, Sutton has been the club's stopper.

After winning eight of his last when they notified me and said, 10 decisions to finish 17-12 last year, he captured his first eight victories this season. In his first 18 starts this year, he had eight complete games and four shutouts.

Sutton likes his role as the No. 1 man on the five-man Los Angeles starting rotation which includes Claude Osteen, Bill Singer, Al Downing and Tommy John, saying:

"I don't feel any more pressure than when I was younger and we had Sandy (Koufax) and Don (Drysdale) in fact, I think it gives me an extra incentive."

Because of the late start of the season due to the players' strike and the fact that Walter Alston has gone from a four-man to a five-man rotation, Sutton doesn't figure to get the number of starts—41, 38 and 37—he had the last three years, after his starts and substitute day if the circumstances were right," he said. "but they're not right. We have five good starters and this is the only way our club can go."

"It would be a terrible injustice to go with four starters and use the other guy as a spot starter and for long relief."

Sutton, a native of Alabama, says he nearly quit baseball last season. By June of 1971, his record was 1-5 and his right elbow was so sore he barely could move it.

Red Adams, the Dodgers' pitching coach, and a physical therapist straightened him out. Adams convinced the 6-foot-1, 185-pounder to pitch from more over the top instead of from the side, causing less strain on his elbow. The physical therapist got him to abandon ice baths after his starts and substitute hot showers.

Youngest County Golf Champion

Nancy Kolln to Seek Title

COUNTY OFFICERS of the Ulster County Women's Golf Association who will conduct the 1972 championships: seated (L-R) Mrs. Richard Gogg, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimmons, president; Mrs. Bernard Carpinelli, past president; Standing: Mrs. Dennis Pitcock, acting vice president; Mrs. William C. Decker, secretary. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

KINGSTON — Nancy Kolln, the youngest player ever to win the Ulster County Women's golf championship, returns to the competition after a year's absence, according to entries for the 1972 tournament.

The 36-hole stroke play championship is scheduled Aug. 1 at Twaalfskill and Aug. 8 at Woodstock.

Miss Kolln passed up the 1971 tournament because of a State Junior Championship commitment. She is regarded as one of the brightest young golf prospects to come along in several years.

Miss Kolln has been paired with three of the county's finest players in the anchor foursome of the tournament. She will be competing head to head against Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) DeLisio of Woodstock, the No. 1 all-time woman great in Ulster County and two Wiltwyck Country Club stalwarts—Mrs. Clifford Spiesman and Mrs. Arthur Motzkin.

Mrs. Harry Kennedy of Woodstock, the defending champion, will be in the threesome preceding the final quartet.

Seventy-three players have filed entries for the annual championship. Wiltwyck, as usual, leads with 22 entries, but Rondout, Pool, Golf and Tennis Association has filed 11 entries to match the Twaalfskill total.

Other entries by clubs: Shawangunk (Ellenville), 5; Woodstock 9, Sawyerkill 7, Stone Dock 7 and Rip Van Winkle, Palenville, 1.

The pairings schedule: 8:00—Mrs. William LoDolce, Swyr; Mrs. John Schoonmaker, SD; Mrs. Henry Harjes, Rondout.

Record Brown Trout Catch For Irwin at Bonnie View

LEW BEACH — Don Irwin of Elmhurst, an employee at famed Club 21, recently caught a Brown Trout weighing 6 pounds and measuring 25 inches long in the upper Beaverkill River. Certified by Harry and Elsie Darby, the famed fly tiers, and Doug Bury of the Antrim Lodge as a true "river" fish, it was one of the largest caught on a fly in the Upper Beaverkill in the past 20 years.

Irwin was fishing after dark on the waters of Bonnie View on the Beaverkill at Lew Beach and hooked his prize catch on a No. 6 March Brown wet fly he had tied himself. Fishing as usual without a net, Irwin did not fully realize the size of his prize and gave him no line. The heavy leader held and, as Don explained it in his Irish brogue, "I kicked him up on the bank and hit him over the head with a rock."

The fish will be mounted and during the summer will be proudly displayed at the Bonnie View.

Several years ago, Irwin caught another large Brown in the Grand Lake Stream in Maine, which is mounted and displayed at Wetherby's in Maine. In 1971, he was in Iceland and landed 19 Atlantic Salmon up to 23 pounds.

Bonnie View is owned by Kingston realtor and builder, Ben Krom and its waters are frequently fished by Harry Edinger, Chick Kelly, Bill Bence, and Joe and Pat Gallagher.

Rondout Routs Hurley

Twenty Three Records In Junior Swim Meet

ACCORD Rondout Pool, Golf and Tennis Association's crack junior swimming team trounced Hurley, 254-155, in a record-shattering performance in which 23 standards went by the boards — five pool marks and 18 team records.

Pool records included two by Rondout's Glenn Bracklow in the 12-under backstroke and breaststroke and one each by Rondout's Heidi Bracklow in 14-under backstroke; Hurley's John Hickey, 10-under backstroke; and Chris Burns, 12-under, breaststroke.

Rondout team records were set in the 8-under age group: John Stockin, 25-yard breast and butterfly; Traci Lasher, 25 freestyle, breaststroke, butterfly; and in the 10-under butterfly.

Other records included in 10-under, Kyle Schoonmaker, 50-yard freestyle, backstroke and butterfly and Kathy King in the breaststroke.

Mike Meehan set a team record for the 50-yard butterfly in the 14-under group, where Heidi Shannon posted a new standard in 50-yard breaststroke. In the 17-under group, Joe Previll lowered the butterfly and backstroke standards and Bob King in the breaststroke.

Traci Lasher captured five first places for Rondout and John Stockin was a quadruple winner. Triple winners included Robin Pastir and Glenn Bracklow of Rondout and John Hickey of Hurley. Double winners included: Heidi Shannon, Diana Siemer, Mike Meehan, Bob King, Joe Previll, of Rondout; and Jean Callahan and Diane Davis of Hurley.

The results:

Rondout 254 — Hurley 155
Girls Division
8 and under — 25 free, Traci Lasher (R), 20.0; 25 back, Traci Lasher (R), 28.4; 25 breast, Traci Lasher (R), 30.4; 25 fly, Traci Lasher (R), 25.9
10 and under — 50 free, Leslie Kroenick (H), 39.1; 50 back, Jean Callahan (H), 53.4; 50 breast, Jean Callahan (H), 33.1; 25 fly, Traci Lasher (R), 26.1
12 and under — 50 free, Robin

Coughlin: No-Hitter

KINGSTON

Kevin Coughlin, the young Coleman High School pitcher who already has his first scholastic no-hitter behind him, added another Babe Ruth League no-hit, no-run game to his credentials as Kiwanis beat American Legion, 3-0.

Coughlin walked only two men and his mates committed one error to spoil what might have been a perfect game. The right handed flame thrower fanned 13 Legion batters enroute to the gem.

The Kiwanis pitcher also helped himself by driving in two runs with RBI singles. The other Kiwanis run was driven in by a Chris Klinger base hit.

Warren Cagnone was the losing pitcher. He went the distance allowing six hits, striking out five and walking four.

UCCC Soccer Stars Moving Up

STONE RIDGE at Ulster. He was the team's scoring leader and will major in anthropology and physical education.

At Keene State, Weber will be re-united with a former UCCC teammate — Richard Bush, who was named the Owls' Most Valuable Player on Defense this past season.

Keene is coached by Ron Butcher, who piloted the New Hampshire squad to a sensational 1972 season and fifth place finish in the National Association (N.A.A.) small college tournament.

Nasmyth, headed for Cornell University, is a graduate of Cleveland High in New York City. He is also a Dean's List student and was one of the strongest defensive players for Coach Vizvary's two winning seasons. He was voted All Mid-Hudson honors in 1971 and 1972 and received the Coach's Award in 1972.

The vice president of the Students Organization at Ulster, Nasmyth majored in Liberal Arts. At Cornell, he will major in political science, with an eye toward a future career in law.

Cornell's Big Red, coached by Dan Ward, was fourth ranked nationally in the early part of the 1971 season, before finishing in 12th place. The team was third in the Ivy League.

Participating in NCAA competition for the first time, Cornell defeated Long Island University, 2-1, in a second round match, before bowing to Coach Al Miller's Hartwick College super team.

Samuelsen, a Long Island product, was a durable goalie in both of UCCC's winning seasons. "He deserves much credit for our record and is also a good student," said Coach Vizvary. He is headed for the University of North Carolina where he will be the starting goalie for the Bulls.

"Intercollegiate soccer is getting stronger all the time," Vizvary observed. "The southern schools are constantly looking for good high school and junior college material from the northeast."

The Bulls played a strong 13-game schedule under Coach Sam Millar in 1972, playing such southern standouts as Davis Elkins, Campbell University and Guilford College, where former UCCC player Tim Crawford is in his second year.

Coach Vizvary had high praise for the departing trio. "These players were real leaders and will be hard to replace," he said. "They were excellent students and good leaders both on campus and in the athletic field."

"They are all transferring favorably, and I wish them well," Vizvary concluded. "We have only a short time to find replacements for them and I wonder if we can really do it."

Yanks Score

PORT EWEN Rich Barton scored the winning run on a passed ball, as the Potter Brother Yankees nipped the Callahan Mets 2-1 in the opening game of the 1972 Esopus Little League championship playoffs.

Guy Leonard pitched a six-hitter for the winners and fanned eight. Dan Langton allowed only three hits but the passed ball was the deciding factor. He fanned six.

Gary Langton and Scott Rose had two hits each for the Mets. Barton and Terry Reed hit doubles.

Jet-Age Robot Will Keep Your Pool Sparkling Clean Every Day of the Year ...Automatically

This is a Pool-Sweep brain unit.

A lightweight, automated "robot," it is pre-programmed to clean every square inch of your pool — no matter what the size and shape of your pool. And at a cost of just pennies a day.

Pool-Sweep is the amazing new miracle invention that every pool owner is talking about. Built of the same rugged, non-corrodible materials used in our moon travel space program, Pool-Sweep's brain unit swirls around your pool as its jet water action goes to work rinsing tile until it sparkles. Keeps your pool surface completely free of dirt and debris, too.

As the master brain unit rotates around the pool, it transports two sweep hoses to every part of the pool. From these, jet water polishes and cleans the sides and bottom of your pool, sweeping all foreign matter to the main drain. There's even a trap to catch and hold leaves.

Sound Complete? It is! Pool-Sweep gives you the most complete, efficient pool cleaning job you can ask for.

CORRECTION: Some pool owners believe Pool-Sweep has to be installed while a pool is being built. This is not so. Small and lightweight, Pool-Sweep is the first completely automatic pool cleaner designed for pools that have already been built.

Find out, without any cost or obligation, how Pool-Sweep can solve your pool cleaning problems.

THE GOSSIP COLUMN by ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

Question you didn't ask, but here's the answer anyway:

Who has Raquel Welch been dating? The answer is Jim Brown and we can hardly believe it. Raquel and the football player-actor did "100 Rifles" together four years ago and feuded bitterly. The actress so despised Brown, she demanded a towel between their bare bodies during the love scenes. But since her divorce from Pat Curtis, Raquel and Jim have been seeing each other more and more. We hope Raquel's training for her roller-derry movie put her in good shape. Jim Brown has a reputation for being a pretty rough man in a scrimmage.

Q: Do you remember Mary Hopkin, that cute little British singer Paul McCartney discovered? I still play her recording of "Those Were the Days" and wondered what happened to her.—E. V., El Monte Calif.

A: Mary quit singing pop music and became a folk singer. She married Toni Visconti, an American who produces records in London, and the pair are expecting a baby around Christmas.

Q: I've always enjoyed George Plimpton's Walter Mitty exploits and would like to know if he has plans for more of them? —G.G., Jersey City, N.J.

A: George, who has boxed with Archie Moore, scrimmaged with the Detroit Lions, played tennis with Pancho Gonzales, been a trapeze flyer and lived to tell about it is thinking about riding in the British Grand National. Well, the lanky Plimpton will certainly sit tall in the saddle.

Q: What is Onassis' secret for making money — B. N., Worcester, Mass.

A: The Golden Greek has many theories about money, ranging from the sublime to the trivial. He says a man should always have a sunburn so none of his imperfections show. A man who wants success should smile a lot and stand up very straight. A man must flirt with and seduce wealth but never look at a pretty girl who belongs to another wealthy man. A man must never act ardy or do things better than other rich people. A man must never pay the slightest attention to anything people say or write about him. Making money must be the No. 1 activity in life to the exclusion of everything else. Onassis says, "This advice is intended for men only because women have what I like to call their own natural resources."

Q: While Jane Fonda is running all over the world with a lot of hippies trying to make the Army dissatisfied, where is her baby and who takes care of her for this "Liberated" woman? —B.H., Hollywood, Calif.

A: It's true Jane is totally absorbed at present with promoting her anti-war, anti-Army Establishment documentary film "F.T.A." (This means variously "free the army" or whatever.) Meanwhile, Jane's child with French director Roger Vadim is visiting in Paris with her father. Young Vanessa adores daddy and seems very happy with a nurse while Vadim directs one of his ex-wives, Brigitte Bardot, in a new movie. Vadim says he is penniless, lives in a rented apartment on the Rue de Grenelle without furniture, and has even lost his wardrobe. But he and Jane have a perfect understanding and Vadim is not only wild about his little girl but about his son by Catherine Deneuve and his daughter by Annette Stroyberg. (Any baby of an actress is O.K. with Vadim.)

Q: Has French writer Francoise Sagan been married once or twice and does she have any children? —G. K., Cheyenne, Wyo.

A: She's been married and divorced twice and has a ten-year-old son from her second marriage to Robert Westhoff, an American. Sagan rarely talks about the child publicly as she has a near-obsession about shielding him from the limelight she has lived in for the past eighteen years, after writing "Bonjour Tristesse" at the age of nineteen.

Welch: She threw in the towel.

Plimpton: Off to the races.

NEW INDIAN CHIEFS—Two new officers have been appointed by the Kingston Indians, well-known local drum and bugle corps organization. Bernie Carle, former Color Guard instructor, has been named Assistant Corps Director, and Dawn Bauer has been named Color Guard Sergeant. Carle has served with the corps for more than seven years. Miss Bauer, a charter female member, is the first girl officer named by the Indians, who host their annual Pow-Wow at Dietz Memorial Stadium on July 30. The advance ticket sale for the event ends on Monday. These tickets, at reduced prices, are available at Shapiros, Lew's Deli, Bernie Carle Heating, Kingston Music Center, Broadway News Shop, Frank's Barber Shop and Bud's Sub Shop in Kingston, and the Port Ewen Pharmacy and Grace's Drive-In, Port Ewen. Members of the Indians also have tickets available.

Woman, 28, Hooked on Drugs Since Teen Years

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Jean is 28 years old, is married, has three children and has been hooked on drugs since she was a teen-ager. Still not cured, but being helped by methadone, she is trying to steer others away from the horrors she has known.

Her story is not a pretty one. Her description of what it means to be enslaved by heroin is ghastly but she tells it in hopes it will stop others—particularly youngsters—from being tempted to try that first "pop" that so often leads to addiction.

Jean—that's not her real name—was one of the first Oregonians on the experimental methadone program that began here three years ago. (Methadone is an addictive synthetic drug administered in orange juice daily under strict state supervision. It blocks the effects of heroin, though it does not end the craving.)

Jean got started down the road to a drug habit at the age of 15. She came from a strict home where "Dad was so concerned about me he wouldn't even let me open the door to put the cat out. He feared I'd be gone."

But Jean found a way—she used to sneak out her bedroom window to attend neighborhood beer parties. Then she began "running with a street crowd." "I think I was very curious," she explained, as she told in an interview how she started smoking marijuana and taking amphetamines. "I had been well informed by my father on most things but he left out the negative part of the world. One reason why I was so interested in the street life, it was the only thing I didn't know anything about."

At the age of 17 she "headed downtown to follow the beatnik crowd...and I thought this was just right for me." Her first stake was $70 she had saved up for Christmas presents.

She began to hear about heroin. At that time it was not as common as she says it now is, but because it was so difficult to get heroin had a mystic appeal about it which attracted Jean even more. "It was the super thing to do...you had to know someone to get it...and that made it more alluring. I had to keep at it until someone finally agreed to turn me on."

Jean got turned on—and for the next five years her life was filled with the torture of scrounging dollars from one fix of heroin to the next. She turned to prostitution, earning $100 a customer at first, but "it's not long before it's down to $10."

Some of her most traumatic experiences with heroin, Jean says, were in the morning. "I used to wake up in the morning and not have any heroin. I'd usually try to stockpile some the night before. But sometimes I would get greedy and use it all up."

There isn't much opportunity for a girl to earn money on the streets early in the day. "There's not much money on the streets in the morning—it comes out about 8 or 9 o'clock at night."

Listen to Jean tell of the physical pain of needing heroin and not having any:

"You just can't imagine what sick is. Like you don't have any stuff, and it's 10 o'clock at night. So you go on the street, and then you come back by 12, because you couldn't get the money to buy any. By 2 in the morning you're sick. Then you vomit, you have diarrhea, and pain, pain, pain—you ache all over. Did you ever have stomach gas pains? It's like that, only 10 times worse, and there is nothing you can do. Your nose runs your eyes water...and that's when you really count on somebody owing you something, to get you a fix so you can get on the street again."

Jean finally married a heroin addict, who somehow managed to hold a job. She recalls the highlight of their day was when he came home at 5 p.m. "That was our main fix of the day," she remembers.

Jean had two children then—"one on speed, and one on heroin." Since then she has had another "on methadone."

It was the fear of going to jail, losing her children, and being separated from her husband that finally drove Jean to the state's methadone program. Her husband joined, too. "My kids are the main reason I wanted to change," she said.

Supervisors of the methadone program say most subjects try to use heroin during their first three months on methadone, just to see if methadone really does block the effects. "Checking our truth in advertising," a supervisor said.

When they made the switch, Jean and her husband felt the need for something to replace that heroin. "We had to do something," she said, "we went on a beer kick. Then we went on a wine jig for six months."

Now she's working with the methadone program, trying to counsel addicts, trying to educate nonaddicts in the hazards of turning to drugs.

But Jean is still on methadone, as is her husband. As she explains it, "Life with methadone is better than the life I had before...before, methadone there was no hope."

El Paso Jail Plan...Crooks to Cooks

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—A waiter came over to see what Jose Gomez wanted for lunch. He ordered prime rib. It came with buttered peas and mashed potatoes. Freshly baked bread was on the table and desert was chocolate cream pie.

The scene was not a posh restaurant. It was the seventh floor of the El Paso County Jail, and Jose Gomez is a prisoner.

Law officers are trying to turn crooks into cooks.

The El Paso County sheriff's cooks and bakers' school is a pilot penal rehabilitation program. From October, 1970, to May, 1972, it operated on a federal grant from the Justice Department of $101,250. When the program started in 1970, $58,500 was spent to remodel and equip the seventh floor of the jail in order to transform it into a kitchen classroom.

Since the start of the program, 85 inmates—16 to 18 at a time—have completed the training and gone on to finish up their jail sentences. Some have eventually been paroled with at least a probable profession other than crime.

One "graduate" is regional manager for a local hamburger drive-in chain. There have been other successes, but like all education it is only what the person makes of it.

The small scale operation in El Paso is a reaction to rising voices across the nation demanding penal reform so that convicted criminals can be molded into productive citizens rather than be bred into more hardened cases.

Jose Gomez is an example. To understand the cooks and bakers school one has to look at it through his eyes, the eyes of a man who, at 38, has spent most of his adult life behind bars.

Once an addict, Gomez has been arrested twice for heroin possession. He is awaiting sentencing on an attempted burglary charge. He has fears of being termed an "habitual criminal" and being sentenced to life under Texas law.

He doesn't attempt to project any halo of innocence.

"I haven't been sentenced yet," he said. "I really don't know what it's going to be. I'm an addict and most of my adult life has been spent in prison. I'm off it (heroin) right now—been that way for six months."

"I've been convicted twice for possession of heroin. Once in California and once here. I've been in about five different institutions in California. They have pretty good programs out there, but the thing is that the instructor tends to let go of his discipline in teaching something."

"Like when I was taking auto mechanics," Gomez said. "I learned all the basics, but he (the instructor) didn't seem too interested in teaching me. I believe that has a lot to do with it."

When 40 people were sought (over 20 usually drop out during the course) for a 10-week class that recently finished, Gomez signed up. "Actually," he said, "I wanted to learn something about cooking. I've been alone most of my life and usually I do my own cooking. It wasn't that good."

From volunteering to actually starting the class Gomez went through a series of interviews and psychological testing.

From 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. five days a week Gomez was in the kitchen training area. The course started with orientation lectures on food by 25-year food service veteran, Deputy Sheriff Frank Trask, a cop with a football build who offers a well placed boot in reply to any wisecracks he gets from his student inmates. By the end of the course the students have advanced from sandwiches to chateaubriand and cordon bleu.

"In the county jail this is the first time that I've seen anything like this—something connected with the outside through the Texas Rehabilitation Commission," Gomez said.

"Mr. Trask is pretty good. One thing that I can say about him, if there's something I want to do, he lets me go ahead even if I mess it up. He seems to want me to practice."

While others gathered around Frank Trask, learning how to shell shrimp, Jose Gomez made a cake.

Ancona, Italy...City With the Shakes

ANCONA, Italy (UPI)—Ancona has the shakes—and so do the city's more than 110,000 residents of whom about 80 percent flee their homes each nightfall to sleep in peace.

What gives Ancona the shakes, shimmies and shivers is "Teri"—the diminutive nickname for the Italian word terremoto, for earthquake.

Teri is an old girl and she won't go away. She is thought to have been around since the times of the ancient Greeks.

The fishermen of the middle ages knew her, too. But she has been getting rougher in recent times. In 1930 a major "terremoto" flattened a quarter of the city. Then things quieted for a number of years. These were years, following World War II, when Ancona boomed. It became the Adriatic's second largest shipyard. Most of the ferries to Yugoslavia and Greece sailed from here. A chemical plant with more than 1,000 employees sprang up. The Ancona area's wide, white beaches began attracting thousands of tourists.

But Teri was only sleeping, apparently. Since Jan. 25, Ancona has been having the quivers. More than 1,000 quakes have shaken the city, slowly wearing down the morale of the residents and crumbling the masonry of their houses.

The 1930 quake lasted two days, but this time "terremoto" won't go away. "We've been living in fear for six months now," says Mayor's aide Marcello Bedeschi. "It's like she's punching our body," says Dr. Bruno Fioretti, City Council economist.

So each night, fearful their homes may collapse down on them, as many as four-fifths of the city's people leave the city to sleep in the countryside, in tent cities, and railway carriages.

Business has fallen off; the whole tempo of the city has slowed.

"Getting the people back into the city to work is only half the problem," says Mayor Alfredo Trifogli. "The other half is getting people to come back to buy."

Ancona's 1,714 small businesses grossed roughly $517,000 a day before the earthquakes started up again. Fioretti estimates the daily average now at $103,000—and that's optimistic.

Scientists say there are 32 epicenters in an arc ranging from 1.75 miles to six miles at sea, from which the tremors emanate. But they are not quite sure what sort of subterranean movement is the cause.

"I don't believe the scientists anyway," says Mayor Trifogli. "The last really severe tremor shook Ancona June 14, timed at precisely 8:59 p.m. A number of houses were wrecked, others damaged. Most residents were either just finishing dinner or watching the night's big soccer game on television."

"I remember screaming when a painting flew off the wall and came at me," recalls 16-year-old Sabrina Di Bernardino of that night. "I fainted." Her family fled their shaking, wall-cracking home for fields outside the city. The Di Bernardinos are among more than 400 families who ever since have spent their nights in a tent city outside Ancona.

Another tent city camper Luigi Cimarosta, said that during the June quake "my whole house was coming apart. I thought we'd all be crushed."

Her son, Ernesto, got her out

Five persons died as a result of the June 14 quake, of heart attacks according to Dr. Enzo Boldi of the Ancona Hospital. A sixth person, an elderly schoolteacher, fell from a crumbling rooftop two weeks later. She may have jumped. "I don't think she could bear waiting for the next one," her priest said.

As of early July there had been no more severe jolts, just shakes and shimmies. But each night those who do not leave the city tense themselves, waiting and wondering if this will be the night for another big one.

"If only the earthquakes would stop," says mayor's aide Bedeschi. "We could get the city back on its feet in three to four months. If the earthquakes would stop...."

Benevolent Adventure...Sir Edmund Hillary

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—with Hillary on top of the Nineteen years ago, Edmund Hillary, an obscure beekeeper from New Zealand, climbed into the history books when his massive boot crunched into the summit snows of 29,028-foot Mt. Everest, the highest mountain in the world.

Today, Sir Edmund is a distinguished Knight of the British Empire whose name is known around the globe. The 52-year-old adventurer holds executive and consulting positions with several large corporations and is still bagging summits in the Himalayas, Antarctica and New Zealand but a large part of his life is devoted to helping the Sherpa people of Nepal, who live in the remotest regions of the little mountain kingdom in which the summit and southern slopes of Everest lie.

Sherpas have been an essential part of every major expedition in the history of Himalayan climbing. Tensing Norgay, most celebrated of these tough, little men, stood "Goddess Mother of the World," as Everest is known in Nepal and Tibet.

For most Sherpas, however, according to Hillary, the climb to 29,000 feet is easy compared with the climb into the 20th century.

"Education and medical care are the first priorities of the Sherpa people," he said on a visit here. "Until we began building schools and a hospital in the region, illiteracy was virtually universal and childhood mortality among the highest in the world."

Moved by years of contact with the Sherpas on expeditions and his bond of heroism with Tensing, with whom he keeps in close touch, Hillary supervised construction of a small village school at Khumjung in 1961, just 12 miles from the base of Everest.

Since then, with help from public and private sources, the explorer has been instrumental in building 14 more schools and an 11-bed hospital.

"Modernization does bring problems to the Sherpas," said Hillary, "and I don't know whether to take the glory for it or the blame."

"The schools are desperately needed, and a high-country airstrip is making medical help more available. But there are many tourists coming in on guided walking trips, as well as more climbing expeditions," he said.

"Sherpas are getting jobs with the tours and expeditions, which is good. But it's appalling how sloppy some of these groups are—careless with garbage and waste. I've seen some revolting sights."

On his last trip in the winter of 1971-72 Sir Edmund took his son, two daughters ("strapping wenches") and his wife ("a first rate camper").

A lot of the tourists carry sweets and one often sees children begging—not because they need it but because it's available. That never happened years ago and it's not good."

The gradual opening of the rugged country, which resembles comic-strip Dogpatch with its impossibly narrow ravines and boulder-littered landscape, is having an environmental as well as social impact.

"The need for wood for fuel has increased drastically," Hillary said. "The Khumbu Valley (home of the Sherpas), which was beautifully wooded, is now nearly denuded. The forests have been cut under economic pressure."

"I've had discussions with the Nepalese government and the United Nations to declare the area a national park and the plan has been tentatively approved."

The Sherpa land owes much of its economic well-being to the lush for high peaks of the world's mountain climbers.

"Twelve expeditions lined up for Everest last season," said Hillary. "It was impossible for all of them to even receive permission to try."

"But I'm not sure why the mountain has such a tremendous attraction," he added. "There are hundreds of lesser, but more challenging peaks which have never been touched."

Hillary complained, however, that often the excuse of scientific progress is needed to raise money for a climbing expedition.

"It seems a shame that it's hard to raise money for the inspiration of children's imaginations or to pursue great challenges," he said. "It's artificial to have to dream up a scientific program to justify a great adventure."

Picnic Meeting

The Shandaken Senior Citizens Club will have a picnic meeting Tuesday, July 25 at North Lake. Cars will leave from Fellowship Hall of Phenicia United Methodist Church 9 a.m. In case of rain the events will be held at the hall. The president of the club, George A. Bergen has been named to a three year term on the board of directors of the Senior Citizens Alliance of Ulster County and vice president, Mildred Withers has been named vice president of the alliance.

There are two cars built in Sweden.
This is the one that reduces your collision insurance rates 15% at Allstate.

Recently, the Allstate Insurance Company challenged the automobile industry to build a car that could withstand a 5 mile an hour front end and a 2 1/2 mile an hour rear end collision with an immovable barrier without any damage to the car.
Build such a car, said Allstate, and we'll reduce collision insurance rates on it 15%... a reduction that can save the car owner $20, $40, maybe even $80 or more a year on insurance premiums.
As of today, our car passes the 1973 Federal Safety Standards for low speed collisions a year before it's required.

Our car is a lot different from the other car built in Sweden in other ways, too.
Our car has Front-Wheel Drive, a standard 4-cylinder, fuel-injected, overhead cam engine and 4-speed transmission (3-speed automatic is optional), 4-wheel disc brakes and roll-over construction. Radial tires are standard too.
One thing that isn't a lot different is price.
Our car costs about the same as theirs.
So before you buy their car, drive ours.
The SAAB 99E. We think you're going to buy our car instead of theirs. SAAB 99E

Free to AMERLING VOLKSWAGEN new car owners. Leave your car for service anytime between 8:30 A.M. and 9:30 P.M. Drive away in a free, new VOLKSWAGEN Courtesy Service car, compliments of AMERLING VOLKSWAGEN.

Every new 1972 VOLKSWAGEN is designed for a computer to be received later this year. This computer, completely void of human error, will diagnose what is or is not wrong with your car more quickly and less expensively than ever before possible. Until then our service department prides itself on performing quality work in a prompt and courteous manner.

The VOLKSWAGEN nationwide parts network surpasses even domestic dealers. Our complete parts inventory is available to you Monday through Friday 8:30 A.M. to 5:30 P.M., Saturdays 8:30 A.M. to 12:30 P.M.

Our VOLKSWAGEN body shop will repair a damaged car according to factory specifications.

Every 1972 VOLKSWAGEN is guaranteed twice as long as any other car except the Rolls Royce. If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the VOLKSWAGEN maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first (except normal wear and tear items) we will repair or replace it free of charge. See us for details.

NADA figures confirm that after only one year a VOLKS-WAGEN is worth from $250 to $700 more than any other small imported or domestic cars.

A VOLKSWAGEN sells for about the same price as any other small imported or domestic car.

Our on premises Bank Plan lets you decide how much you wish to pay down. All you really need is your sales tax, we can finance the balance. There need not be any other expenses because for the next 24 months or 24,000 miles your VOLKS-WAGEN is guaranteed for parts and labor.

Our used car department has a complete selection of all makes and models so we are ready, willing and able to trade any car.

GLAMOUR INTERIORS THE NEW LOOK WITH AMERLING VOLKSWAGENS

No other imported or domestic car can give you all this. So for a comparable price it pays to buy the best and the best buy for your money is the VOLKSWAGEN.

Kingston Boy, 13, Killed in Bicycle-Car Accident

TOWN OF ESOPUS

A 13-year-old Kingston boy died Saturday afternoon at Benedictine Hospital after sustaining injuries in a car-bicycle mishap on Route 213 in the Town of Esopus.

Pronounced dead at 2:20 p.m. following the noon-time accident was Robert Weaver, of 56 Chapel Street, Kingston.

Six persons were meanwhile injured, two seriously, in a three-car pileup on Route 32 in the Town of New Paltz Saturday afternoon.

According to Highland State

Police who investigated the Esopus fatality, the Weaver boy was riding his bicycle along the center of the road when he was struck by a car operated by Muriel Koch, 21, of 2 South Ohioville Road, New Paltz.

The Koch woman reportedly saw the boy approaching along the center of the road and skidded into him after applying her brakes. Police said the bicycle was struck by the left side of the car and both the bike and the boy were hurled through the air into a ditch at the side of the road.

Another car operated by James Becker, Jr., 25, of 85 Stephan Street, Kingston, was reported to have been struck by the Koch vehicle as it continued to skid after striking the boy.

The boy was said to have received a fractured thigh, pelvis, internal injuries, and a possible fractured skull when he was hit.

Police said investigation was continuing into the mishap.

John Cervine, 55, and his wife, Constance, 50, of 56 E. 213 Street, New York City, were reported to be in serious condition in the intensive care unit of Kingston Hospital Saturday night after sustaining injuries in the New Paltz accident.

Also admitted to Kingston Hospital following the three-car accident south of New Paltz were Margaret McCullen, 17, of 5 Pamel Lane, New Paltz, and Jeffrey Huggler, 19, of Upper Ferndale Road, Liberty.

Huggler was reported to be suffering from head injuries. The McCullen girl was said to have sustained a fracture and dislocation of the right leg and hip. Their conditions were not immediately known.

Treated and released at Kingston Hospital after the accident were Timothy Huggler, 17, a brother of Jeffrey Huggler, and Lee C. Rhinehart, 19, of Box 96, Route 32 South, New Paltz.

New Paltz Town Police who investigated said a car driven by Jeffrey Huggler allegedly pulled out of a side road in front of the two other vehicles which were proceeding along Route 32 in opposite directions. Huggler was issued a summons for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Rhinebeck State Police meanwhile reported that two children were injured in separate incidents Saturday afternoon when struck by cars. One child was riding a bicycle at the time.

Peter Strong, 5, of 18 Spring Brook Road was reportedly crossing Route 9 in the Town of Rhinebeck when he was struck by a vehicle operated by Jean Krumm, 42, of 4 Hamilton Road, Red Hook. The boy was taken to Northern Dutchess Hospital where his condition was not immediately noted.

Injured when her bicycle ran into a car on Baker Street, Staatsburg, was Margaret Kendall, 8, of Baker Street. The car, operated by William W. Shay of Mulford Avenue, Staatsburg, was making a turn into East Elm Street when the girl apparently lost control of her bike and struck it, police said.

The girl was taken to St. Francis Hospital where her condition was not immediately noted.

UN Secretary... 'Don't Bomb Dikes'

MOSCOW (UPI)—U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim Saturday urged the United States not to bomb North Vietnam's dikes. He said thousands would die if such bombings were carried out.

"I firmly hope and appeal that this will be avoided," Waldheim told a news conference at the conclusion of his five-day official visit to the Soviet Union.

In response to a question, Waldheim said he did not know whether reports that U.S. bombers have already hit the dikes were true or not. But he expressed "deep concern" over the reports.

"You know, of course, that the United States government denies this," he said. "So there are two versions (of what has happened)."

Saying that the only solution to the Vietnam War is a negotiated peace, Waldheim then added:

"I am personally very concerned with these (bombing) reports—deeply concerned."

"If these dikes were bombed it would lead to flooding of the whole plain of North Vietnam, it would lead to a disaster and the deaths of thousands of people."

"I firmly hope and appeal that this will be avoided," Waldheim also said. Egypt's ouster of Soviet military advisers would have no effect on prospects for a political settlement of the Middle East conflict.

"The two things have nothing to do with each other," Waldheim said. "They are completely separate issues."

Waldheim said he had had talks in Moscow with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and lesser Soviet officials during this visit. He said he found the Soviets "strong supporters" of the United Nations.

He said he and his hosts had discussed the full range of international issues and "problems" related to the operation of the United Nations itself.

Space Shuttle Contract Award Imminent

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—After two months of unusual secrecy, the Space Agency is expected to award a multi-billion dollar contract within several days for its revolutionary space shuttle rocket plane.

It is likely to be the last big manned spaceflight contract to be awarded this decade and four aerospace giants are competing for the prize. Those of jobs hang on the outcome.

The competitors are the Grumman Aerospace Corp., Bethpage, N.Y., Lockheed Missile and Space Co., Inc., Sunnyvale, Calif., McDonnell-

Venus Probe Termed 'Successful'

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union's Venus 8 probe Saturday soft-landed instruments on the surface of Venus and transmitted scientific information back to earth for 50 minutes, the Tass news agency said.

It was the second successful soft-landing of a Soviet probe on Venus. The first, Venus 7, broadcast scientific information for 23 minutes before searing temperatures and crushing pressures silenced it.

Tass said "the descent craft of the Soviet station Venus 8, made a soft-landing on Venus at 12:29 p.m. (5:29 a.m. EDT) Moscow time."

"Investigations of the Venusian atmosphere and surface layer were carried out while the craft was parachuting down and (for) 50 minutes after it landed. The information was transmitted back to earth."

The instrument package, which also included a Soviet flag and a bas-relief of founding father V. I. Lenin, marked the second time the Soviets soft-landed a capsule on Earth's closest planetary neighbor.

The unmanned Venus 7 parachuted instruments onto the surface of the distant planet in December, 1970. The signals it sent for 23 minutes were the first received on earth from another planet.

Venus 8 was launched March 27. It weighed 2,956 pounds.

"Carried out for the first time were experiments to determine brightness, pressure and temperature in the atmosphere and on the surface of the planet on its day side," Tass said.

"Data has been obtained on the nature of the rocks of the planet's surface layer. The results of the measurements are being processed."

Break Monopoly Machinery Discussed by Senator Hart

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said Saturday machinery should be set up under which monopolies could be broken up if consumers would benefit.

Hart said he would introduce legislation to establish an independent commission and a special 15-judge court to decide whether monopolies and oligopolies—a few corporations controlling an industry—should be redistributed.

He admitted such a move could force a break-up of General Motors Corp., a homestate industry for Hart which accounts for about 50 percent of the domestic auto sales.

Any break-up decision would be based, he said, on the greatest benefit to the consumer and whether the company involved meets three criteria for assumed monopoly.

Explanations Needed

Those criteria would be an average return on net worth exceeding 15 percent for five consecutive years; no substantial price competition among two or more corporations; and "a share of 50 percent or more of sales for a product or industry by any four or fewer corporations."

"Firms operating under any of the above conditions," he said, "would be liable to be

WHAT DID HE LOSE?

A youth was stopped for a traffic violation. The public safety official recognized the odor in the violator's car and it was found that he had a few "joints" with him. He was convicted of marijuana possession, an automatic felony, and received a suspended sentence.

All he lost was his right to vote, to own a gun and the right to run for public office.

He also lost the opportunity of ever being a licensed doctor, dentist, certified public accountant, engineer, lawyer, architect, realtor, schoolteacher, barber, funeral director, masseur or stockbroker.

He can never get a job where he has to be bonded or licensed.

He can't work for the city, county or federal governments.

He cannot be admitted to West Point, Annapolis or the Air Force Academy.

First Runner-Up in State Pageant . . . A First for Ulster

A five-foot, five brown-eyed brunette, named Georgianna Ellen Dacre, Miss Ulster County of 1972 nearly reached the plateau which offered her the chance to become Miss America.

This sounds like a lot of heartache, being so close, and missing by an eyelash. Yes, an eyelash, because this is usually what it is. In the State Pageant, the five finalists are usually an eyelash apart.

If Georgianna was disappointed by being so close, it was not evident. She appeared gay, almost relieved and jovial. She did her job and did it well. She brought home to Ulster County the position of first runnerup to Miss New York State, who was a Rochester girl, Judith Keithley. Georgianna had nothing to be sad about. She brought honor to her home community, Stony Point and Saugerties, the home of the Ulster County Pageant.

This was the highest position any girl ever achieved in the Miss Ulster County Pageant. The local pageant had a Miss Congeniality, three finalists and a most talented non-finalist.

Scholarship Awards

In addition Georgianna received a $500 scholarship which with the $650 she receives as Miss Ulster County gives her a lot of scholarship money to continue her education and her career in music.

Where does she go from here? As first runnerup to Miss

New York State, she is in great demand in her home county, Ulster.

A 118 pound beauty with flashing dark brown eyes, suddenly became a household word. She was on regional color TV and made the front pages of most newspapers and was a headliner on all area radio stations.

Even before all this, she was named Ulster County honorary fire chief by the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, and her prime assignment will be to appear in the Escort Division of the County Vols convention parade July 29 at Ellenville. This date was made nearly a year ago, before she was even named.

Merrill Williams, vols president said at the Rosendale convention nearly a year ago, "I want Miss Ulster County for our parade, who ever she is!" Miss Ulster County was immediately committed and Georgianna has since accepted the assignment.

Many Appearances Slated

Her assignments throughout the summer months will be along the volunteer firemen's bazaar circuit. She will also attend a variety of banquets. In some of these she will speak, telling of her experiences at the State Pageant and the thrills of her tenure as Miss Ulster County. She will be attending some conventions and other meetings of service organizations, telling the pageant story, selling the idea to all who will listen, who the pageant provides the opportunity of higher education for deserving young ladies.

The fees that are donated for her appearances all go into the scholarship fund and all are tax deductible. Al Cawein is her business manager.

In addition to her appearances throughout Ulster County, she will also be working with the Pageant Committee and the Saugerties Jaycees, sponsors of the Pageant, on the next pageant, projected for the spring of 1973.

Willing to Help 'Hopefuls'

Being the special kind of girl she is, she has committed herself to help every girl who enters the 1973 pageant get a chance to win a scholarship. Georgianna will complete her year at the 1973 Pageant when she relinquishes her crown to the new Miss Ulster County 1973.

Miss Dacre plans to continue her education at Ulster County Community College and has her sights set for additional musical training in the future. An accomplished pianist, she wants to be a teacher and pass on some of what she had learned. Georgianna has been playing the piano for nearly 10 years.

During her term as Miss Ulster County, she has gained a lot. She shows compassion, thoughtfulness and is grateful for the opportunity she has had and wants other girls to have that chance. Georgianna is a real queen and right now for the rest of the year, she is our queen, Miss Ulster County.

An Enthusiastic Arlene Dahl Tries Kissinger-Style Diplomacy

By MARIAN CHRISTY

NEW YORK — Razzle-dazzle red-haired Arlene Dahl had a thing going with President Nixon but he wisely referred her to the country's supreme girl watcher—Henry Kissinger.

Fortyish Arlene, with the enthusiastic blessing of 37-year-old husband — Rounselle W. Schaum, chairman of Western Video Industries — has big plans with Henry to crash the Iron Curtain by capitalizing on feminine wiles.

Both parties know the power of a beautiful woman. State Department plans are afoot for Arlene to stage cosmetic make-overs of audience-chosen women at massive "shows-for-thousands" in Moscow. Similar shindigs will have occurred first in Yugoslavia, Albania and Rumania to focus snowballed interest on glamor-hungry females being metamorphosed by a famous American movie star.

Behind the superficial goodwill lies a vast opportunity for American cosmetic companies to import their wares to heretofore unreachable countries. Every lady who comes to the show will get free samples of the American goodies. Obviously the come-on is dynamite.

The proposed show, dubbed "Beauty Happening," will feature impromptu before-after demonstrations of women chosen at random for the rare glory of professionally applied cosmetics topped by a wig. Minneapolis born Arlene will commentate through interpreters. Talk about to Russia with love.

Pretty Arlene originally took the idea to her friend, the President, who instantly contacted Henry who, in turn, saw Arlene and flipped for the girl and her project.

"Henry says the trick is to make those countries think it was really their idea and we, the Americans, are just helping out," says Arlene.

With Henry at the helm, diplomacy at top-level takes far less time than you'd believe. Arlene insists that, with a bit of proverbial luck, the "Beauty Happening" will be on the road to Russia by early 1973.

"It will open up all sorts of trade possibilities between America and Iron Curtain countries," exudes Arlene. "Henry is sure it'll work. He's proceeding on the theory that the government will rake in most of the profits. It will be a deal too good to turn down."

Arlene, who recently flew to Hollywood for a party honoring Henry, talks about her new mentor: "Henry loves intelligent women if they're pretty. The relationship doesn't click if his eyes have a feast and his mind starves."

Women's Lib hasn't reached Arlene except on the undebatable plateau of equal pay for equal work: "Frumpy women with angry faces being aggressive and making outrageous demands aren't getting their points across at all."

Arlene's current earning power is reportedly near the half-million mark. There's a Broadway musical in her future. "Money has been a by-product rather than the object of my life," she says.

Perhaps Arlene is doing more for female liberation than her sisters dream. She's National Beauty Advisor to Sears where she sees obvious professional discrepancies based on sexism. She protests. But with devastating subtlety — and at her own expense:

"I give the nicest lunches and cocktail parties for men who sit in the executive suite," purrs Arlene. "I don't carry placards or alienate powerful men who yield influence. But I do get my points across in friendly dialogue. Of course if you print this, you're dead," she warns.

Men have always wanted to help Arlene.

It started with her father, now 80-year-old Rudolph S. Dahl, a retired Ford Motor Co. executive who was her greatest booster. "If I hit a note," she says, "he immediately arranged for me to have singing lessons," she says. "He opened every possible door."

Arlene on her father: "He's a Lutheran but he'll go to Pope heaven. I consider him a saint. When my parents had their 20th anniversary, he toasted Mom with champagne. She was withering away in a wheelchair. He had spent his life's savings on doctor's bills. But he spoke to her with love — citing all the happiness she had brought him. He could have been so bitter."

Arlene says her husband is a much of a humanist as her father.

Schaum has negotiated her most complicated contracts, encouraged her to try new ventures when she didn't have the confidence and the acid test of marital success — he ate dinner alone nightly, without grumbling, while she appeared in the Broadway play "Applause."

"He's thrilled when things happen to me," says Arlene who 18 months ago gave birth

New Pamphlet Discusses Health Hazards Faced by Women Smokers

New brands of cigarettes, "especially for women," promote smoking as a symbol of women's liberation and a glamorous adjunct to a sophisticated life-style — even linking it to sexual freedom for women.

But, ask Jane E. Brody and Richard Engquist in a new Public Affairs Pamphlet, what's really so glamorous or chic about cigarette breath and cigarette cough? about ashes and cigarette butts? More important, like their male counterparts, women who smoke are courting serious risk to health and life. And, further, as the authors write, "Smoking during pregnancy affects two lives — the mother's and that of her unborn child." WOMEN AND SMOKING is available for 25 cents from the Public Affairs Committee, 381 Park Avenue

South, New York, N.Y. 10016.

While the percentage of women smoking has declined a little in recent years, women generally are taking up the habit at younger and younger ages. In 1970, WOMEN AND SMOKING reports, nearly 12 per cent of girls between ages 12 and 18 were found to be regular smokers. Smokers who start early are more likely to become heavy smokers, and there is a corresponding increase in the proportion of women who are heavy smokers.

Women have not caught up with the damaging smoking habits of men, and thus do not yet suffer to the same extent from the pain, disability, and early death smoking can cause. But the gap is narrowing fast as more and more women take on men's smoking habits.

As reliable medical data now clearly show, any woman who wants her child to develop properly should abstain from smoking during pregnancy. Principal risks discussed by Brody and Engquist include lower than normal birthweight, stillbirth, miscarriage, and impairment of the infant's heart rate and blood pressure. Nor does the damage cease at birth. Studies show that babies of smoking mothers have a much higher incidence of heart damage, cancer, and convulsions. According to a British survey of 17,000 births, a mother's smoking habit will very likely have an inhibiting effect on her child's later social development. The authors conclude that "The children of nonsmoking parents have a very marked 'edge' over those whose parents are dependent on cigarettes or other forms of tobacco."

The urgent message of WOMEN AND SMOKING is that women, like men, must without delay redouble their efforts to quit smoking. The intensive cigarette advertising campaigns, presently concentrate on women, do not

WOMEN AND SMOKING is No. 475 in the Public Affairs Pamphlet series, now in its 37th year. The series includes many other helpful titles covering health and science, family relations, social and economic problems, race relations. A list is available on request. CHECK PRESENTATION—Mrs. Sigmund Brock, second from right, past president of Welcome Wagon Club of Kingston, presents a check for $100 to Arlene M. Igou-Clark

Mr. and Mrs. O. Lincoln Igou of 43 North Manheim Boulevard, New Paltz, announce the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to William James Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. William James Clark of 105 Jenkinstown Road, New Paltz.

The wedding took place Saturday, July 15 at 3 p.m. in the Reformed Church of New Paltz. The Rev. Gerret Wullschlegel, pastor emeritus, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Baroque music was played by Miss Mary Jane Corry, harpsichord; Miss Linda Cumiskey, violin; and Harry Jensen, cello. They are all members of the music staff at State University of New York at New Paltz, where the bride's father is a music professor.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk organza over taffeta gown. The gown featured a high neck, short puffed sleeves, a long train and was trimmed with cotton rosetti lace. Matching lace and seed pearls accented her camelot cap which held her long silk illusion veil. Mrs. Clark carried a nosegay of yellow sweetheart roses, white stock and baby's breath.

Miss Betty Anne Igou, 43 North Manheim Boulevard, New Paltz, served as honor attendant for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Clark, sister of the bridegroom, 105 Jenkinstown Road, New Paltz and Kathy Doyle, West Redding, Conn. Miss Robin Igou, niece of the bride, served as flower girl.

All the attendants were attired in yellow flocked voile gowns. The honor attendant and bridesmaids wore picture hats and carried baskets of pink miniature carnations, snapdragons, pink bridal roses, yellow marquerites.

The flower girl carried a miniature basket, similar to those of the other attendants.

Timothy Jones of 6 Lincoln

Place, New Paltz, served as best man. Hugh Rawlins, cousin of the bride, 37 Ripplewater Avenue, Massapequa; and Lawrence McGrath, New Paltz, were ushers.

A reception was held at Wildmere, Lake Minnewaska. The bride was graduated in 1970 from New Paltz High School. She attended Bay Path Junior College, Massachusetts, and was graduated from Spencerian Business School. She is employed by Bankers Trust, Poughkeepsie, as a secretary.

Her husband, a 1970 graduate of New Paltz High School, attended Oswego State University. Mr. Clark is a member of the U.S. Air Corps Reserve and will begin active service at a later date.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark honeymooned in Lake George.

Hudson-LaFalce

Announcement has been made of the wedding of Jean Hudson of Rhinebeck and Stephen LaFalce of Kerhonkson. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Henry A. Hudson of Latrobe, Pa., and the late Mr. Hudson, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John A. LaFalce of Kerhonkson and the late Mr. LaFalce.

The Rev. C. Russell Kerr of Latrobe Methodist Church, Pennsylvania, officiated at the afternoon garden wedding ceremony which took place at the home of the bride's mother.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Henry A. Hudson Jr. Mary Serermark of Philadelphia, Pa., served as matron of honor for her sister, Kathleen Ingraham of Marlborough, Conn., and Kathleen Hanaburgh of Rhinebeck served as bridesmaids. Flower girls were Jennifer and Jill Hudson, nieces of the bride.

John Post of Lake Katrine was best man and Victor D'Alessio of Kerhonkson and Jeffrey Spiegel of High Falls were ushers.

Following a reception at Rolling Rock Club, Latrobe, Pa., the couple left for a wedding trip to the Florida Keys. They will temporarily reside in Florida.

Miss Barbara Philip Exchanges Vows With A. I. Proestos

The Rev. Steven Sarigiannis of Kimisis Greek Orthodox Church, Poughkeepsie, officiated at the double ring wedding ceremony of Barbara Philip, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Philip, Ulster Avenue Mall, Kingston, and Andreas Iacovou Proestos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Iacovou Proestos, Ulster Avenue Mall, Kingston.

The wedding took place Sunday, July 9 at 2 p.m. in St. George Greek Orthodox Church. The theme from Romeo and Juliet was played.

Michael Philip gave his daughter in marriage. She selected an ivory silk organza gown styled with a wedding band neckline, short puffed sleeves, and an attached train. The gown was ap-pliqued with Alencon lace and seed pearls. A wreath of matching lace and seed pearls held her fingertip illusion veil and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Miss Patricia Northrup of Hemlock Avenue, Kingston, served as maid of honor. Attendants were the Mmes. Nevin Henson, Big Springs, Tex.; Ralph Walters, Brockport; Nelson Pedraza, Queens; and the Misses Patricia Dunn, Washington, D.C.; Barbara Graff, Springfield; Patricia Henley, Long Island; and Barbara Hart, Salamanca. Miss Maria Kalimeras served as flower girl.

The bride selected satin multi-colored gowns of charcoal, pink, aqua and yellow and royal blue, pink, aqua and yellow for her bridal party. The attendants carried nosegays of carnations.

The brother of the bridegroom, Paul Proestos, Kyrenia, Cyprus, served as best man. Ushers were George Philip, Scotia; Harry Philip, Hurley; Michael Philip, Kingston; all brothers of the bride; Nelson Pedraza, Queens; Ralph Walters, Brockport and Michael Kalimeras, Kingston. Antonis Kalimeras was ringbearer.

Two hundred guests attended a reception at St. George Greek Orthodox Church Hall.

The bride is a 1968 alumna of Kingston High School. She was graduated in 1972 from State University College at Brockport where she majored in Elementary Education and Health Science. Her husband attended Queens College, New York, and is employed as a manufacturers representative by Komisar Associates.

The couple will reside at Voorheesville.

Married in Rhinebeck

Miss Kathryn Lee Swatton and Michael D. Tulp were married Saturday, July 8 in Church of the Messiah, Rhinebeck. The Rev. Leslie F. Prutten officiated at the double ring ceremony. The Rev. David C. Brown assisted. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Swatton, Rhinebeck, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael L. Tulp, West Hurley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Valerie J. Swatton. Bridesmaids were Miss Susan J. Beckley, cousin of the bride, Wayne, N.J.;

Miss Tiffany J. Tulp and Miss Kimberley A. Tulp, both sisters of the bridegroom.

Ens. Gary A. Hausman, Pensacola, Fla., was best man. Ushers were Lt. Carey A. Anderson, John T. Theiss, both of Newburgh; and Robert H. Hildreth, Rhinebeck.

A lawn reception was held at the Church of Messiah.

The bride received her degree from Lynchburg College, Lynchburg, Va. and is now teaching kindergarten in Germantown. The bridegroom is a 1972 alumnus of Marist College.

The couple honeymooned in Cape Cod.

Elizabeth Post: Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I will be married soon in a very small and quiet wedding. My future husband and I have lived common-law for five years and are finally able to marry.

Is it proper to send announcements to a few relatives afterwards? I have not met all of my husband's family. One of his aunts that I have met has urged me to be sure everyone knows when the big day will be. Now that everything will be legal maybe some of the others would like to resume friendship with their brother. I wouldn't want to cause a problem by sending a note to some and not to the others.

Deborah

Dear Deborah:

You may send engraved announcements of your marriage or you may write personal notes to your husband's relatives and your own family and friends. The note might say, "Bob and I want you to know we were married on . . . at . . . We are so happy and hope that we may see you soon . . ."

"and/or any other appropriate remarks. The important thing is that you send an announcement to everyone to show your happiness that you and your husband have finally been able to make your marriage legally and socially right."

Dear Mrs. Post:

My fiancé and I have been engaged for four months, and in two weeks his parents are giving us an engagement party. Our problem is this — my relatives and friends have already given us gifts, whereas his relatives are waiting for the party. Would it be proper to display the gifts we have already received or simply mention it and thank them again? The party is being held in a banquet hall.

Patricia

Dear Patricia:

Engagement gifts are rarely placed on display, especially when the party is not to be held at home. Wedding gifts are displayed, whenever possible, so it would seem rather ostentatious to do so twice.

Thank your relatives and friends again, at the party, and tell any of your fiancé's family who are interested what you have received.

Dear Mrs. Post:

When sitting next to the hostess at a dinner party, and being served by the hostess, does one keep the serving, or pass it along?

Mrs. R.

Dear Mrs. R.:

When the hostess is serving, she passes the first plate to the guest on her right, and asks him (or her) to keep it. Other plates are then passed on to the person at the end of the table, or in order, starting at the guest's right.

Engagement, Wedding Reported

Mr. and Mrs. Parvan A. Gates of Lake Katrine, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol, to James W. Werner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Werner of 52 Mountain View Avenue, Hurley.

Miss Gates is a 1970 graduate of Kingston High School and a 1972 graduate of Ulster County Community College. She is employed by Heritage Savings Bank, Kingston.

Her fiancé, a 1968 alumnus of KHS, attended UCCC. Mr. Werner is employed by Herzog's Supply Company, Kingston Shopping Plaza.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Adin, 18 Manor Place, Kingston, announce the marriage of their daughter, Valerie Phyllis, to John A. Macleod of Cranbury, N.J.

Rabbi Albert Ginsberg officiated at the ceremony which took place in Cranbury, N.J. on July 12.

Miss Elyse Adin served as maid of honor for her sister.

Mrs. Macleod was graduated from State University College at New Paltz. Mr. Macleod is vice president of Young Rubicam Advertising, Madison Avenue, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Macleod will reside at Cranbury, N.J.

DRY BEANS

Here is a description and use of dry beans, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist.

PEA (NAVY): Small white and oval. Use — baking, soups, and casseroles and canned pork and beans.

PINTO: Buff-colored, speckled with brown. Use — salads and casseroles. This bean is preferred in the Southwest for chili.

GREAT NORTHERN: White and flat, larger than Navy pea beans. Use — canned pork and beans, casseroles and salads. It is too tender for dishes which require a long cooking time.

RED KIDNEY and WHITE KIDNEY: Light to dark red in color. Use — casseroles, salads and chili. White kidney beans are usually found in cans and used in soups, casseroles and salads.

LIMA (LARGE AND BABY): Large or small, flat, broad and white. Use — vegetable dishes and casseroles.

BLACKEYES: Soft tan color with black eye. The blackeye bean is called a pea in the South, but is marketed as a bean in the rest of the country. Use — boiled with pork and seasonings as a vegetable dish.

SMALL WHITE: Similar in shape and color to Great Northern, but smaller. Use — it is widely used for canned pork and beans by processors.

MARROW: Marrow beans are white and oval shaped. They are sweet and mealy. Use — casseroles.

GARBANZO OR CHICK-PEA: Garbanzos are uneven, round, slightly heart-shaped beans. Use — it is used in soups or puree for dips or spreads. It is excellent chilled and marinated or added to a tossed salad.

BLACK BEAN DIP: One cup black beans cooked Two tablespoons shortening One medium onion — finely chopped

One-half teaspoon garlic salt
One-quarter teaspoon celery salt
One-quarter teaspoon pepper
One-quarter teaspoon Accent
Two tablespoons Worcestershire Sauce Tabasco (optional)
One tablespoon sugar
Salt to taste
Milk — desired amount for smooth consistency

To cook beans — wash thoroughly and drain. Add enough water to cover and cook until tender (about two and one-half hours). Add water if necessary. Do not cook beans in salt water. Add the salt after beans are tender.
Mash or osterize the beans. Fry onion in shortening until golden brown. Add to the beans and add the spices. Simmer for 30 minutes. If too dry, add a little milk. Serve hot or cold with chips or triscuits.

This may seem "soupy" but it thickens when it is cold. When you are simmering make sure it does not stick and burn on the bottom. Our Italian friends like more garlic salt and would leave out the Worcestershire sauce entirely — so you can suit yourself.

LIMA BEANS AU GRATIN
One pound large lima beans, cooked

One-quarter cup chopped onion

One-quarter cup chopped celery

One-quarter cup butter

One-quarter cup flour

One cup milk

One cup evaporated milk

One and one-half cups shredded Cheddar cheese

Three tablespoons diced pimiento

One-half teaspoon salt

One-quarter teaspoon thyme

Drain lima beans, reserving one-quarter cup cooking liquid.

Saute onion and celery in melted butter. Stir in flour.

Gradually add milk, evaporated milk and reserved cooking liquid. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Stir in one cup of the cheese; stir until melted. Add pimiento, salt and thyme.

Place beans and sauce in alternate layers in a greased two-quart casserole, ending with sauce. Top with one-quarter cup shredded cheese. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees F. for one hour or until golden.

SWEET AND SOUR BAKED BEANS

One cup chopped onion

One clove garlic, minced

One-half cup bacon drippings

One-quarter cup dark brown sugar

One (15 oz.) can tomato sauce

One-half cup chili sauce

One teaspoon salt

One-quarter teaspoon pepper

Two dashes Tabasco sauce

One pound navy beans, cooked and drained

One (13 and one-half oz.) can pineapple chunks, drained and cut in half

One-half cup chopped sweet pickles

One-quarter cup sliced stuffed olives

Saute onion and garlic in bacon drippings. Stir in next 8 ingredients and simmer for 20 minutes.

Combine with cooked navy beans, pineapple, pickles and olives. Turn into a three-quart casserole, cover. Bake at 350 degrees F. one hour. Uncover; bake 15 minutes. Makes eight to 10 servings.

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years in the MONROE, LA NEWS-STAR. Yesterday I found a yellowed clipping in a box of things. I can't even tell you how many years ago I put it away, but it applies even more today with so many old folks in rest homes today. I hope you'll reprint it.

MRS. WINNIE BRAINS
DEAR MRS. B.: With pleasure. And here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: Years ago, when my widowed mother came to live with me and my husband, she made our lives so miserable that I determined that I would never bring such misery to my children if I ever had to live with them. One day I sat down and wrote myself a letter. In it were some pertinent rules, and on the outside of the envelope I wrote, 'To be opened on the day I go to live with my daughter, heaven forbid.' I tucked it away in an old book and forgot about it. I've been widowed and self-sufficient for 6 years, but now I was recently forced to give up my job and go live with my oldest daughter. I've opened that letter and I think your older readers might benefit from it, as I intend to. Here are the rules:

1. Give what you can toward your keep. Any budget will stretch just so far.

2. Keep yourself clean and neat.

3. Remember, it is THEIR home. Be especially considerate of HIM. He allowed her to bring you here.

4. Give them privacy at every opportunity.

5. If they want to go away on a vacation, but are hesitant because of you, offer to visit another relative or friend so they will be free to go.

6. Don't offer any advice or express any opinions unless asked.

7. Volunteer information that they might be too embarrassed to ask for, such as arrangements for your burial, hospitalization, etc.

These rules were written over 20 years ago! I read them often and am determined to keep them."

DEAR ABBY: I am very happy married to Bill who has a full beard. Many of my married friends ask me how I can stand to make love to a man with all that hair on his face. Well, to tell you the truth, I love it!

When Bill and I were first married, he was clean shaven. His hair is dark and very coarse and it grew in so fast that he would have to shave again in the evening if we were going out. In those days when we made love, my poor sensitive face was rubbed practically raw by his prickling, bristle-type whiskers. Now that he has let his beard grow, it's soft and silky. I hope he never shaves it off.

Some Rules for a Parent Living with Offspring

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR WIFE: It's refreshing to hear a good word about beards because I'm sure many are hair to stay.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has suggested that I learn to play bridge (her favorite daytime hobby) so that we can socialize with her bridge-playing friends in the evening. I have explained to her that I am not really very fond of card playing and I don't care to get involved.

She contends that I am being very selfish and inconsiderate by not learning to play bridge simply to please her. Conversely, I say that she is selfish and inconsiderate to insist that I engage in an activity which doesn't appeal to me in the least. (I would never ask that of her.)

What do you think?
DEAR NO: You won't stand.

Hints From Heloise for the Busy Woman

Dear Heloise:

I just finished folding sheets for the umpteenth time and decided that this would be the day to pass on my little hint.

With my family of seven, we have four different bed sizes (counting the crib). This means that when the kids (who are old enough to make their own beds) try to find their sheets, they have that many different stacks to mess up.

No matter how I tried to indicate the sizes (I tried labels on the sides of the shelves, even different colors), someone always left the linen closet looking terrible.

So I gave it some thought: What did I want most? Evenly folded sheets with the wide hem on the outside, each corner square or a fairly neat-looking linen closet?

Since I decided on the latter, I now fold my sheets in such a way that the label is always on the outside and on the top of the stack.

And the label corner is to the outside of the shelf. It's remarkable what a difference it makes!

It does mean changing a message we got from our mothers to always fold the sheets "just this one way" but do you know we don't always have to do it the way we were taught?

We can... change!

Dear Heloise:

I am a bride of less than a year and am ecstatic to find out a home can be neat and clean without having the "showroom" appearance of some homes I have seen.

Dear Heloise:

I think most mothers with young babies greatly appreciate disposable diapers.

However, if you use them all the time, a double diaper at night or for shopping trips can be a trick.

My solution is to take two disposable diapers and remove the plastic from one.

Then fold the diaper without the plastic in half lengthwise, and place it between the plastic and liner of the other diaper.

Hints on Buying Vegetables for Economy-Minded Shoppers

Experience is the best teacher when buying vegetables. But it helps to have a few guidelines to take along to the supermarket. No matter the budget, it saves money to insist upon fresh vegetables. Those that are wilted and stale really are not a bargain unless tossed into a soup pot. Your local newspaper carries a listing of plentiful vegetables and better buys occur at the peak of the season. Again it doesn't pay to buy more vegetables than can be used soon without waste. Most fresh vegetables hold for two to five days, while root vegetables can be stored from one to several weeks.

Here is a guide to buying fresh vegetables:

ARTICHOKES—Size not important in relation to quality. Should be compact, with thick, green scales (outside leaf). Avoid those with large areas of brown on the scales and with spreading scales, grayish-black discoloration, mold growth or signs of worm injury at the near-base.

ASPARAGUS—Has a short life. Use promptly. Stalks should be tender and firm and tips close and compact. Choose with little white on stalks for tenderness. Tender asparagus is brittle, while angular or flat stalks are apt to be woody.

SNAP BEANS—Select tender beans with no bumps, free from scars. When broken, there should be no strings. Avoid dry-looking, dull or lifeless-looking pods.

BROCCOLI—Look for fresh, green, compact bud clusters. Avoid yellowing, soft or spreading heads. Open bud clusters mean broccoli is over-mature. Avoid wilted, flabby or bruised items.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS—Select sprouts that are firm, compact, fresh, bright and with good green color. Avoid puffy or soft sprouts, those with wilted or yellowing leaves. Avoid wormy, smudgy or dirty appearance. This indicates insect damage or decay.

CABBAGE—Three major groups here. Green cabbage, green crinkly leaved Savoy and red cabbage. Sold as fresh-new or storage-old. Select firm, heavy-for-size heads. Outside leaves good color for type—good green or red. In new cabbage, avoid wilted or decayed outer leaves, yellowing or worm-eaten. In storage cabbage, avoid badly discolored, dry or decayed outer leaves. Separation of stems or leaves from central stem at base also indicates over age.

CARROTS—Available year-round. Should be well-formed, smooth, well-colored and firm. Avoid those that look wilted, flabby, soft or shriveled. Also avoid those with roots with large, green, "sunburned" areas at the top and flabby or decaying roots.

CAULIFLOWER—Outer white portion called the curd. These should be white to creamy-white, compact and clean. Jacket or green leaves should be good green color. Avoid discolored heads, soft spots. Smudgy or speckled appearance of curd is sign of insect injury, mold growth or decay.

CELERY—Celery is green Pascal or golden. Select celery with thick, solid-looking stalks, clean, glossy surface. Avoid wilted, flabby celery with pithy, hollow or discolored centers in branches. Also avoid stalks with "black-heart" or brown or black discoloration of small center branches; signs of insect injury or long, thick seedstem in place of usually small, tender heart branches.

CHICORY, ENDIVE, ESCAROLE—Look for freshness, crispness, good green color of outer leaves. Avoid leaves of brownish or yellowish discoloration and signs of insect injury.

CORN—Retains fairly good quality for a number of days if kept cold and moist since harvesting. Place in home refrigerator. Best to use promptly. Look for well-filled, plump kernels. Firm to touch. Husks are fresh and green. Avoid dry, yellowed or straw-colored husks or shrinking kernels; also old ears with very large kernels and dark yellow kernels.

CUCUMBERS—Available year-round but most plentiful in summer. Look for good green color, firm over entire length. Well-shaped but not too large in diameter. Avoid withered or shriveled cucumbers, also dull or yellowed or puffy looking. Size is not a quality factor.

EGGPLANT—Some use this dark, rich-purple vegetable more for decorating than cooking. Should be firm, well-shaped. Avoid those with scars or cuts, worm injuries. Wilted, shriveled, soft or flabby eggplant is waste, bitter with poor flavor.

GREENS—Turnip tops, mustard greens, collards, kale, Swiss chard, cabbage sprouts, beet tops, dandelions. All best when fresh, green, young-looking. Avoid signs of insect injury, coarse stems, seedstems, dry or yellowing leaves, excessive dirt or poor development.

LETTUCE—Fairly even year-round supply. Four major sellers include Iceberg, butter-head, Romaine and leaf. Select fairly firm to firm head Iceberg that is clean, without excessive tip burn, rusty appearance or shows seedstems or excessive outer leaves. Color is medium-green outer and lighter green inner leaves. Butter-head (Bibb and Big Boston) slightly flat on top with soft, succulent, light-green leaves in rosette pattern in center. Romaine is tall, cylindrical with dark-green leaves. Leaf lettuce is without compact head, has broad leaves. Look for freshness, crisp leaves and good bright color in all lettuce. Avoid tip burn, serious discoloration, irregularly shaped heads and those with bumps.

MUSHROOMS—Young mushrooms should be small to medium in size. Select clean, white to creamy white or light brown, free from open caps (top); caps can be slightly open with pink and light-tan gills (rows of tissue under cap). Avoid overripe mushrooms with wide-open caps, dark, discolored gills, pitted or seriously discolored.

OKRA—Look for tender pods whose tips bend with slight pressure, under 4½ inches long, bright green, free from blemishes. Avoid dull, dry-looking pods, also shriveled or discolored, or pale-faded green color. These all lack flavor.

ONIONS—There general varieties. Globe, Granex-Grano, Spanish. Look for hard, firm onions, dry with small necks, with papery outer scales, reasonably free from green sunburn spots, blemishes. Avoid onions with wet or very soft necks, thick, hollow, woody centers in neck or with fresh sprouts.

ONIONS (GREEN), Shallots, Leeks—Green harvested very young, very little or no bulb formation, tubular top. Shallots similar to green but grow in clusters, little swelling at base. Leeks larger with slight bulb formation, broad, flat, dark-green tops. Look for fresh, crisp green tops, well-blanching (white) for two or three inches from root. Avoid yellowing, wilted or discolored tops.

PARSLEY—Should be bright, fresh, green crisp. Avoid yellowed leaves, dirt, wilting.

PEAS, GREEN—Select pods well-filled but not bulging. Should be uniformly light green, slightly velvety to touch. Reject if large number of pods appear flat and quite empty, spotted, yellowed or flabby.

PEPPERS, SWEET—Medium or dark green, glossy sheen, relatively heavy weight, firm walls and sides. Fully mature peppers have bright red color. Avoid peppers with thin walls, wilted, flabby with cuts or punctures, soft, watery spots.

POTATOES—"New" potatoes may be freshly harvested and sold during late winter or early spring. Or freshly dug potatoes not fully matured. Baking potatoes another staple. In new potatoes, select well-shaped, firm, free from blemishes and sunburn (green discoloration under skin). For general purpose and baking, select reasonably smooth, well-shaped, firm, free from blemishes, sunburn and decay, reasonably free from skinned surfaces. Avoid all potatoes with large cuts or bruises, green color, any signs of decay, sprouting or shriveling.

SWEET POTATOES—Should be clean, smooth, well-shaped, firm, bright. Types include yellow-fleshed, orange-fleshed, copper-skinned or light-skinned. Avoid seriously misshapen tubers, those with cracks, damp or soft spots. There is a moist sweet potato and a dry type.

SPINACH—Look for clean leaves, fresh, good green color. Avoid yellowing, discoloring, wilting, bruised or crushed-looking leaves.

TOMATOES—Best flavor home-grown on nearby farms because picked ripe. Can ripen in warm place wrapped in newspaper. Do not refrigerate unless fully ripe. Look for well-formed tomatoes, smooth, well-ripened (if possible), reasonably free from blemishes. If fully ripe, rich red color. Slightly less than ripe, look for firm texture and color from pink to light red. Avoid overripe, bruised tomatoes, those with sunburn (green or yellow areas near stem scar), growth cracks (deep cracks around stem scar), decayed (soft, water-soaked spots, depressed areas or surface mold). Remember, cold temperatures keep tomatoes from ripening. NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

Guidelines for Selecting Car Seats

A Weekly Information Service for Consumers

BY MARGARET DANA

In recent weeks many letters have come in from concerned parents who plan summer vacation trips by car for the whole family. Since children of all ages are involved, the parents are anxious to have some reliable guidelines for choosing both safe and effective car seats or other child restraints before starting those motor trips.

Among the questions asked are: What is best to use for a six-month-old baby? How about a two and one-half-year-old child? When do you stop using a seat and use a regular safety belt?

Because of the many problems involved in selecting the right seat for the specific child, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration prepared a special booklet called "What To Buy In Child Restraint Systems." It is very clear and simple, costs just 20 cents, and may be ordered from the Supt. of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office Washington, D.C. 20402.

Since it traditionally takes rather a long time to obtain booklets from GPO, and the summer is here, I will select some of the most important points from that booklet for immediate use. But I suggest that parents with small children send for that booklet anyway because it belongs in every wide-awake consumer's library.

The first thing to keep in mind is that car seats for children that were made before April 1, 1971, may not be safe or effective. That was the date when the Federal Safety Standard went into effect, and although seats made before then were still allowed to be sold until the supply was exhausted, some were not acceptable.

So if you have a seat which is not specifically labeled as made after April 1, 1971, or you are offered one which may still be in a dealer's hands, check it against these primary points provided by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

First, you have to decide which type of child restraint is correct for your own youngster. For infants up to nine months use an infant car bed or infant carrier—not a seat. For children eight or nine months old, up to four years old may properly use a vehicle lap belt or vehicle shoulder belt, the latter to be used only with the lap belt and only if the child is at least 55 inches in height. Children 55 inches or taller can use either lap belt or shoulder belt.

Remember that a baby up to nine months of age is especially in danger when there are sudden stops or collisions. No parent, holding a baby in his or her arms, can possibly protect that baby under those conditions. Either the infant carrier or car bed will offer protection but note these points. The carrier should be fastened in place by the vehicle's seat belts.

Q: We have been using gasoline to pour over our briquettes to start our barbecue grill. It works very fast. Is this harmful in any way to the food cooked over it?

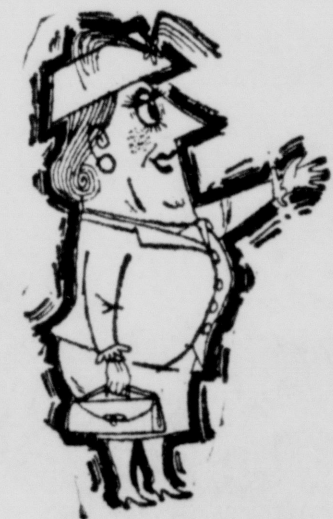

A: It would not be harmful to your food, but it could be very harmful indeed to you and your family or guests. Using gasoline to start any fire, anywhere, is highly dangerous and should never be done.

Many people are not fully aware of the hazards of gasoline, both as a fluid and a gas, and although many people have used the same technique you are using to start all kinds of fires, including logs in a fireplace, it is strongly opposed by experts in fire prevention. Using rolled sticks of newspaper to get your briquettes going is much safer and need not take too long.

A: I have a limited supply of a recipe booklet titled "Money-Saving Main Dishes" which the U.S. Department of Agriculture prepared several years ago. This edition was 20 cents. For a copy, send your request to me with 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. For the newer edition, up-dated in 1970, which is priced at 30 cents, send your request to Consumer Product Information, Washington, D.C. 20407, including the catalog number 0100-0841, and the 30 cents. This booklet includes such recipes as "sausage with sweet potato and apple" (using only ¼ pound of sausage), "fish cheeseburgers," "Mexican scrambled eggs," "savory bean stew,"

The restraint belts in the carrier should be at least one and one-half inches wide. It should be high enough to protect the baby's head. It should be lined with some kind of padding especially around the head area. And for maximum protection face the infant carrier toward the car's seat-back, not forward. Finally, don't use the household type of infant carrier as a car seat for a baby. They don't work in an automobile. If you decide on an infant car bed, remember it should be designed to sit crosswise of the car, never lengthwise, and should be designed so it allows the use of the car's own safety belts to fasten the bed to the seat. It needs to be deep enough to prevent the baby from being jolted or rolled out and ought to have strong netting or straps over the top.

When it comes to selecting a seat for the child over nine months old, one of the important points suggested for checking by the Traffic Safety Administration is this: The child seat must be designed so it can be fastened in place with the car's seat belts.

If you have an older seat, which you want to use again, by all means use the vehicle's seat belts with it. But check these other points, first. Does the seat give protection from front and rear-end crashes, cushioning the child and preventing him from being thrown free? Special padding—not just sponge rubber—should line all areas the child's head might contact. And make sure no hardware is sharp or pointed.

It is vitally important to follow the maker's directions for installation of the seat because a variance here can create a danger. Any seat which hooks over the seat back of the car is unsafe. And keep in mind that vehicle lap belts, by themselves, are wrong for children. They put too much pressure on a small child's pelvic region and can produce serious injuries.

But the first and last rule is to look for the date the seat was made. If made after April 1, 1971, it must be in her column as rapidly as compliance with the Federal Safety Standard.

An Enthusiastic Arlene Dahl

When Applause closed, directors gave Arlene the $20,000 wardrobe which was a cross-section of custom-made clothes by Bill Blass, Ray Aghayan and Stavropoulos.

With the price of couture skyrocketing, Arlene doesn't buy "originals" with wild abandon. Sometimes she even looks for a bargain. "Every so often I go to Bloomingdale's and buy $5 jeans to wear bicycling through Central Park," she says.

Summer vacation revolves around a cruise to the Greek Islands. Eventually Arlene will terminate the voyage in Paris and, more specifically, the Christian Dior salon. "My husband likes Dior and Pierre Balmain," says Arlene. "So we go to the salons and invest in a few things. But they've got to be masterworks that last forever."

At one time Arlene wrote a beauty column that involved interviews with the stars. There was the inevitable jealousy. Few agreed to be photographed with her because her beauty often overshadowed theirs. But she learned that Audrey Hepburn used Neutrogena soap. Greer Garson rinsed her hair in champagne and France Nuyven rubbed her cheeks with beets rather than rouge.

"Beauty," says Arlene, "is the pursuit of the best life has to offer because you're operating at your own best potential."

When Arlene was 11, her mother had a stroke and was bedridden for four years before she died. Arlene played nurse after school learning to give excellent back rubs.

"There isn't anything you learn that you can't put to use," she says. "I've used the back rub on my husband to excellent advantage."

Arlene is the eternal optimist. When bad moods hit, she "holes up" in her room and the self-inflicted solitary confinement is spent reading books on the metaphysical. "Eventually I get back to my old idea that every problem has the seed of built-in opportunity."

Which is exactly how she feels about a Moscow beauty show. She's sure the Russians aren't going to stop her. They're going to help her. Every time you get around a problem, you discover life has dimensions you never dreamed were possible.

It's a theory Arlene Dahl and Henry Kissinger have in common.

Service Club Speaker July 25

Sid Caesar... Kingston Visit

KINGSTON
Sid Caesar, one of America's leading laugh makers, will appear in Kingston Tuesday, July 25 as guest of a combined luncheon of Kingston area service clubs at Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Making the joint announcement today was John Burns, president of Kingston Kiwanis; Richard Fredenberg, president of Kingston Lions and Gerald Nocton, president of Kingston Rotary.

Caesar, who will be appearing at the Hyde Park Playhouse next week as star of Last of The Red Hot Lovers, will address the three service clubs at 1 p.m. in a talk that will be broadcast over WGHQ.

Sid was born the youngest of three sons, in Yonkers. His father operated the St. Clair Lunch, a restaurant where Sid worked during his early teens. Clientele of the eatery were chiefly Polish, Russian and Italian laborers, whose dialects and accents carved indelible images on the comedian's creative mind — all resulting in marvelous impressions that have helped make Sid's comedy sketches so hilarious.

Caesar's earliest ambition was to be a musician, and his restaurant earnings were invested in a saxophone and music lessons. While a student at Yonkers High, he got his first professional experience as a musician, swinging with Mike Ciffichello's Swingtime Six, "from 9 p.m. 'til unconscious," for $2 a night.

In Fall, of 1942, Sid enlisted in the Coast Guard Reserve, "Six on Twelve Off." On weekends, he played with the Coast Guard Orchestra, and between numbers, amused his fellow sidemen with impromptu monologues, dialects and satiric take-offs on military officers.

Noting these comedy antics, Max Liebman, producer of the Guard revue, moved Sid from the bandstand to the stage for "Tars and Spars." After a national tour, Hollywood filmed the revue, with Sid the only member of the original cast to appear in the motion picture.

Sid was hailed as a "new comedy find" by film critics. Bitten by the Hollywood bug, Sid moved to California to concentrate on a film career. But, while everyone praised the Caesar talent, no one did much about it. So, following a year of "Undisturbed inactivity," Sid returned to New York. He was soon cast in the musical revue, "Make Mine Manhattan," which earned him the 1948 Donaldson Award "for the best debut of an authentic clown," and his career was again "rolling." The following year, 1949, Sid's phenomenal TV career began. Introduced first on "Broadway Revue," Caesar became a legitimate "overnight" sensation. That series was succeeded by the historic "Your Show of Shows," then "Caesar's Hour" (which won five Emmy Awards in 1957), and finally, "Sid Caesar Invites You." In 1958, Sid and his company, appeared in a BBC television series, the first live series by an American group on British TV.

During the next few years, Sid relaxed from the 10-year grind of turning out a weekly series, and concentrated on television specials and the nightclub circuit, headlining in the finer clubs from Las Vegas to New York's Copacabana.

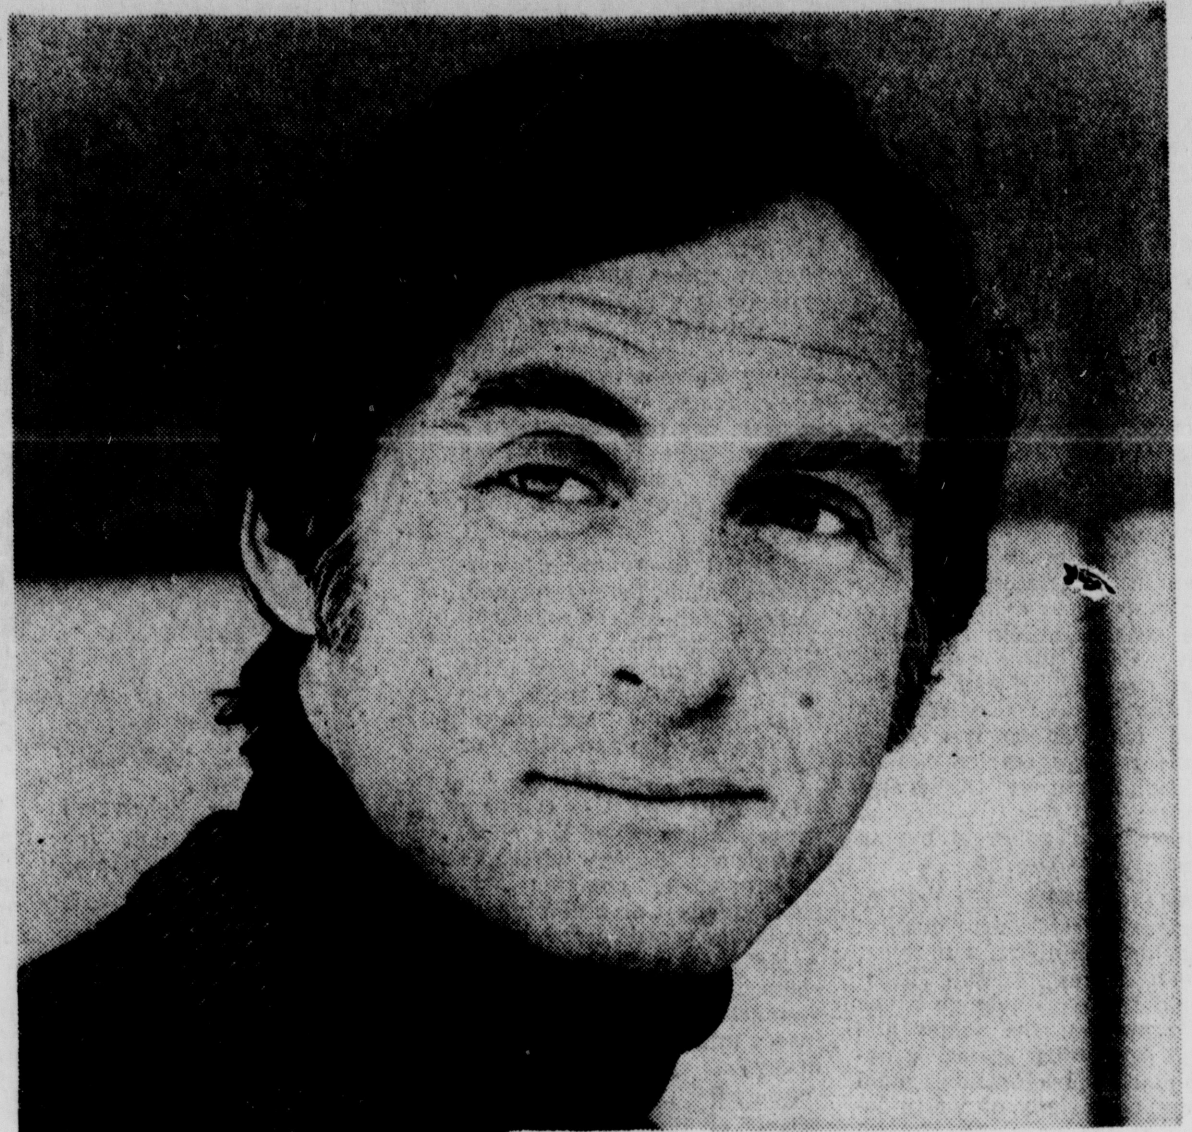

Perhaps his most complex and diversified year was 1962, when Sid starred in Stanley Kramer's classic comedy extravaganza, "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad World," starred on Broadway in the musical comedy "Little Me," playing no less than seven characters; sandwiched in several key supperclub dates and television guest star appearances (including four on the "Ed Sullivan Show"); and appeared regularly on his own half-hour TV series for Dutch Master Cigars.

"I think comedy has a place in American entertainment. During the past few years we seem to have forgotten how to laugh. We take ourselves too seriously. So, I'm going to do what I can to put back the laugh in life," said Caesar.

An interesting sidelight at Tuesday's meeting will be the reunion of Sid's manager, W. Green, with a boyhood chum of his — Mike Lisman who is now chief investigator for the BCI unit of the New York State Police. Green requested Mike's presence when he found out that he and Sid would be in Kingston.

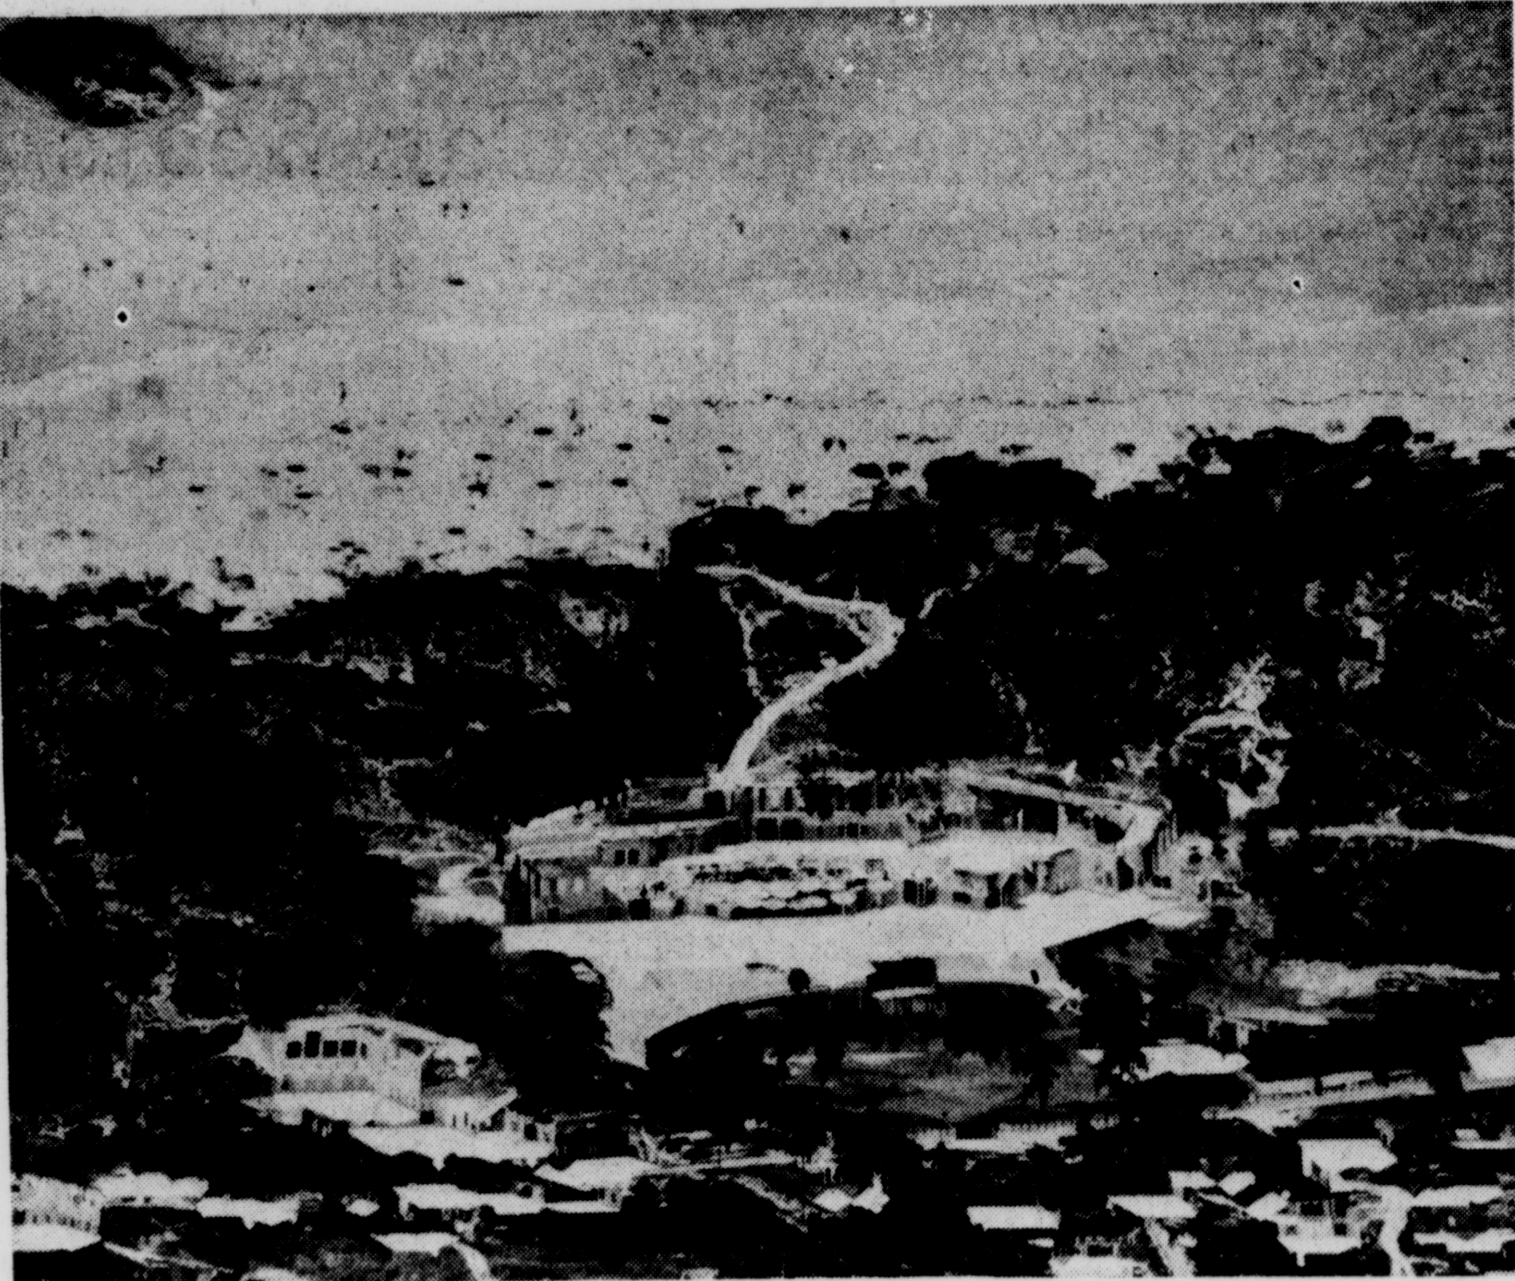

Mayor Francis R. Koenig will present the key to the city to Caesar after which he will meet the local press for a brief press conference.

R & R Center, '72 Style

HONOLULU (UPI)—Hawaii, former haven for war-weary Americans from Vietnam, has become the R and R center for tired Tokyo businessmen, and the "Niagara Falls" for Japanese honeymooners.

The estimated 180,000 Japanese tourists who visited Hawaii last year have saved the island's second-biggest industry, tourism, spread the Japanese language to elevators, hamburger stands and restaurants, and pumped millions of yen into the state's economy.

As one Hawaiian businessman said: "We should erect two monuments in the Islands: one to Captain Cook who discovered them, and the second to the Japanese who rediscovered them last year."

Cheap travel, relaxed restrictions, tax benefits and the booming Japanese economy are responsible for the discovery of Hawaii both as a vacation spot and an investment hedge against any future revaluation of the yen.

Boom Spawning in Tokyo
The massive Japanese spending in Hawaii began a year ago when the Tokyo government relaxed its restrictions on overseas investments by Japanese companies.

Hawaii had everything needed to attract Japanese in the first place: scenery, relatives, climate, friends, proximity.

The package tours opened the floodgates of Japanese visitors. For less than $500 a Tokyo tourist can jet to Hawaii, visit some of the other islands, spend nearly a week, go home with a sunburned nose, a flattened wallet and enough snapshots to green his friends with envy.

Some of the vacationing Japanese relaxed with one eye open to the commercial possibilities in Hawaii, and when overseas investment restrictions were relaxed, they moved into the local real estate market and began writing seven-figure checks.

One Japanese concern, the Tokai Land Co., bought the famed Francis Brown golf course, and plans to build a condominium on the adjoining property. Club memberships will be sold at $4,000 apiece to Japanese industries which can send their tired employees to Hawaii for a golfing vacation—tax deductible.

Other investors have swept up hotels, office buildings, stores and even a local laundry.

Typical is the Fujitsu Co. which plans to build a $6 million management training school for computer personnel, and the giant Mitsubishi conglomerate which plans a 500 room hotel on the Kona Coast of the island of Hawaii. The Tokai Land Development Co. recently bought 1,000 acres which it will develop into one-acre home sites.

There is not one island in the chain which has not felt the impact of Japanese investment, and some of the locals are a bit worried. Hilo's Mayor Shunichi Kimura said the potential scares him a bit.

"If the great financial resources of the big Japanese investors are used to exert economic pressure on us," Kimura said, "it could cause us trouble, but up to now, at least, we have not been subjected to that type of pressure."

In May this year nearly 40,000 Japanese tourists headed for Hawaii compared to 14,800 who made the trip during all 12 months of 1960.

Hawaii's tourist industry, quick to hear the rustle of dollars in the pockets of the Asian visitors, has gone all out to make them feel at home. Hawaii has suddenly become bilingual.

Japanese-speaking caucasians are no longer a novelty. They are now the preferred help in hamburger stands, milk bars and restaurants. The local Americans of Japanese ancestry are in equal demand to meet the services required by the old country Japanese, and recent migrants from Japan who have a thorough knowledge of the Japanese are the most sought after of all in the Hawaiian labor market.

Practically all the Japanese visitors come in packaged, tour groups behind the flag of the tour director, for they prefer to move about in a group, escorted, shepherded and cared for from departure to their return unhampered by language difficulties.

Apparently happiness is a holiday in Hawaii as the Hawaii Visitors Bureau says their surveys show 94 out of every 100 Japanese would recommend the Islands to their relatives and friends. The bureau is now trying to find out what made the other 6 per cent unhappy.

HAMILTON, BERMUDA
The Bermudiana Hotel, a complete resort in the heart of Hamilton overlooking the Royal Bermuda Yacht Club and beautiful Hamilton Harbour, has completed its "new look" development program at a cost of more than $1,000,000. It was announced here by Pierre Roellinger, general manager of The Bermudiana.

The new image of the public rooms of The Bermudiana, as well as a complete change of its nightclub, "The Talk of The Town," and its public bar and dining room, "The Inn Within," provides a change of pace in the variety of its decor along with its new change of face. In addition, the popular junior suites and the entire Penthouse floor of The Bermudiana have been tastefully re-designed and comfortably refurbished with custom-made furniture and coordinated colors.

To emphasize the new look, a diversified and sophisticated entertainment program has been instituted with gratifying results. "Our policy is for 'The Talk of The Town' nightclub to present varied dance music by George King and his Orchestra, and variety artists and singers," Roellinger said. "We have changed the pattern here by using artists of international repute and appeal for limited engagements. We can have two shows every night by different artists five nights a week."

"While doing this we haven't overlooked the fact that our guests and audience will also want a certain amount of native entertainment, the best the Island has to offer, such as The Talbot Brothers and The Ezzo Steel Band. When one considers that a guest stays an average of six nights at The Bermudiana, it gives us the opportunity of affording him with three different types of entertainment during his stay."

All of the interior work of the new Bermudiana program was designed by Paul Zirm, A.I.D., and Associate Designer Sebastian Trujillo, A.I.A., of Miami Springs, Fla. The architects who designed certain aspects of The Bermudiana were Marshall, Bernardo and Grayston, of Bermuda.

One of their more astonishing accomplishments was the complete refurbishing of the Main Dining Room, which was done during the nighttime without any interruption of the regular dining schedule of the hotel's guests. One morning the guests would come to breakfast to find more appealing wall colors than they had seen at dinner the night before; the next breakfast introduced them to new draperies with brighter fabrics at the windows which overlook landscaped gardens and Hamilton Harbour; the next morning they discovered a richer and different colored carpeting throughout the dining room. Such an undertaking speaks well not only for the foresight and planning of the designers, but also for the extremely able and cooperative labor force of Bermuda.

The new "Inn Within," a combination bar and a la carte dining room open to the public as well as hotel guests, has become a social mecca in Bermuda. It is built around the motif of famous shipwrecks in the early colonial years off Bermuda waters and features an intimate atmosphere, impeccable service, superb Continental gourmet cuisine, candlelight, strolling violinists, and a select wine cellar of choice vintages.

"It is our aim and purpose to offer the guest of The Bermudiana a wide variety of color, entertainment, cuisine and atmosphere in the most comfortable and acceptable surroundings he can find anywhere," Roellinger said. "At considerable cost we believe we have done this in our unsparring efforts to create the most pleasant environment possible."

The Bermudiana is just steps away from Front Street, the main shopping district of the Island capital. The hotel is centrally air conditioned, features a temperature-controlled swimming pool for year round bathing, and with its sister hotels — The Belmont Hotel and Golf Club, and Harmony Hall — shares the private South Shore Beach Club where swimming, sailing, water skiing, deep-sea fishing and sunbathing are popular pastimes. Transportation from the hotel to the Beach Club is provided on a complimentary basis.

Additionally, complete interchange privileges are offered by the three hotels, including exchange dining. The three properties of The Bermudiana Group of Hotels are owned and operated by Trust Houses Forte, Ltd., and are represented internationally by Robert Reid Associates, Inc., New York, with offices in Toronto, Chicago, Miami, and London, England. BOAC Safari... Most Unusual Tour

Nobody has yet invented a time machine where travelers whisk back through the centuries. But one airline delivers the next best thing.

British Overseas Airways Corp. announces the continuation of its 23-day adventure safari to the island of New Guinea in the South Pacific. Highlight of the tour is a seven-day houseboat trip up the Sepik River, which for 700 miles winds its way through the interior and carries the traveler 10,000 years into the past — via a maze of channels and crocodile-infested swamps and islands to see mysterious people in strange villages whose culture is virtually unchanged from the Stone Age era.

This most unusual tour includes accommodations with private bath; twin-bedded cabin on houseboat; all meals and morning tea; sightseeing; transfers; gratuities and taxes; tour escort; and visas for Australia and New Guinea/Papua.

Land cost, including charter flights in New Guinea and Papua, is $1950. Air fare is $1001.60 based on ITX 35-day excursion from Los Angeles; New York add-on is $302. Departures are available through December 1974.

Further information and brochures on the New Guinea safari may be obtained from your local travel agent.

ALL SET FOR TEEN CAMP ADVENTURES

Where Camp Isn't a Camp

KINGSTON
The first session of Kingston Jewish Community Council's popular Teen Camp is well underway.

The 24 enrollees have had a full schedule of overnight campouts, bike hikes and trips to fun places. Last week was highlighted by an overnight at Whip-O-Will Campsite, Round Top while this week was topped by a three day trip to Rocking Horse Dude Ranch.

Rainy days do not put a damper on Teen Camp activities what with bowling, movies, arts and crafts and candlemaking on tap. Tentative plans call for a trip to Shea Stadium, more bike — overnights and rock concerts.

Rounding out the first session of Teen Camp this coming week will be a trip to Rhinebeck Aerodrome today; Lake Taghkanic tomorrow, Hyde Park Playhouse Tuesday; party for Copake Camp Wednesday and Amron Rodeo, Round Top on Thursday.

The second session starts July 31 and continues through Aug. 18. Some of the highlights will include trips to Howe Caverns and the Baseball Hall of Fame, Orange County Fair, Saratoga Performing Arts for Emerson, Lake and Palmer. Three-day trips include Sunnycroft Ponderosa, Walkill and Lake George and other points of interest in that resort area. Hidden Valley is on the agenda again in the second session as is Lake Taghkanic.

There are still some openings in the Second session. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Jewish Community Council office, 96 Maiden Lane at Fair Street.

The first session campers pictured were preparing for the overnight to Whip-O Will Campsite and from all reports it was a great success.

The Teen Camp has been a popular feature of the JCC summer program for several years and this year's schedule includes many new features.

TEEN SCENE Scope of Horoscope

By LEI

People who are trying to debunk astrology delight in pointing out occasions when the "Daily Horoscope" column for two daily newspapers give conflicting advice for the same sign on the same day. "Look, this one says that Libra will find this an enjoyable day to visit with friends and travel, and this one advises Libra to spend a quiet day at home, since there is danger of accidents and quarrels with friends." What should Libra do?

According to professional astrologers (including some who write the newspaper columns) what Libra ought to do is not depend too much on horoscopes printed in newspapers and magazines. These horoscopes have a huge built-in inaccuracy potential, and not even the most carefully planned ones can give more than a faint inkling of what, if anything, the stars have to foretell for a specific individual.

Horoscope columns are written taking into consideration only a person's sun sign. When we say that we are Libra, Cancer, or Sagittarius, we mean that the sun was in this sign when we were born. However, professional astrologers take into consideration not only a person's sun sign, but also the signs in which all eight planets (aside from the earth), and the moon were at the time of the person's birth.

"At the time of the person's birth" means just that, too. With newspaper and magazine horoscopes, only the month of birth is a consideration. However, the year, day, hour, minute—and even second—of birth is also important, as is the place of birth. It is highly unlikely that any two people in the world have exactly the same horoscope—unless they were born the same second of the same day in the same city. Many of you may know people who were born the same day of the same year, and yet are quite unlike. Astrologers say that this is due to the influence of the fast-moving planets which may change signs in an hour or so, which would also change their influence, if any, of the lives of those born during that period.

Those born near the ends of each astrological period, are said to be born "on the cusp," and they share influences not only from their sun sign, but also from the sign close to which they were born. A Libra, for instance, born on October 21, would be influenced strongly by Scorpio. Born on September 25, he would be strongly influenced by Virgo. Unfortunately, for the purpose of newspaper horoscopes, both Libras would receive the same advice!

To add to the confusion, some astrologers believe that the sun sign is less important than the "rising sign" in a horoscope, but the rising sign is less often used because it requires quite a bit of computation for each individual to figure out what the rising sign is, while the sun sign is apparent from the date of birth.

Astrologers suggest that those who are really interested in what astrology holds for them have a chart drawn up and a horoscope cast specially for their birthdate and time. Unfortunately, that can be quite expensive. The less expensive "mail-in-a-coupon" deals are usually little more accurate than the newspaper columns. So are those "horoscope books" they sell at the dime store. Some astrology magazines include forecasts for the individual placements of planets, but unless you know where all the planets were at your birthtime, you can't use those forecasts.

For many people, newspaper horoscope columns offer the cheapest and most available indication of what astrology holds for their day. Some simply read the columns as a lark, while others take the advice seriously.

In order to get the most from any horoscope column, whether daily or monthly, remember its limitations — the astrologer who cast it did! If you are a cusper, born close to the dividing date between two signs, remember that you should read both forecasts, as they will both apply to you to some extent. You may well find that one horoscope column seems more "accurate" than another. This is merely because the astrologer casting it was using placements for the other planets that closely approaches your own. Give special attention to what that column says.

And, of course, remember what every ethical astrologer knows—that astrology indicates, but does not dictate. If your horoscope says not to travel, don't stay in bed that day — but don't take unnecessary journeys, and use care in transportation. Perhaps you may find that the results of your trip are rather disappointing, or there may be a short delay. Or, perhaps other elements in your personal horoscope will offset the difficulties, and you'll enjoy the travel enormously!

Summer Course Popular at NPHS

NEW PALTZ
Fifty-nine students are attending a six week's summer session at New Paltz High School taking driver education. One-half unit of credit is given toward graduation requirements for the successful completion of the course. In addition, students will receive a Motor Vehicle Department "blue card" which entitles them to reduced automobile insurance rates.

The instructional time is divided equally between the classroom and the driver education car. The classroom instruction is being taught by Robert Doucette. The behind the wheel instruction is provided by Joseph Helhoski. Lawrence Johnson and Louis Mosconi. Driver education has been offered for the last nine summers and continues to be one of the most popular courses for high school students.

Students in Urban Vehicle Design Contest

ALBANY
College students from Clarkson College, Cornell University, City College of New York, Buffalo State University, Pratt Institute, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and West Point will represent the state of New York in the final testing of the nationally significant Urban Vehicle Design Competition (UVDC) scheduled to take place at the General Motors Proving Grounds in Milford, Michigan on August 6-11.

The Urban Vehicle Design Competition culminates 16 months of detailed preparation during which time C.C., Cornell, CCNY, Buffalo S.U., Pratt Inst., RPI and West Point student teams each designed and built a vehicle for urban transportation. A total of 83 different vehicles will be present at the GM Proving Grounds for the final UVDC judging.

The vehicles will be judged on the basis of emissions control, passenger safety at high and low-speed collisions, noise reduction, fuel efficiency, elimination of low-speed crash damage, improved handling in urban traffic and parking situations, and general performance characteristics.

The benefits gained from the UVDC that New York students are participating in include the educational value of exposing the student to the practical problems of engineering and ecology; the impact of project oriented education in the context of college curriculum; and informing the public of the role and possibilities of a vehicle designed specifically for the urban environment.

The Urban Vehicle Design Competition is sponsored by SCORE (Student Competitions on Relevant Engineering).

To assist the students in meeting the expense of transporting the project vehicles from their respective schools within the state of New York to the GM Proving Grounds in Michigan, the Union Oil Company of California has donated Union 76 autotrip to the participating teams. The autotrip will be used by the students to obtain gasoline, oil, and other travel necessities used en route to and from the competition site.

New York is one of 28 states and Canada with representatives from its colleges and universities participating in the Urban Vehicle Design Competition. Regional pretesting for New York UVDC entrants took place in New York July 14-16.

Marching Band Competition at State Superfair

SYRACUSE
The high school marching band competition during the 1972 New York State Super Fair, August 29 to September 4, will mark the return of the competition's winningest band, according to Superintendent Philip A. Natoli.

"Three years ago," Natoli said, "the Bishop Kearney High School in Rochester took nearly all the prizes and trophies and retired from subsequent competition."

"Bishop Kearney will be back for the 1972 Super Fair to see if they can top that splendid performance." When competition gets underway on opening day, August 29, in front of the Grandstands, Natoli expects about 25 bands to vie for $900 in prize money and trophies for the top five places. Trophies will also be awarded for best drum major, drum majorette, drum major team, color guard and twirling unit.

Last year's winner, West Genesee High School of Syracuse, is not expected to return for defense of its title.

DOG DAYS — Inclement weather couldn't stop the annual summer 4-H Dog Obedience Program from Completion. The Millbrook

Cape Cod at Its Fullest

By JACK McELENNEY

Home designs have followed many trends in recent years but none of the new forms has been able to submerge some of the patterns that hold places of honor in American architecture. A prime example of this survival is the Cape Cod, as old as tradition itself, but ever new in its ability to blend with the modern. One asset of the Cape Cod design is its adaptability to virtually any size family and to any style of family living, whether it be casual or formal.

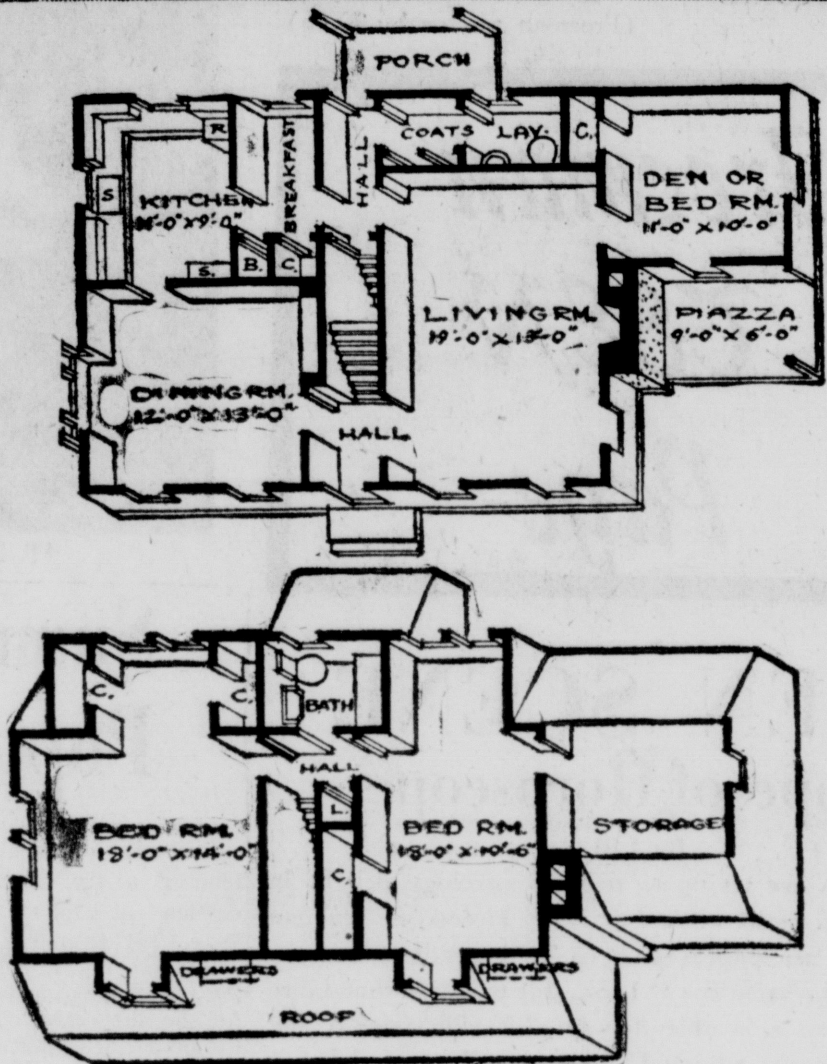

Today's house feature, called "The Millbrook," demonstrates the Cape Cod at its fullest use, the two-bedroom second floor and first floor that contains every facility for freedom of activity and complete comfort, including an extra room that can be used for a den or additional bedroom. The full dormer at the rear permits the creation of two full height bedrooms and the two gable dormers on the front are not only an important factor in the matter of light and ventilation, but gives the roof line a charm that has always made the Cape Cod a thing of beauty.

The exterior makes use of common wood shingles, red cedar (if painted) and white cedar, if left natural. The basic house measures 32 feet x 24 feet with an overall of 43 feet-10 inches including the el at the right side.

"The Millbrook" contains 888 square feet of living area.

Many Families Pooling Their Money

NEW YORK can get the VW model or the Rolls-Royce — in other words, from around $2,000 on up.

The two-car family is a matter of record today. Now, the family is spending their extra money on foreign vacations, second homes, boats and swimming pools.

"A swimming pool, many people are discovering, isn't monetary like a far-away vacation land, nor far away like a second home," says T. Robert Baron, president of the large Northeast Chapter, National Swimming Pool Institute.

The opportunity for family togetherness, an easy method of obtaining physical fitness and just the plain fun and refreshment of swimming are the major reasons why an increasingly large number of families are investing in backyard swimming pools, according to Baron.

In fact, Baron and the National Swimming Pool Institute predict a record 75,000 new in-ground pools will be constructed and more than 250,000 portable pools will be purchased for residential sites this year.

"The whole family can swim and play together when Dad gets home from work," Baron noted, "then the kids march off to the TV and the parents can relax and swim together."

Baron, a veteran pool builder himself from Paramus, N. J., stated that the price of a pool varies considerably depending upon the type and size.

In-ground pools are roughly the same as automobiles. You

But many pools aren't used only for swimming. Everyone likes a quick dip to cool off when sunbathing. For the sunbathing women, a quick, cool pool splash does not have to involve getting their hair wet.

Baron claims that the current emphasis on physical fitness means that a lot of pool owners are jumping in for a quick swim in the morning before getting ready for work.

"This is a healthy exercise period, but it also serves to get the circulation moving again and the sleep out of your eyes," says Baron.

A Hammer Should 'Fit' the User

By ANDY LANG (AP Newsfeatures)

Don't send your wife or your husband or your son or your friend to buy a hammer for you.

It might sound far out, but a hammer is an individual thing which could "fit" the user. In choosing a hammer, grasp it firmly near the end of the handle and move it around a little. It should feel comfortable. If it doesn't, try others — of different sizes and shapes — until you find one that seems made to order just for you. True, you can use almost any hammer and probably get good results, but using one that suits you will reduce arm fatigue.

Banged fingers, bent nails and marred surfaces make it evident that using a hammer properly isn't the simple task it seems to be. For one thing, a hammer should be held down at the end of the handle without any of your hand overhanging. The weight of the head is then free to move by the force of gravity as you swing the handle.

Rest the face of the hammer on the nail, draw the hammer back and give a light tap to start the nail and to determine the aim. Strike the nail squarely as you hold it in place with the thumb and first two fingers of one hand. Besides getting you started properly, this first light tap prevents any serious damage to your hand should you fail to hit the target.

Hammer blows are struck with the wrist, the elbow and the shoulder. For light taps, use only the wrist. For moderate blows, use the wrist and the elbow. For heavy whacks, use the wrist, elbow and the shoulder.

Should a nail bend while hammering it, you are much better off to withdraw it and start a new one than to attempt to straighten it with compensating blows. In very rough work, however, striking it at a slant to straighten it out is all right. Hitting it straight on or at a slant, always strike the nail with the center of the hammer face.

In withdrawing a nail, slip the claw of the hammer under the nail head and pull the handle toward you. Do not draw it past proves stubborn, place a piece of wood under the head of the hammer to increase the leverage and relieve unnecessary strain on the handle.

When a nail is to be driven below the surface, use a nail set for the last two or three blows. Nail sets are inexpensive, so keep two or three different sizes in your workshop to take care of nail heads of different diameters.

(Repairing brickwork, screens, garden hose and doorbells are among the 35 subjects handled in Andy Lang's helpful handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to The Daily Freeman in care of Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Those Electric Fans... Far From Being Obsolete

By MR. FIX

You would think that with the popularity of air conditioning, especially by way of one-room units, that the electric fan would be obsolete.

It isn't. If anything, fans come in a wider variety of models, in sizes that vary from tiny desk models to giant exhaust fans that will empty an entire house of its stale air in minutes.

Not everyone wants air conditioning and not everyone needs it. In moderate climates a fan will provide all the relief you need from the heat.

Use portable fans to give quick comfort in a small area. For larger areas consider exhaust fans. There are small window mounted units or big ones that can be placed in the ceiling. Installed and used properly, they can move cool air through an entire house.

The exhaust fan is used throughout the night when outside air is cooler and is used to replace the warm inside air.

Once the house is cooled off in the morning the fan is turned off and window shades and windows are kept closed on the sunny side of the house. The idea is slow up the heating process until night rolls around again and you can pump more cool air in again.

Don't put the fan just anywhere. Best place is an upstairs window on the sunny side of the house. Open a window on the shady side so that you replace hot air with cool air.

Windows adjacent to the fan must be closed. Leaving them open will short circuit the air, moving it from the window next to the fan right through the fan without ever moving the air through the house.

Attic fans are bigger and more efficient. Install the fan high in a central location so that it draws air through the whole house.

There must be exhaust openings in the attic. These can be in the roof, gable ends or under the eaves. You may have to put in a special louver. Openings should be screened.

Zone Control Hailed by Two Parties

BERKELEY HEIGHTS, N.J. Zone control, the most modern method of temperature control for apartments, is being hailed by tenants and landlords alike, says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council.

By having a thermostat in every apartment, tenants have full control over their individual "climate." Equally happy are the landlords. So long as the tenants can regulate their own heat, there are no more complaints that the apartment is either too cold or too hot.

Significantly, too, the Council points out, heating costs are reduced as much as 20 per cent. In the old days when apartments seemed to be overheated, tenants opened windows. Now, tenants keep their apartments at the temperature they want. As a result, little heat is wasted.

Unless the apartment is quite large, one thermostat is sufficient, the Council says. Having a control in every room is neither necessary nor practical.

Your Horoscope - - Today and Monday

Sunday, July 23

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get busy writing letters that will aid you in personal and business life and you get the right results soon. Perfecting some talent you possess is wise during spare time. This can bring you added income.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Ideal day to attend favorite services and then be with persons of wisdom for intelligent discussions. Pick up fine new opportunities for the future. Making new contacts of real worth is easy now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some time spent in meditation now can reveal right way to proceed in the future and get good results. Show more affection for mate and deepen devotion. Show others that you are truly helpful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Conversations with associates can bring forth greater ideas and more intelligent efficiency in operations in the future. Any civic work you have to do can be done with real speed. Work. Think. They are the key words today.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) First try to please one who has done you many favors and then get at all that work that is ahead of you. Don't get into anything that will jeopardize your health. Exercise instead.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Out early with those you like at the sports or other recreations of your choice after you have attended early services. Show your creativity. Make an excellent impression on the public in general.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Endeavor to find out what kin expect of you now and know how to please them the most. Evening is fine for some interesting entertainment which can bring both pleasure and more success in the future. Dress well.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Ideal day to get into the philosophical studies of your choice so you can make the future more successful, happy. Handle communications well, and be sure to write personal letters that are important. See a good friend tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal Sunday to plan to make your future brighter and more prosperous. Confer with an expert in business and get right ideas. Take right action tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Perfect day for making friendships deeper and gaining the personal aims that mean a great deal to you. Get into the museums and recreations that are mutually enjoyable. Go to bed early.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can sit down quietly with an expert and get the right advice so that you can make true progress in the near future. Take some time for meditation. Then devote yourself to the one you love.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day to be with friends and new acquaintances you want to know better in the future. Get into the sports that mean a great deal to you. Improvement of health can be connected with this.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those very steady and sturdy young people who is practical and easy to reason with, but will have to learn to do more angling in order to gain what is wanted and to be helpful to others upon maturity. The fields of banking, real estate, public commodities favored. Give as much education as your child will take and then give him or her the freedom to achieve this unhampered. Too much physical exercise is not good.

Stamps in the News

By SYD KRONISH

Art aficionados are quick to pay tribute to the famous French impressionist painters. Many of the works of Renoir, Cezanne, Manet and others of this popular school appear on postage stamps.

But few are aware of the one German impressionist whose artistic endeavors are equal to his counterparts across the Rhine. The German impressionist is Max Lieberman (1847-1935) and he is being honored by West Berlin with a new 40 pfennig stamp.

This new adhesive, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency, honors the 125th anniversary of his birth and bears a self-portrait on wood.

Lieberman's popularity in his becoming president of the Art Academy in Berlin and having received the decoration "Pour le merite"—famous in military parlance as "the Blue Max."

This new stamp, as well as three new ones in the continuing "Safety First" series by West Germany, are available at your local stamp dealer or department store.

The American First Day Cover society has prepared and is offering free to collectors a list of U.S. stamps (about 90) that bear a relationship to the 200th anniversary celebration of the American Revolution.

The listing has been prepared under the headings of patriots, places, symbols, historical flags, events and the 13 original colonies. Each is noted according to year of issue, denomination, subject and catalog number.

To get a copy of this list, just send a stamped, addressed large-size envelope to American First Day Cover Society, E. Koehler, 2527 Farnam St. at Hensdale Church.

LaCrosse, Wis. 54601. As I said, there is no charge for this interesting little list.

Britain is proud of its latest set of stamps highlighting old village churches and depicting examples of architectural styles dating back over 1,100 years.

The lowest value shows St. Andrews Church in Essex built in 845 A. D. It is the only surviving example of a wooden Saxon stave church. Another stamp illustrates All Saints at Earls Barton, Northamptonshire. St. Andrews at Letheringsett in Norfolk, built shortly after the Norman conquest in 1066, is seen on the 7½ pence in the series. The highest value bears a view of St. Mary the Virgin Episcopal Church and dates back to 1200.

Topical collectors, who specialize in churches, will be anxious to add this new set to their books.

The American Stamp Dealers Assn. will sponsor two new stamp shows in addition to its annual ASDA event in November. The first of these is the ASDA International Philatelic Fair—Chicago '73 scheduled for March 30, 1973.

The second is the ASDA Philatelic Fair—New York, to be held April 6, 1973.

Norway will issue four new stamps to commemorate the 1,100th anniversary of the unification of that country under Harald the Fairhaired 872.

The 50-ore stamp shows a detail of a stone carving at Aistad. The 80 ore depicts a dragon's head stone post carving found at Oseberg. The 120 ore features a sword hilt found at Steinsvik, Lodingen. The 60 ore bears a stone carving on portal at Hemsdale Church.

Monday, July 24

ARIES (Mar. 26 to Apr. 19) In an activity that is truly artistic. Rely more on a bigwig you know rather than push your own ideas for best results now. Handle a credit affair well.

Take more interest in cultural matters than you have in the past.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have fine ideas which need more study before you do anything about them. Hasty action now could bring few benefits. Show more consideration for mate and avoid possible argument.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Stop buzzing around so much. Listen to a good plan which an associate has and then work in harmony with him. Await a better time to go to a new place that fascinates you so much.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Being more cooperative with an ally you can rely upon is better than listening to one who uses unorthodox ways. Later engage

By Oswald & James Jacoby "Well," said South, disconsolately, "I put out the bait but the fish wouldn't take it."

"I don't mind you calling my partner a fish," remarked East, "but if you do, please refer to him as a shark."

South had won the first trick with the ace of diamonds; led a diamond to dummy's king and carefully ruffed a third diamond with his five trumps.

That five-spot was the bait but East had refused to win an easy trump trick. Perhaps he was suspicious about the bait but since he was a shark the chances are that he had seen that a simple club discard would leave South with no way to run dummy's diamonds.

Just suppose West had overruffed. It wouldn't matter what he did next. South would gain the lead in time to play the ace of trumps; lead a low trump to dummy's queen and get enough diamonds on diamond to give him his contract.

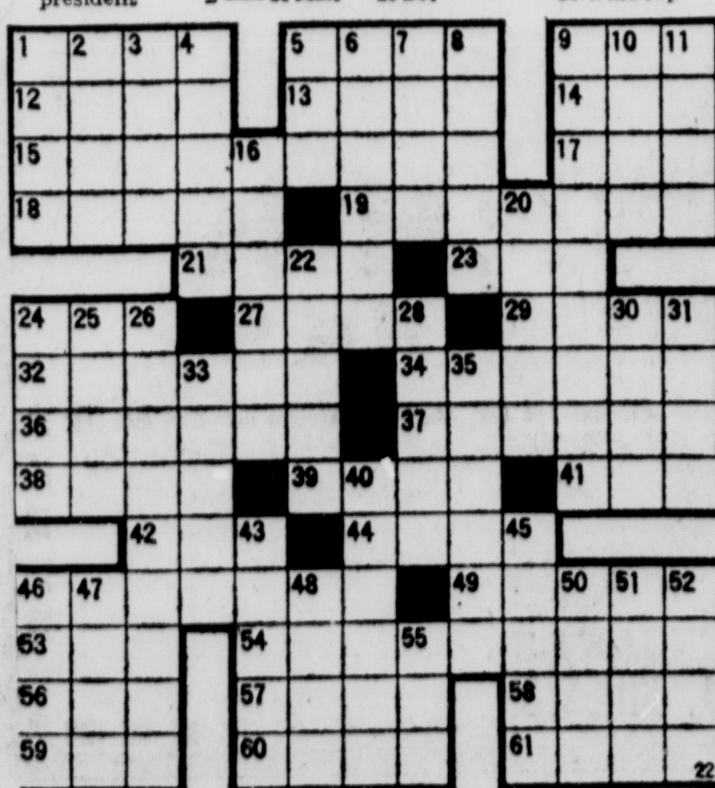

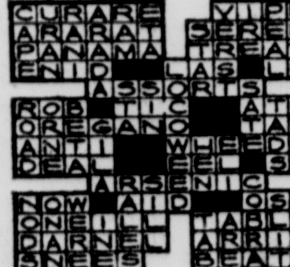

When West failed to overruff he could do no better than to get out for one down. He cashed a high trump; led low to dummy's queen; played a fourth diamond and discarded a low spade.

West ruffed and had to lead a spade or a club to set up one of South's kings for South's ninth trick, but the other king became a fallen monarch and would not score the 10th trick.

German Exchange Teachers ... Many Memories

By JEAN F. DOLAN

STONE RIDGE

Although their three week stay in Ulster County is over, seven German exchange teachers take with them memories of highlights of the Hudson Valley.

The group, here as part of the Experiment in International Living, Putney Vt., stayed with families in the Rondout Valley and toured extensively throughout the area visiting educational institutions, landmarks, businesses and public buildings.

The project is sponsored by the Ulster County Committee for the Experiment in International Living with Dr. and Mrs. Othman Abu-Gheida, as chairman and Mr. and Mrs. William Davenport as co-chairmen. The German teachers were the fourth group sponsored by the local committee. Previous guests were from Japan, India and Turkey. They arrived July 4 and left the area Saturday.

Each Experimenter lived with a host family, learning about American life and sharing their own way of life with their American hosts and friends.

Local schools and educational institutions were high on the priority visits for the German teachers. Out of the area they visited the State Education Department and the Capitol in Albany and the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the American Museum of Natural History in New York City.

Since many of the visiting educators teach geography and history of the United States, their tours of historically significant sites in the area were of particular interest. Included in the itinerary were the Senate House in Kingston; Roosevelt and Vanderbilt estates in Hyde Park and scenic Lake Mohonk.

One of the highlights was an impromptu introduction to the County Office Building in Kingston. They were welcomed to Ulster County by Clifford Snyder, majority leader of the County Legislature, who presented them with packets containing county brochures, maps of Kingston, description of Ulster County government and flyers from such attractions as the D & H Canal Historical Society Museum.

Another point of great interest at the county office building was the Board of Elections where they were told of the methods of registration and voting. The voting machines in particular sparked many questions. In Germany, paper ballots are used rather than machines.

Another introduction to machines and computer practice was afforded during a tour of the local IBM facility. A visit to a local farm was included also.

Taking part in this year's Experiment were Miss Christl Stephanblome, coordinator of the German group and a teacher of German and history at high school and college level; Miss Johanna Bausdorf, high school teacher of history and social studies; Miss Brigitte Engelhardt, head of the English department in a girls high school-college; Hans Hoffman, teacher of English and history at secondary level; Miss Almut Maydorn, English and geography teacher at a boys high school; Roann Mensing, a teacher priest at a public high school-college level and Dr. Margaret Wielers, principal of a high school for 560 girls aged 11 through 16 and a teacher of English and history.

Host families were Dr. and Mrs. George B. Erbstein, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schoonmaker, Dr. and Mrs. Abu-Gheida, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. William Davenport, Dr. and Mrs. Ted Grenda and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heine. Dr. Erbstein had a double host role in that he conducted the group on a tour of Ulster County Community College where he is president.

The Experiment, a non-profit organization with affiliates in approximately 60 countries, has been conducting this type of educational exchange since its founding in 1932. This year alone more than 3,000 Experimenters will come to the United States from more than 100 different nations, and approximately 2,500 young Americans will visit Europe, Latin America, the Middle East, Asia and Africa on similar experiment homestay and study programs.

Flood Disaster ... County Folk Help

Flood disaster victims throughout the mid-Atlantic states will find the path back to a more normal existence eased through the generosity of Ulster County residents, and the hard work of several local organizations.

According to Robert Braun, Red Cross Chapter Disaster Chairman, "an effort spearheaded by the Kingston Jaycees, the Big Scot Department store, Station WKNY and numerous local citizens and organizations, raised $1,800 through a clothing sale at the Big Scot Store. Also, WKNY had a mobile unit at the Kingston uptown shopping plaza all day Saturday, July 15, appealing for funds.

"Our assignment," Braun said, "was $5,000 out of a total estimated cost of $15,000,000 which the American Red Cross has estimated for relief of victims of the recent floods. "This figure," he said, "already exceeds by half, the $10,000,000 budgeted this year nationally by the Red Cross for disaster relief. Our contribution also exceeds funds budgeted for Ulster County activities for this year."

Braun had high praise for individuals and groups associated with the fund-raising program. "Without demeaning the role of any one person or group," he said, "I would like to offer my special thanks to Sanford Kassendorf, manager of the local Big Scot store; the Kingston Jaycees, and their president, David Favor and the management and staff of KINGSTON WKNY, who promoted the event through day-long announcements.

"Others who supported this activity included the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, the Kingston Life Members of the Telephone Pioneers of America, the Senior Citizens, Zonta, Ulster County Chapter 975 American Retired Persons and local Red Cross volunteers," he said.

132nd Orange Fair ... 8-Day Run Opens July 29

The 132nd Annual Orange County Fair opens its gates at 10 a.m. for eight days and nights starting Saturday, July 29, and already a number of top-flight attractions have been booked.

Back by popular demand is the Jack Kochman Auto Thrill Show. Jack brings his spine-tangling presentation to the Fair Stadium on Monday, July 31 and again on Thursday, Aug. 3 for 1 p.m. afternoon and 8:30 p.m. evening performances.

On Tuesday and Wednesday nights, Aug. 1 and 2, at 8 p.m. and 10 p.m., the Fair will play host to the world famous International Water Folies, a spectacular 2 hour musical review, performed in the world's largest pool.

A sensational musical double-header is planned for Friday night, Aug. 4. Joe Boatner's incredible "INK SPOTS" will team up with the popular "BOBBY DUVALLE AND THE BRASS OVERTURE" for two

"The success of this clothing sale, was a key element allowing us to reach $3,400 toward the goal of $5,000 which has been assigned to us. I am very grateful to everyone who assisted, and I encourage any individual who has not yet made a contribution to do so as soon as possible," he concluded.

Donations may be mailed to: American Red Cross, 21 O'Neil Street, Kingston, 12401.

Stock car racing, featuring the finest drivers in the east will provide plenty of action for Fairgoers on Saturday night, August 29 and again the following Saturday, Aug. 3, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Again this year, the Nationally Registered Horse Show will be staged throughout the entire week. More than 1000 entries have been lined up for the show, which features the top horses and riders in the east.

This year's Fair runs from July 29 to Aug. 5 and is jammed packed with entertaining attractions for all ages.

Insidious Blood Disease

In Africa, thousands of years ago, nature made a mistake, a mutation. A baby was born with sickle-cell anemia and that baby's descendants inherited the malady and carried it with them to the New World as slaves. Now, in its severe form the disease affects one out of every 400 black Americans, and in its mild form, or trait, one out of every 10 blacks living in this country.

"To All My Friends on Shore," 90-minute special starring Bill Cosby to be rebroadcast Sunday, Aug. 13 (7:30-9:00 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network, is the contemporary drama of a family who must deal with the effects of this disease when it, in its severest form, strikes their young son.

Sickle-cell anemia is a non-contagious, inherited disorder occurring chiefly in black people. It is a disease of the blood in which there is a particular kind of hemoglobin in the red cells that causes them in certain specific circumstances to assume a peculiar crescent, or sickled, shape.

In Africa, strangely, sickle-cell anemia protects those living in areas where malaria is endemic, since the malaria parasite shuns blood which sickles. In America, with malaria gone, sickle disease remains a scourge among blacks.

If two people who have the sickle-cell trait marry, the chances are that one out of four of their children will have the severe form of sickle-cell anemia, two will have the trait—or mild form—and one will have no form of the disease. If one parent has sickle-cell anemia, and the other parent the trait, half the children will have the severe form, the other half the trait. And there are other combinations which give rise to intermediate forms of the illness.

In "To All My Friends on Shore," the husband, played by Cosby, and his wife, portrayed by Gloria Foster, are both carriers of the genes that doom their young son, played by Dennis Hines.

There are those medical practitioners who are unaware of the disease, and even when it is known, it may not be recognized. Many patients with sickle-cell anemia are treated for diseases which have similar symptoms. Even when detected, some physicians prescribe only to relieve the symptoms of this blood disorder, as they might recommend aspirin for the relief of a headache or rest for a cold. There is no known medical cure for sickle-cell anemia.

To ensure that the sickle-cell anemia representation in "To All My Friends on Shore" would be completely authentic, Dr. Nathaniel Wisch, a noted New York hematologist, acted as technical advisor for the production. He spent the better part of a week in Norwalk, Conn., where the special was filmed, supervising the scenes in which the young boy is examined and treated for the disease.

"Look Up And Live"

The Rev. A.J. McKnight, president of the Southern Cooperative Development Fund, will discuss with CBS News Correspondent Charles Osgood how his organization helps poor and minority groups in the Southeast set up cooperative enterprises and thereby achieve economic self-determination, in "A Cooperative Action" on "Look Up and Live" Sunday, July 30 (10:30-11:00 a.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network. Their discussion will be illustrated by film segments of some cooperatives in action.

In addition to his position with the Southern Cooperative Development Fund, Father McKnight, a Brooklyn-born priest now with the diocese of Lafayette, La., is an advisor to the Poverty Task Force of the Office of Economic Opportunity, a national committee member of the Campaign for Human Development of the United States Catholic Conference, and is currently a delegate to the Democratic National Convention from Louisiana.

Also appearing on the broadcast is Zelma Wyche, Tallula, Miss., police commissioner, the first black man to hold that position in the deep South. Wyche was backed by several cooperative organizations, including a credit union, and is representative of the movement's increasing interest in political as well as economic involvement in their communities.

"Dr. Seuss' The Lorax" Wins Prize

"Dr. Seuss' The Lorax," the animated musical special adapted by Theodor (Dr. Seuss) Geisel from his ecology-oriented children's book of the same title, has won the Critics Award at the Zagreb International Animation Film Festival in Zagreb, Yugoslavia. The special was broadcast on the CBS Television Network February 14, 1972.

The award honored the overall excellence of the special, which was produced by David H. DePatie, Friz Freleng and Geisel in association with the CBS Television Network.

"Dr. Seuss' The Lorax," a tale about the disastrous effects of the misuse of natural resources, is told in classic Seussian rhymes and features such non-animal, non-human creatures as the ecologically educated title character.

"The Glass Bottom Boat"

Doris Day stars with Rod Taylor and Arthur Godfrey in "The Glass Bottom Boat," a gay, lighthearted comedy on "The CBS Late Movie"

Monday, July 31 (starting at 11:30 p.m., edt) on the CBS Television Network. (This film was originally presented on this series on February 17, 1972.)

Miss Day, star of her own series on the Network, appears in the film as Jennifer Nelson, whose father (Godfrey) is the captain of a glass bottom boat based on Catalina Island. Jennifer helps entertain his tourist passengers by swimming beneath the craft decked out in a mermaid's costume. One day she is fished out of the water by an engineering genius (Taylor) who feels she would be more gainfully employed working in his spacecraft plant. Once there, she is suspected of being a spy and becomes entangled in a hilarious counterspionage situation as well as in an inescapable romance.

Featured in prominent roles in the 1966 Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer releases are John McGiver, Paul Lynde, Eric Fleming and Dom DeLuise.

Quarterfinal "CBS Tennis Classic"

Tom Okker, who defeated Fred Stolle in an opening-round match, and Roger Taylor, who eliminated Arthur Ashe in the first round, meet in a quarterfinal match of the "CBS Tennis Classic" to be broadcast on the CBS Television Network Sunday, July 23 (4:30-5:00 p.m., EDT).

Bud Collins is the commentator for the tournament broadcasts from Sea Pines Plantation, Hilton Head, S.C.

Okker, seeded No. 3 in the tournament, defeated Stolle in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, in his first match. The 27-year-old righthander won $120,000 on the World Championship of Tennis tour in 1971. He played in all 20 of the tour events, won two tournaments and finished second in the point standings.

Taylor, seeded No. 12, also had a relatively easy time in advancing to the quarterfinals as he eliminated Ashe, 6-2, 6-4. Taylor, 30, collected over $35,000 in 1971 on the WCT tour. He won one tournament and reached the finals in another.

ANNIVERSARY PUT-DOWN--Big John Wayne drops to his knee as he feigns pain in shaking hands with Tiny Tim while Dick Martin roars during an encore colorcast of the 100th show of "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" Monday, July 24 (8-9 p.m.

NYT) on the NBC Television Network. In addition to guest stars John Wayne and Tiny Tim, former "Laugh-In" regulars Judy Carne, Henry Gibson, Teresa Graves, Arte Johnson and Jo Anne Worley returned for the anniversary show.

The Weaker Side Defended

Lydia Monroe takes a punch at a neighbor's boy who has an interesting theory on the subject of birds and bees, on "My World and Welcome to It" Thursday, Aug 17 (8:00-8:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Monroe finds himself trying to explain to his daughter why inferior viewpoints must be tolerated, thus propelling Lydia into an imaginary realm filled with superior beings and inferior beings.

Elvis Presley, Fran Jeffries , Mary Ann Mobley On "The CBS Late Movie"

Elvis Presley stars with Fran Jeffries and Mary Ann Mobley in "Harum Scarum," an action-filled comedy set against an Arabian Nights background, on "The CBS Late Movie" Friday, July 28 on the CBS Television Network. (This motion picture, a rebroadcast, was originally presented on this series on March 27, 1972.)

Presley portrays a motion picture star who is kidnapped while on a personal-appearance tour in the Middle East. Unwillingly, he becomes involved in a plot against the king and enmeshed in a series of dangerous escapades.

The musical score that punctuates his adventures includes such tunes as "Haren Holiday," "My Desert Serenade," "Go East, Young Man," "Mirage," "Kismet," "Shake That Tambourine," "Hey Little Girl," "Golden Coins" and "So Close and Yet So Far."

"Hitler" (1962) starring Richard Basehart, Cordula Trantow. A highly revealing story of the Nazi dictator's personal life, including his association with two women of different temperaments.

George Hamilton, Suzanne Pleshette On "The CBS Late Movie"

George Hamilton and Suzanne Pleshette star in "The Power," science-fiction thriller to be presented on "The CBS Late Movie" Tuesday, Aug. 1 (starting at 11:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network. Richard Carlson, Yvonne DeCarlo, Earl Holliman, Gary Merrill, Ken Murray, Barbara Nichols, Arthur O'Connell, Nehemiah Persoff, Aldo Ray and Michael Rennie co-star. (This film was originally broadcast on this series on April 7, 1972.)

The story deals with the unusual power of a member of a scientific research group who possesses the ability to drive his colleagues to the terrifying limit of human endurance and survival. None of his co-workers knows who among them possesses the power. When Jim Tanner (Hamilton) becomes the prime target of suspicion, he and Margery Lansing (Miss Pleshette) ally themselves in a hide-and-seek tracking down of the unseen and unknown menace.

SANDY, THEN AND NOW—NBC sportscaster Sandy Koufax, the youngest player ever to be elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame, shows the grip which earned him the Cy Young Award as baseball's top pitcher during his sparkling career with the Los Angeles Dodgers. Sandy will lend his expertise to NBC Television Network's colorcast of the 43rd All-Star game on the NBC Television Network Tuesday, July 25, starting at 8 p.m. NYT. He will help describe the action, along with Curt Gowdy, Tony Kubek and Jim Simpson, from Atlanta Stadium. The game will be seen on more than 220 television stations in the United States and in Latin America and Canada.

"Yellow Submarine"Coming In October

"Yellow Submarine," the brilliantly innovative full-length animated film starring The Beatles, will be broadcast as a family film special presentation Sunday, Oct. 29 (8:00-9:30 p.m. EST) on the CBS Television Network, it was announced today.

Ideal Toy, represented by Helgoff and Partners, is a sponsor of the 90-minute special.

The film, which "co-stars" Sergeant Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band, takes place in the mythical kingdom of Pepperland. There, on a lovely day, in the midst of a band concert, the Chief Blue Meanie and his assistant, Max, and their 99 henchmen unleash a foul assault on the docile Pepperland populace. One man, Old Fred, escapes in the Yellow Submarine, which surfaces in Liverpool where he recruits Ringo, John, Paul and George.

They all head back for Pepperland, encountering an incredible number of adventures on the way. Once back in Pepperland The Beatles square off for a knuckles down encounter with the Blue Meanies.

During the film, 14 songs are performed, in part or in entirety, by The Beatles.

AUG. 26: "Ordeal of a President." President Woodrow Wilson comes to his reluctant decision to involve the United States in World War I. G. Wood appears as Wilson. (September 8, 1971)

Jack Carter has been cast as a gangster on the lam by producer George LeMaire for "The Family Rico", starring Ben Gazzara, now filming for fall broadcast on "The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies" on the CBS Television Network. Also joining the cast are Lief Erickson, Dane Clark, R.G. Armstrong, John Randolph, Barbara Allen and Tom Petti. Paul Wendkos is directing from a screenplay by David Karp, based on the Georges Simenon novel "The Brothers Rico".

Schooled . . . in the ways of decorating a sweater, gold filled turns to lockets and pendants to meet the grade this fall. A cuddly bear of tiger's eye, an engraved locket are just two of the decorating ways, the Jewelry Industry Council finds. Two rings to a school girl's finger are the norm, and both here have tiny diamonds twinkling away, one in the shape of a heart. All Jewelry by: Imperial Pearl Syndicate, Inc.

Occasion jewelry helps school girl delicately express her favorite self

Back to school activities include finding the right jewelry accessories to make her school wardrobe as individual as Miss Teen herself. The Jewelry Industry Council knows this means gold filled jewelry that delicately expresses her favorite antique jewelry looks: lockets, chains, pendants, bangle bracelets and colored stone combinations.

She'll add to her growing collection of pierced earrings with styles that show the design both front and back.

Charming her for fall are charms of those lovable

Disney characters from her not-too-distant childhood.

Rings go back-to-school again with lots of company: her birthstone, a love knot ring from her beau, thin strands of silver twisted and turned around her finger will all go on the same hand.

Special occasion jewelry can give a teen the confidence she doesn't feel when she needs it most. Cultured pearl jewelry, a karat gold bracelet watch, a small diamond heart centering a ring will make her feel as well as look sophisticated during this school year.

"The John Byner Comedy Hour"

"The John Byner Comedy Hour," starring comedian-impressionist John Byner performing the wild and satirical comedy that has made him a favorite on the guest-star and nightclub circuits, will premiere the first of its five summer programs Tuesday, Aug. 1 (7:30-8:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Byner's impressions, monologues, singing, dancing and gift for sketch comedy have delighted audiences during 15 appearances on "The Ed Sullivan Show" and other major variety programs.

"These have all been in little bits, though," Byner says. "This will be the first time I have had the time to put it all together on one show."

Guest stars appearing on the series will include Bill Bixby, Frankie Avalon, Annette Funicello, Ted Knight, Theresa Graves, Michele Lee and James Farentino.

"You Are There"Rebroadcasts During August

Following are episodes of "You Are There" to be rebroadcast during August (Saturdays, 12:30-1:00 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network. CBS News Correspondent Walter Cronkite is the anchorman for these dramatic reenactments of memorable events in world history. (Original broadcast dates are indicated in parentheses.)

AUG. 5: "The Vision of Dr.

Koch." Koch overcomes opposition within the scientific community to his thesis that the cholera germ is the single cause for that disease. Philip Sterling stars. (December 4, 1971)

AUG. 12: "The Torment of Joan of Arc." Andrea Marcovicci stars as the 19-year-old Joan on trial for heresy and treason while imprisoned in the castle of Rouen in medieval France. (December

Dean Santoro, featured as Paul Stewart on "As the World Turns" on the CBS Television Network, will be doubling this summer as a member of the Barr-Albee Company at the John Drew Theatre in East Hampton, L.I.

Rue McClanahan, Broadway and off-Broadway actress, has joined the cast of "Love of Life" on the CBS Television Network in the role of Mrs. Brayley. She was last seen on the Network's "Where the Heart Is" as Margaret Jardin, who met with a fatal accident. Miss McClanahan recently took over the Tony award-winning role that Elizabeth Wilson played in the Broadway play "Sticks and Bones." Drew Snyder, also in "Love of Life" as Dr. Dan Phillips, plays a male lead in the same Broadway play.

"Interlude," With Oskar Werner

Oskar Werner and Barbara Ferris star in "Interlude," a poignant romance, on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies"

Thursday, Aug. 3 (9:00-11:00 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network. (This film was originally presented on the Network on April 20, 1972.)

A world-famous symphony conductor, Stefan Zelter (Werner), although married, falls in love with a young newspaperwoman, Sally (Miss Ferris.) Torn between Sally and his wife, Antonia (Virginia Maskell), Stefan finds that the conflict distracts him from his work and leads to unhappiness. Antonia refuses to divorce him, and Sally cannot accept the fragility of their relationship.

"The Picasso Summer"

Albert Finney and Yvette Mimieux star in "The Picasso Summer," a surrealistic film dealing with the vitality of Picasso's art as seen through the eyes of a young couple who worship the painter, on "The CBS Late Movie" Friday, Aug. 4 (starting at 11:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network. This will be the first television showing of this film.

After a swinging party in an art gallery, George and Alice Smith (Finney and Miss Mimieux) retire to their San Francisco apartment. It, like everything else in their lives, is dominated by their idol, Picasso. To secure a better understanding of Picasso's technique, they decide to visit him in the south of France. But their letters and telegrams, begging an audience, go unanswered. Their frustration results in a quarrel, and George runs off to Spain on a strange quest, during which he believes he has encountered the real Picasso.

"Something Evil"

Sandy Dennis and Darren McGavin star as a young couple who move into an old farmhouse in Pennsylvania, unaware it is occupied by the devil, in "Something Evil" on "The New CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday, Aug. 4 (9:00-10:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network. Also starring are Ralph Bellamy, Jeff Corey and Johnnie Whitaker. (This film was originally presented on the Network on January 21, 1971.)

Marjorie Worden (Miss Dennis) becomes interested in the use of hex signs to ward off evil spirits through a neighbor, Harry Lincoln (Bellamy), who has studied the supernatural.

Then, despite her husband's (McGavin) skepticism, an eerie series of events pushes Marjorie close to emotional breakdown when she becomes convinced a demonic force is trying to possess her.

"A Step Out Of Line"

"A Step Out of Line," tense and stirring drama starring Peter Falk, Vic Morrow and Peter Lawford, will be presented on "The CBS Late Movie" Wednesday, Aug. 2 (starting at 11:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Jo Ann Pflug, Lynn Carlin, Susan Adams and Tom Bosley co-star in the exciting story about three Korean War veterans (Falk, Morrow, Lawford) whose financial difficulties lead them to plan a daring crime.

Connors (Falk), after his boss, Jack Berger (Bosley), shows him plans for the alarm system in a foreign exchange house, secretly copies them and induces Rawlins (Morrow) and Stoyer (Lawford) to help him plot a robbery that will net them a million dollars. They carry out their dangerous scheme with results altogether different than they expected.

Closet Skeletons

Monroe retreats into his childhood fantasies to explain how his nightmares run in the family, on "My World and Welcome to It" Thursday, Aug. 10 (8:00-8:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Ellen Monroe's criticism of her husband's rule that dinner must wait his arrival drives Monroe's imaginative mind back into his fantasy world—this time recalling his childhood in Columbus, Ohio. His memories include Jeremiah, a ghost that appeared regularly in the household to give betting tips on houses, and his Aunt Hester, who placed her valuables outside her bedroom door so burglars wouldn't break in.

About 15 percent of all people who get rheumatoid arthritis seem to get well after one or more attacks, a survey of The Arthritis Foundation shows. About 20 percent suffer some serious disabling from the disease.

Hair care takes top interest at schools

Two heads are better than one . . . especially if they're both impeccably groomed. This from hair-care specialists, Pantene, who maintain that, although men on campus have been going long-hair for some time, they're just now catching up with the coeds' headstart on coif-care.

With the new status coif now a his-and-hers affair on campus — and off — Pantene comes to the rescue with a collection of hair care products to keep both a-head when it comes to the status quo — all shine, mobility, naturalness.

For both — a brand new conditioner that isn't rinsed out, stays from shampoo-to-shampoo. Hers is called "Enrichment de Pantene"; his, "No-Rinse Conditioner."

Still another super mane-stayer for each: "Hair Groom Spray (Extra Control Formula)" is especially designed for the sirs; and "Hair Spray de Pantene" (in Soft, Natural, Firm, or Extra Firm Hold) for the girls.

Everything with that famous Swiss-formulated conditioner, one of the big secrets of Pantene's special expertise.

Campus queens and BMOC's look their best with hair that is natural looking and under control. This campus couple keeps well-groomed with Pantene hair care products. Hers is called "Enrichment de Pantene"; his "No-Rinse Conditioner." For mane-staying she uses "Hair Spray de Pantene"; he, "Hair Groom Spray."

"Where The Boys Are"

Romance, comedy and music are set in a popular vacation spot in "Where the Boys Are," starring George Hamilton, Connie Francis, Dolores Hart, Paula Prentiss, Yvette Mimieux, Jim Hutton and Barbara Nichols, to be rebroadcast on "The CBS Late Movie" Thursday, Aug. 3 (starting at 11:30 p.m., EDT) on the CBS Television Network. (This film was originally shown on this series on March 31, 1972.)

Against the background of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where college students from all over the country gather during Easter vacation, the story traces the experiences of four girls seeking their dream men.

Connie Francis sings two numbers, "Turn On the Sunshine" and "Where the Boys Are." "Have You Met Miss Fandango?" is sung by Barbara Nichols.

Spotting sight problems

This eight year old has a high IQ rating — but a poor report card. For him, reading is a chore and he gets bored. He frowns, tilts his head or covers one eye when trying to read. These symptoms indicate that he should have a professional eye examination, according to the Better Vision Institute. Trouble with seeing can lead to boredom in school and boredom in school can lead to serious trouble.

"Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," To Be Thanksgiving Night Film Special

"Chitty Chitty Bang Bang," the film based on a story by Ian Fleming and starring Dick Van Dyke and Sally Ann Howes, will be broadcast as a family film special on Thanksgiving night, Thursday, Nov. 23 (8:00 p.m. EST, to conclusion) on the CBS Television Network, it was announced today.

Ideal Toy represented by Helgoff and Partners, is a sponsor of the special.

(Editor's note: This special presentation will preempt "The Waltons" and "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" on the Network on this date.)

an eccentric inventor who buys a dilapidated car called Chitty Chitty Bang Bang. With his two children, Jeremy (Adrian Hall) and Jennifer (Heather Ripley), and a friend, Truly Scrumptious (Miss Howes), Potts drives to the seashore.

There he tells them a story that involves pirates, an evil Child Catcher (Robert Helpmann), a Baroness (Anna Quayle) and a set of exotic adventures. In all of this, it is discovered that Chitty Chitty Bang Bang is not just another car, but an airplane and a hydrofoil as well.

THE BEST OF BOTH WORLDS

Nowadays, when women are feeling the freedom to engage in a career plus a marriage, being chosen Miss Universe can be a useful way for a girl to get both.

Seventy-two girls from countries all over the world may have this thought in mind when they gather at the Cerromar Beach Hotel in Dorado, Puerto Rico, to participate in the 21st annual "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant," to be a special live broadcast, via satellite, Saturday, July 29 (10:00 p.m.-12:00 Midnight, edt) on the CBS Television Network.

Virtually every contestant in the pageant receives offers to appear in films, on television and as models for famous photographers. Some take advantage of these offers, others go on to marry. Many girls do both.

Sylvia Louise Hitchcock, who won the title Miss USA 1967 and was then chosen as Miss Universe a few weeks later, is married to an inventor and is working successfully as a model. She will be one of the judges for this year's contest.

In 1966, beautiful Margareta Arvidsson of Sweden won the Miss Universe title. Margareta is now a top model and is wed to a famous Brazilian photographer.

Corinna Tsopei of Greece was the 1964 winner. She is now under a movie contract and is married to a surgeon in Beverly Hills.

Miss Universe 1963, Ieda Maria Vargas of Brazil, is a well-known photographer's model there and married. Norma Nolan of Argentina, the winner of the 1962 crown, is also modeling and is married to an architect-builder in her native land. Akiko Kojima of Japan, the 1959 winner, has a highly successful career as one of Japan's top models. She is married to Japanese film star Akira Takirada.

Although they are not married yet, the three recent winners--Gloria Diaz (Philippines, 1969), Marisol Malaret (Puerto Rico, 1970) and Georgina Rizk (Lebanon, 1971)--are all currently pursuing modeling careers.

Other than the material prospects, the winner of the "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant" gets a good chance at both marriage and a promising career.

DAYTIME GAME PROGRAMS TO PREMIERE MONDAY, SEPT. 4

Three new half-hour game programs--"The Joker's Wild," "The New Price Is Right" and "Gambit"--which will test contestants' skills and strategies and award valuable prizes, will premiere Monday, Sept. 4 on the CBS Television Network, it was announced today by B. Donald (Bud) Grant, Vice President, Daytime Programs.

In making the announcement, Grant said that the three new series, which will be presented Monday through Friday, 10:00-11:30 a.m., EDT, represent 25 percent of the daytime schedule, a major block of new programs that will debut on the same day. The Network's eight serial dramas, popular and successful features during the day, will continue in the schedule, along with rebroadcasts of the situation comedy series "Family Affair."

"The Joker's Wild" (10:00-10:30 a.m., EDT) involves skill, good judgment and good luck as three contestants match wits for valuable merchandise and money prizes. Each participant pulls the arm of a device that looks like a slot machine, which locks in various categories on a giant wheel or board. The contestant answers several questions as different categories appear at each turn of the wheel. Two or three jokers, or wild cards, at one turn increase the chances for a winner to earn additional money and the chance to go on to receive merchandise gifts and to return the next day.

"The Joker's Wild," produced by Jack Barry Productions, Inc., will be hosted by Barry, who will also serve as executive producer. The producer and director are soon to be selected.

"The New Price Is Right" (10:30-11:00 a.m., EDT) is a fast-paced updated version of the popular game series of a few seasons back. In the new format, contestants will be selected daily from the audience in a quick opening round called "Higher-Lower," in which a player to qualify must guess the exact retail price of an item. Winners then vie for prizes by evaluating retail prices of additional merchandise, and play against the house, rather than against fellow players as in the former series. In the final event of the day, contestants compete with each other in estimating the total value of a merchandise display. The person coming closest without going over the retail amount is the winner and returns to the program the next day.

Host for the Goodson-Todman Production will be selected shortly. Frank Wayne is executive producer, Jay Wolpert the producer, and Mark Breslau the director.

Strategy and quick thinking are all important in the third new series, "Gambit," to be seen at 11:00-11:30 a.m., EDT. Host Wink Martindale leads the question-answer contest in which two married couples try their hand at the game of blackjack, or 21, competing against each other for prize money and merchandise gifts. After a question is posed, the first couple to press a buzzer and answer correctly controls the points and thus has a better chance of winning the game. The first couple to reach 21 and win two rounds gets to play the final Gambit board for merchandise prizes and to meet a new set of challengers.

Bob Noah is the producer of "Gambit," and Jerry Shaw is the director for the Heatter-Quigley production.

All three series will be produced in Hollywood by veteran creators of television game programs. Barry, Goodson-Todman, and Heatter-Quigley have all brought to television hundreds of hours of game-show enjoyment for millions of viewers throughout the years.

"The Lucy Show" and "The Beverly Hillbillies," currently seen on the Network at 10:00-10:30 and 10:30-11:00 a.m., EDT, respectively, will have their final broadcasts September 1. "Family Affair," presented weekdays, 11:00-11:30 a.m., EDT, will move to the 4:00-4:30 p.m., EDT, time period beginning September 4. "My Three Sons," in the latter time slot Monday through Friday, will have its final broadcast September 1.

Melba Moore, co-star of "The Melba Moore-Clifton Davis Show" on the CBS Television Network, holds a bachelor of arts degree in music education from Montclair State Teachers College.

"Miss Universe Beauty Pageant"

Seventy beautiful candidates from as many countries around the world will vie for the title of Miss Universe 1972 when the 21st annual "Miss Universe Beauty Pageant" is broadcast live, via satellite, from the Cerramar Beach Hotel in Dorado, Puerto Rico, Saturday, July 29 (10:00 p.m.-12:00 Midnight, EDT) on the CBS Television Network.

Highlighting the special two-hour presentation will be the selection and crowning of Miss Universe from among youthful contestants representing countries in North America, South America, Asia, Africa and Europe.

The Procter & Gamble Company, represented by Leo Burnett Company, Inc., will be the sponsor for the broadcast.

(Editor's note: This special program will preempt "Mission: Impossible" on the Network on this date.)

Singer Helen O'Connell and television personality Bob Barker will serve as hostess and master of ceremonies for the final competition.

Georgina Rizk of Lebanon will make her final formal appearance as the reigning Miss Universe and will relinquish her crown to her successor at the climax of the broadcast. Tanya Wilson of Hawaii, the newly chosen Miss USA 1972, will represent the United States in the pageant.

Miss Universe 1972 will receive $10,000 in cash and a $10,000 personal appearance contract. The first and second runners-up will receive cash prizes of $1,000 and $500, respectively.

Charles Andrews will produce the television broadcast. Sid Smith will be the director. Executive director of the pageant is Herbert K. Landon.

The 1969 Census of Agriculture shows that 1.1 per cent of the farms (22,000) with around 9 per cent of the land were operated by corporations.

Adverse weather conditions have affected summer fruit crops of peaches, sweet cherries, pears, and apricots so supplies will be considerably less than last year.

THE "CLERMONT" AT HER DOCK AT COXSACKIE. Built in 1911 at Newburgh for the Catskill Evening Line's freight and passenger service to upper river landings, the steamer had a relatively short career in this service. In 1920 she was converted to an excursion steamboat to run to Bear Mountain and remained in this service until 1948. (Photo courtesy of Herman Boyle Jr. Collection)

A Dandy Ham Sandwich From the Clermont's Galley

By CAPT. WM. O. BENSON.

When the steamboat "Clermont" was running on the Catskill Evening Line around 1914 to Catskill, Hudson and Coxsackie, the steamer had a pilot the quartermaster and lookout didn't particularly care for. The younger men in the crew could never seem to please him in any way.

In those days, the quartermaster generally was a young fellow starting out on his steamboat career. It was his job to keep the pilot house neat and clean, see that the brass was polished, and to assist the pilots as they directed. The quartermaster would frequently steer the steamer under the pilot's direction and, in this way, he would "learn the river."

It was also the quartermaster's duty at about 2 or 3 a.m. to go down to the galley and make a couple of sandwiches and coffee to take up to the pilot house for the pilot on watch.

No More Beer

On the night of this particular incident, the pilot had told the captain he had seen the quartermaster that afternoon up on Reed Street in Coxsackie talking to some girls and having a glass of beer instead of sleeping on the boat to be rested for the night trip to New York. To keep peace with his pilot, the captain admonished the quartermaster and told him not to do it again.

Early the next morning as the "Clermont" was paddling her way down the Hudson to New York, the quartermaster went down to the galley to make the usual sandwiches and coffee for the pilot house.

Still smarting from the rebuke he had received as the result of the pilot's remarks about him to the captain, the quartermaster took a piece of toilet paper and placed it between the slices of ham in the sandwiches he was making. Then he slapped some mustard on the ham and took the sandwiches completely dark. The pilot took the two sandwiches and ate them with great relish, apparently being more hungry than usual. He never even noticed the toilet paper between the slices of ham.

Orders Another

After finishing the sandwiches, the pilot said, "They were real good. Go down to the galley and make another."

This time, however, the quartermaster apparently lost his nerve and made the new sandwich in the more conventional way.

After the pilot ate the new sandwich, he turned to the quartermaster and said, "That one wasn't as good as the first two. I guess you must have used a different ham!"

And on the "Clermont" steamed on her way to New York, Reed Street, Coxsackie left far behind, with only the soft breezes of a summer's night to disturb the serenity of the dark pilot house.

Changing Economy...

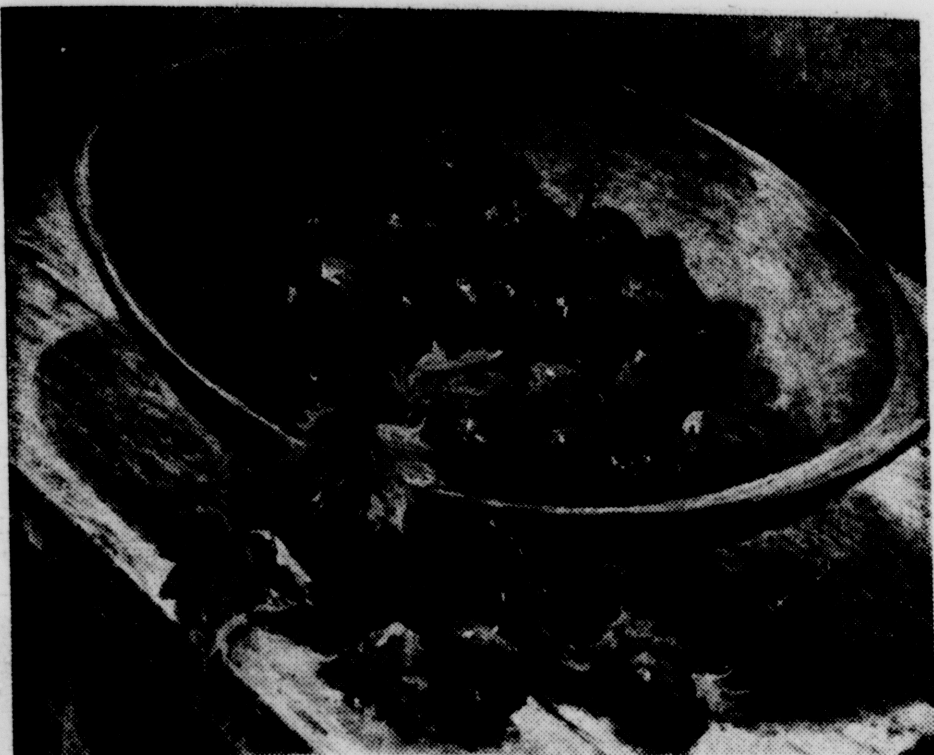

Actually, the peaceful scene in the "Clermont's" pilot house was soon to be disturbed by other factors. Changing economic conditions, due primarily to the growing use of the automobile and motor trucks and the changing vacation habits of former patrons, caused the Catskill Evening Line to go into receivership in January 1918.

Passenger carrying operations were abandoned altogether and during the season of 1918 the "Clermont," and her running mate "Ontora," ran under charter on an opposition night line to Troy.

The "Clermont" and "Ontora" lay idle during 1919 and in September of that year were purchased by the Palisades Interstate Park Commission. They were converted into excursion steamboats to run from New York to Bear Mountain and entered this service in 1920. The "Clermont" was renamed "Bear Mountain" in 1947, ran for the last time during the season of 1948, and in 1950 was broken up.

"RED APPLES IN A SHAKER BOWL WITH MAPLE LEAVES" came by its eye-catching arrangement by happy accident. Brock arranged the apples in a bowl in his studio, leaving the door open when he went to the house to get supplies. It was a windy day and he returned to find the breezes had blown the leaves into the bowl and onto the table. In stunning color, this oil on board is one of the illustrations in the new book on Woodstock artist Brock and his work.

"MARE AND STALLION" is the title of this wash drawing by Brock. Horses are among the favorite subjects of the artist, and his paintings often extoll their strength and beauty in glowing canvases embodying in the animals the mood of the wind and sea as they run along the ocean's shore, huddle in a driving snow storm, thrust and parry in play and combat, extoll mood and movement as they race through the dust, and cavort playfully and spiritedly in the wind.

Brock's Book — Burgeoning With Beauty

From the cool tones and luminous beauty of the "Nude With Pearl Earring" on its cover to the introspective grace of the portrait entitled "Suzanne," from the studies of nature extolled in horses racing by the sea to a soft wind blowing through tall and slender popular trees, 75 paintings, drawings and watercolors sparkle and resound in a lavishly illustrated new book, "BROCK — The Man and the Work."

Authored by Daniel L. Cusick and published by Cusick Associates, it is an enthusiast's guide to the serenely stunning art of Woodstock painter Brock — as reflected in his work for more than three decades. The book vividly discusses Brock's life from his birth in England and childhood years in India to his beginning interest in sketching and ultimate acclaim as an internationally renowned artist. It talks, too, about the years in Spain (interrupted by the Spanish Civil War), and the long years spent in Woodstock in the valley of Shady, working out of a 175-year-old farmhouse and salt box-style barn.

But the eloquence and beauty of the book (and it is stunningly beautiful and exquisitely printed) is in author Cusick's role as a selective appraiser of the Brock art reproduced in illustrations.

A Job Well Done

He has picked the 15 color plates and the 60 black and white illustrations with an eye toward conveying the essence and scope of Brock. And he has done his job well. Brock has produced so many hundreds of fine works a book serving as an introduction to this prolific artist might well have become an encyclopedia rather than a work of art and a valuable reference. Cusick's triumph is that he provides his reader with the burnished prose and poetry that is Brock and the art he has created, rather than a review of his work in parade.

Every so often — but not often enough — the publishing world does the right thing and introduces the reading public to a panorama that is totally engrossing. "BROCK — The Man and the Work" is one of those all too rare books.

It is by far the best work ever published on an area painter — approaches the high level of those recent art books dedicated to the work of Andrew Wyeth and Edward Hopper. It weaves a rich photographic tapestry of Brock's talent, reflected through sensuous nudes, tender portraits of mothers and children, the beauties of nature in gnarled old trees and Catskills landscapes, the sweet innocence of childhood, harbor scenes and still life, Cornish farms and breaking waves.

It is a fascinating volume, and it's with sorrow that one

THREE PAINTINGS IN ONE is this Brock oil—a portrait, a portrayal of a household task and a still life with the chore-doer's black sweater as the unifying element. Its title is "Girl Peeling Apples."

INNOCENCE AND TRUST is the message conveyed by this Brock painting. Entitled "Charlene," it is one of many portrait studies by the Woodstock artist in the newly published book extolling his work.

SID CAESAR, here as Canio the clown in Galapacci (after Pagliacci) on his highly successful TV "Show of Shows." Still one of the funniest men of all time, Caesar will delight Hyde Park audiences in the hit Neil Simon comedy, "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," due at the Playhouse from July 24-29.

A Musical Play For the Young

WOODSTOCK with a surprise ending which should thrill young audiences. Music, sets, lighting and acting will all be done by members of the apprentice program from the Woodstock Playhouse. The very special masks for the dwarfs are the work of David Glenn, Assistant Technical Director at the Playhouse. In the tradition of children's shows at Woodstock Playhouse, cast members will mingle with the audience after the play to talk with youngsters. For information and reservations call The Woodstock Playhouse at area code 914, 679-2015, or write The Woodstock Playhouse, P.O. Box 628, Woodstock, New York, 12498.

If you've been looking for a summertime answer to your home from school children's question, "What can I do now?" the Woodstock Playhouse has THE answer. It's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," an original play with music based on the classic Grimm's fairy tale and adapted from the Jessie Braham White version by the Playhouse Director of Apprentices, Philip Gushee. The curtain goes up at 11 a.m. on Saturday, July 29. Gushee, who teaches and directs at The American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City, has put together an unusually delightful presentation of the old favorite

Lesiken Exhibit Now at The Ark

Paintings, drawings and sculpture by artist Joan Lesikin are on exhibit at The Ark, Main Street, Accord, from now through Monday, July 31. Gallery Hours are from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

The artist, a resident of Rockland County and Morocco, holds a degree in Fine Arts from Syracuse University; also received the M.F.A. from Rutgers University. She has also studied with Robert Angeloch at Woodstock's Art

WE HONOR BANKAMERICARD and MASTER CHARGE

If You Loved Ludvig, You'll Adore Barney As Ceasar Plays Him

HYDE PARK Remember Professor Ludvig Von Fossil, distinguished authority on archaeology who advised everyone not to lift heavy rocks and whose greatest discovery as an excavator was the Secret of Titten-Tottens Tomb? Or how about Artur Gordki, the balalaika-strumming host of a Russian TV show?

Then there was Cool C's, the far out jazz musician — and Strange, the cowboy who could drink a whole barrel of water in almost one gulp. You'll remember them all, of course, if you've been a Sid Caesar fan down through the years — since those memorable days when "Your Show of Shows" was the best 90 minutes of live television viewing around.

What you may not remember is that a very young Neil Simon helped write that show. In the past decade, Simon has gone on to sensational success as a more successful financially than playwright almost certainly any dramatist in such a span. His eye for wry and his zingy one-line gags have appealed to theatregoers with such hits as "Barefoot in the Park," "The Odd Couple," "Plaza Suite," and "Last of the Red Hot Lovers."

Reunion of Talents

Which brings us to the point that a reunion of talents is in the offing at Hyde Park Playhouse, when the truly masterly zaniness of Sid Caesar will be utilized to evoke the laughter for which Simon has such a facility and which erupts like incessant motion in his work.

Meaning, of course, that Sid Caesar is due at Hyde Park in Neil Simon's "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" from tomorrow, Monday, July 24 through Saturday, July 29.

The writer, for one, can hardly wait. Remembering the eye-watering pain Caesar brought to his TV sketches, there is joyous anticipation in the knowledge that he'll be playing Barney Cashman, a 47-year-old fish restaurant-owner who cannot get the smell of fish off his hands.

And remembering his love scenes with Imogene Coca as they satirized Hollywood's nobler efforts at heart-tugging romance, we know we're in for masterful entertainment as Caesar fights with himself to get the thought of adultery out of his head after being a monogamous husband for 23 years.

Just One Brief Fling

Caesar as Barney is a man who would like to become involved in just one brief romance with as much passion as possible in the two hours he can use his mother's apartment while she's doing volunteer work at the hospital. But, after all his years of unwavering fidelity and his current status as aging square, each attempt at an escapade ends with hilarious and resounding failure.

Sid Caesar, capable of every emotion from sophisticated, debonair and self-assured to foiled milquetoast, can be expected to turn the entire proceedings into a verbal waltz.

He is, in the opinion of this writer, a very funny man — the best comedian we've ever seen in the art of setting a theatre to howling with laughter. How anyone could possibly pass up his performance at Hyde Park Playhouse in the week ahead is totally inconceivable to us. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

JOE RUNNER, producer of the Clove Valley Theatre, High Falls, will star in the next production at the Theatre, an old-fashioned comedy-melodrama entitled "The Drunkard or The Fallen Saved." Show takes to the stage in the Marletown First Aid Unit Building on the nights of Aug. 4, 5 and 6.

IN COSTUMES of dazzling and authentic magnificence, created by Sumiko Murashima, Turnau Opera Players score a triumph in "The Mikado", considered to be Gilbert and Sullivan's greatest masterpiece of comic hilarity and musical genius. Such popular melodies as "Wandering Minstrel", "Tit Willow", "Three Little Maids", and "My Object All Sublime" will be cherished by audiences again when the Turnau troupe presents "The Mikado" next Saturday night, July 29 at 8 p.m. at Woodstock School. Tickets are on sale at Schneider's on the Corner, Woodstock; Schneller's Meats, Kingston; and at the door Saturday. Turnau is a superbly entertaining company, and their summer season locally will be all too brief (only five more performances and two more operas), so plan to attend these operas in English while you can.

SARA LOUISE lends her attractive and talented presence to "Dames at Sea," the bouncy musical with a nostalgic appeal now playing at Woodstock Playhouse through July 30.

DAVID THOME helps spoof those 1930's Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell movies as he cavorts with the rest of the cast in "Dames at Sea" which is sailing into its second week at Woodstock.

Spoofing the 30's Musicals

There'll be no bon voyage for "Dames at Sea," the light-hearted, nostalgic musical now song and dancing its way across stage at the Woodstock Playhouse. Anchoring up at the end of its first week's run tonight, it'll sail away again for a hold-over second week beginning next Tuesday and ending Sunday, June 30.

And it's a fun vacation trip for audiences who go aboard ship with "Dames" in a parody of those grandiose musicals of the 1930's. If you remember a young, tap dancing Ruby Keeler and a handsome, crooning Dick Powell, you'll find this updated spoofing of their old love stories bubbling entertainment.

In other words, you'll hum your way down memory lane with a kooky chorus line, dreaming of success on old Broadway, and a testy stage manager who loses his theatre before opening night. The Navy to the rescue, however, and the show goes on to fame and acclaim on the deck of a big battleship.

The Woodstock production, as directed by Tommy Breslin, who was with the original touring cast of "Dames," boasts an authentic nautical and nostalgic flavor. The youthful and highly vivacious cast of singers and dancers includes: David Thome, Katie Anders, Ross Gifford, Michael Sklar, Barbara Erwin and Sara Louise.

So, if you failed to see "Dames" during its first week's run, wade right in this week for what might possibly be the lightest, gayest, frothiest musical show you'll see this year. Curtain time Tuesdays through Fridays is 8:30 p.m.; Saturday's show goes on at 9 p.m.; and Sunday's closing performance is slated for an early 7:30 p.m. There'll also be a special musical matinee Saturday at 5 p.m., so make your dinner date early or late accordingly.

Latin-American Art Exhibition

WOODSTOCK An exhibition of paintings of Latin-American subjects by artist B. Sturtevant Gardner, painted during her many years of residency in Central and South America, are on view through July at Woodstock's Gardner Gallery. A trip by freighter around the southern continent through the Strait of Magellan offered many unusual opportunities for these canvases. Painting from the deck and the bridge was a novel and inspirational experience, she says. And, the Inside Passage of Chile, comparable to Norway's fjords, furnished a close-up of snow and snowcaps. The stormy entrance to the Strait of Magellan exposed some of the ship wrecks of old, still visible where they had settled on that treacherous shelf of rock known throughout the world. The Gardner watercolors hold the impression of those disasters.

Ashore people in gay costumes worn by many generations, folk dances in a natural mountain theater, the jungle paradise, desert areas, and over-populated cities are all part of the people to the south. Captured in watercolor and transferred to oil, these paintings make an interesting and different display.

IN 20TH CENTURY ATTIRE "Music for a While" members carry their rare 15th century instruments along New York City street. From L-R they're Christopher Williams, Judith Davidoff, LaNoue Davenport and Sheila Schonbrun, and they'll make music on those same instruments—interspersed with historical commentary, in a concert at State University of New York at New Paltz tomorrow, Monday, July 24 at 8 p.m. Slated at the McKenna Theater on campus, it's being presented free to the public by the Student Government Association.

'Music for a While' Comes to New Paltz Tomorrow

NEW PALTZ
A unique group of musicians, "Music for a While," all alumni of New York Pre Musica, will perform at a free concert Monday, July 24 at 8 p.m. at McKenna Theater on the State University of New York campus at New Paltz.

Anyone expecting the usual traditional array of instruments will be surprised since these four versatile musicians will be performing in a program of Medieval and Renaissance vocal and instrumental music on several exotic instruments including recorder, the oddly shaped krummhorn (from krumm, German for crooked), sackbut (forerunner of the trombone), tenor viol, lute, viola de Gamba, vielle, portable organ, and more.

How the musicians acquired their interest in these old instruments makes for fascinating listening and in all likelihood these four, who are not only talented musically, but also shine verbally, will explain how their interest came about during the commentary that will accompany their program.

Luteist by Coincidence
For example, Christopher

Williams became a luteist somewhat by coincidence. He heard someone play the instrument a few days after having noticed one in a guitar store. Captivated, he returned and bought it.

It is equally interesting to hear how Sheila Schonbrun, LaNoue Davenport and Judith Davidoff, the other quartet members, became involved with their recherche instruments.

They all prefer pre-baroque music, medieval and renaissance, because, to quote musician Schonbrun, "This music is less ego-oriented. Baroque was the beginning of the virtuoso... of paid concerts.

LaNoue Davenport, a former trumpet player, taught himself instruments like the sackbut (he had to do it himself since he could find no listing for "sackbut teachers" in the yellow pages) and the krummhorn.

Monday night at Paltz will be a truly rare opportunity to hear antique musical instruments that one would normally merely see in a museum being used to make beautiful not-often-heard music.

The Swinging Sounds Of Two Real Greats

DUKE ELLINGTON, he of the indisputable musical greatness, will begin a one week stand at Monticello Raceway this Monday night. The swinging band will perform for Mighty M early-comers every evening, Monday-Saturday for one hour beginning at 7:15 and Saturday afternoon at 1:30. Listening to Duke Ellington playing may be compared to watching a precision watch unwind, it's always seemed to TEMPO, and whenever he's in our neighborhood, we're always on hand to hear this greatest jazz band of them all. You're all invited to come along this week for the daily double of Ellington music and races at Monticello.

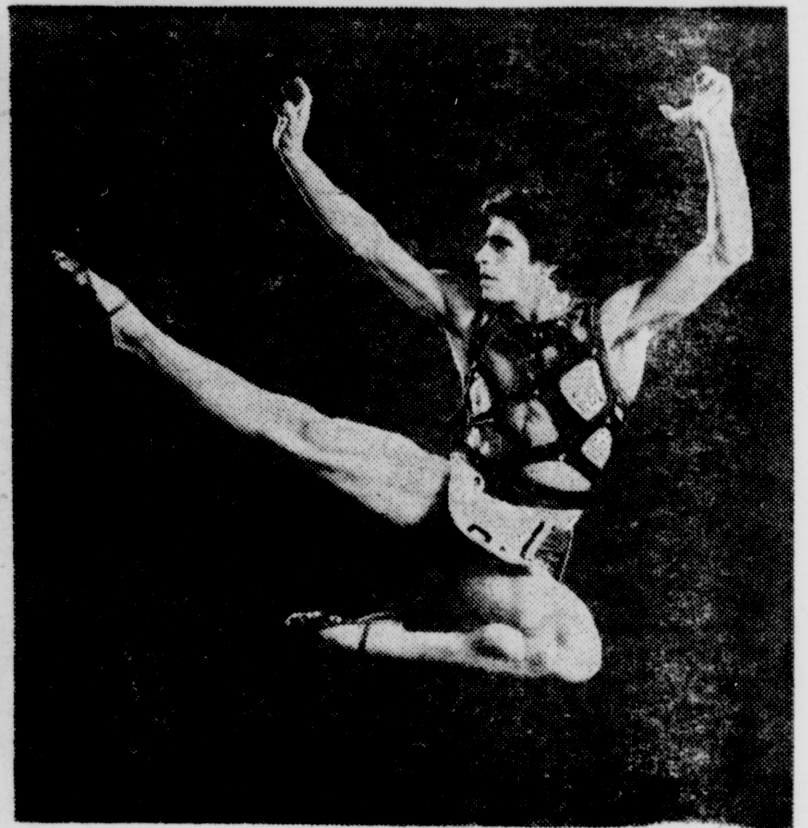

WOODY HERMAN and His Young Herd play a one night only concert at Hyde Park Playhouse this evening, Sunday, July 23 at 8 p.m. Musicians and critics alike, consider this to be the greatest Herman band of all time. The popular 57-year-old bandleader has been drawing capacity crowds across the nation in such popular bistros as New York's Barney Googles, Philadelphia's Brandi's Wharf, and Boston's Lenny's. Woody is one musician from the big band era who has bridged the so called "generation gap," with his swinging herd playing the rock sounds in big band style. And for those who remember, the Herman standards such as Woodchopper's Ball, Caledonia, and Apple Honey are still very much part of the Herd's repertoire.

Spectacle and Excitement for Ballet's Last Week

TSEVEN

"THE CONCERT" with music by Chopin and choreography by Jerome Robbins offers its effervescent foolery on the closing night of this final week of performances by the New York City Ballet at Saratoga. Clever and colorful, "The Concert" will be featured on a quadruple bill next Saturday, July 29 at 8:30 p.m. After the curtain rings down, the company will pack up its 10 big moving vans with 80,000 pounds of equipment and leave its summer home at Saratoga behind for another year.

LOVERS AND AFICIANDOS of art will enjoy the production of "PRODIGAL SON" at Saratoga in performances Thursday, July 27 at 2:30 and 8:30 p.m. Starring the athletic Edward Villella and choreographed by George Balanchine, its scenery and costumes have been created by the famous French painter Georges Roualt; are fascinating to behold from the standpoint of art history as part of the Biblical story of error and forgiveness.

"STARS AND STRIPES" is the lively and patriotic valentine to be delivered to audiences at the Saratoga amphitheatre. Its prancing stars are Melissa Hayden and Jacques d'Amboise. Choreographed by George Balanchine, it will be presented this week on the triple bill slated for Thursday, July 27 at 8:30 p.m.

"SWAN LAKE," first presented in Moscow in 1877, is still the most popular Tschaikovsky ballet being performed today. Again choreographed by Balanchine and again starring Melissa Hayden and Jacques d'Amboise, its selection seems a fitting one for SPAC's closing day. It will be danced Saturday, July 29 at 2:30 p.m.

KAY MAZZO and PETER MARTINS will lead the Tuesday, July 25 at 8:30 p.m. cast of the New York City Ballet's Stravinsky Festival at Saratoga when they dance "Violin Concerto," choreographed by George Balanchine and with music by Igor Stravinsky. It's a SPAC premiere of a ballet that took New York by storm earlier this summer.

WHEN THE DANCINGEST COMPANY in the U.S. presents its new production of "WHO CARES?" with music by George Gershwin and choreography by George Balanchine, two of its most celebrated stars, Jacques d'Amboise and Patricia McBride, will have the leading roles. Fresh and kinky, "Who Cares?" will be offered on the final night's bill, Saturday, July 29 at 8:30 p.m. with three other ballets.

IN HONOR OF John James Audubon, the subject of this original painting by Bernard Fuchs, naturalists from the Catskill and Hudson Valley areas will lend their talents and presence to the Fifth Annual Sharon Audubon Festival in Connecticut next weekend.

Of Birds and Ferns In Summer's Fields For Family Outings

SHARON

A quiet walk; identifying birds and ferns in the fields; two-hour trips exploring in depth the wetland ecology — these will bring naturalists in large numbers to the Annual Audubon Festival at the Sharon Audubon Center in Connecticut.

Among them will be many from the Catskill and Hudson Valley area. Daniel Smiley of Lake Mohonk in New Paltz will lead a field trip during the two day Audubon Festival on "Nature's Balance and Man's Survival" on Saturday and Sunday, July 29 and 30. Another field trip will be headed up by Richard Barnett, Associate Professor of Biology at Dutchess Community College in Poughkeepsie.

Programs will fan out on nearby trails; others will be in the Sharon Center's buildings and on the lawn. Bill Robinson will bring live hawks and owls from his home in Saugerties for an informative talk and demonstration. Virginia Smiley, also of Lake Mohonk, will take participants on a quiet walk where they'll keep their eyes and ears open for the beauty and poetry of a wooded trail.

Ferns and Mushrooms

There'll be snakes and turtles and toads and frogs, and birders will explore trails. Tyros will turn into fern devotees, and science will be combined with culinary wisdom in mushroom discussions. Many will try edible wild plants, life in ponds and swamps will be explored, pointers will be given on tree identification and wildflowers. Insects in their environment and mammals will share program time with sessions on Nature Photography.

Both adults and children are invited to drive over to nearby Sharon next weekend for the activities, beginning at 8:30 a.m. each day, rain or shine. If you go, you'll find it a delightful, countrified experience complete with children's programs, films and lectures, tables under tents for shaded and leisurely lunches, and chicken, hot dogs, sandwiches and drinks from food carts. If you're an ecologist, a naturalist or just a lover of the great outdoors, you'll want to attend.

LOVE SCENE or strangulation scene? If you want to find out, better go see "FRENZY," the masterful thriller marking a return to one of Alfred Hitchcock's themes—that of a man accused of a crime he had not committed, and all but trapped by the circumstantial evidence pointing in his direction. It's the current attraction at Kingston's Community Theatre.

BARBRA STREISAND and RYAN O'NEAL take a break from a lunatic chase up and down the hills of San Francisco in the screwball comedy, "WHAT'S UP, DOC?" The Technicolor film was produced and directed by native Kingstonian Peter Bogdanovich on location in San Francisco. It's fun viewing currently at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre; will probably be around for several weeks.

MOVIES

Frenzy

Alfred Hitchcock has done it again, but — then — doesn't he almost always? For the umpteenth time, he has earned the title of master of the suspense thriller in the inimitable Hitchcock manner with his latest film, "Frenzy."

Taut and tight entertainment as it unrolls currently at Kingston's Community Theatre. "Frenzy" is yet another classic from Hitch, in the tradition of "The Thirty-Nine Steps," "Rebecca," and many another great.

PETER FONDA encounters southern prejudice on a motorcycle trip to the Mardi Gras in "EASY RIDER," the film that's back for a rerun currently at the Hyde Park Drive-In.

The plotting of this film is flawless and the performances by the British cast excellent. Equipped with a fine screenplay, dialogue that often soars, major and minor characters of realistic personality, and fun mixed in with horror, "Frenzy" is witty and suspenseful.

Caught in Web

Based on Arthur La Bern's well written novel, "Goodbye Piccadilly, Farewell Leicester Square," the movie centers on an ex-R.A.F. squadron leader down on his luck and caught in a web of circumstantial evidence as a suspected strangler.

Forced to take it on the lam, every move he makes tightens the rope of guilt around his neck. London is the background for the tale, and it's a London many movie-goers have never seen. The cast can boast acclaim in England—and most of the names are known here in the U.S., if not the faces. Alec McCowen is unbelievably good as the police inspector, and Vivien Merchant is a comedienne supreme as his wife. Jon Finch is properly paranoid as the suspected murderer, and Anna Massey pluperfect as a barmaid.

All in all, suspense entertainment at its very, very best from the corpse floating down the Thames during an anti-pollution ceremony to the corpse speeding away in a truck bagged up in a potato shipment. Hitchcock at 72 has lost none of his talent and impact.

What's Up, Doc?

Fun — plain, simple, fast-paced and screwball — is ladled up in this delightful comedy now featured at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre.

Barbra Streisand scores again, as she almost inevitably always does, as a kooky gal who's not so kooky that she can't get her man. The man, in this instance, is Ryan O'Neal, who's much better (in our opinion) as an absentminded professor in horn-rimmed glasses than as a hockey jock in "Love Story."

The plot is pretty confusing but, since it's all in fun, who cares? Seems there are these four identical suitcases — one filled with jewels, another with top secret documents, one with Streisand's lingerie, and another with lots of rocks O'Neal needs for a lecture on primitive music. Somehow, the bags get mixed up and — with all the switching going on — more than a dozen people cop one of more of the luggage pieces along the way.

Great Chase Scene

Add on a great chase scene around San Francisco — and you've got a comedy that's as good as any of the classics turned out by Hollywood in the '30s and '40s — and better than most being sent our way today.

Hundreds of gags literally tumble over each other in "What's Up, Doc?" It's fast-paced fun both verbally and visually, and it's a contemporary satire with a fresh and youthful spirit.

Other Choices

101 DALMATIANS and SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON. This double feature Walt Disney bill is the current offering at the local Sunset Drive-In. Both reruns, — but good ones. "Dalmatians" has a villainess who dognaps spotted puppies galore with the evil design of a coat in mind. She gets her comeuppance when a mom and pop canine team enlists half the dogs in England to track down the pups. "Family Robinson" is Robinson Crusoe on a desert island with the exception that this time he's got a wife and kids instead of just Friday.

EASY RIDER. Peter Fonda and Dennis Hopper encounter southern prejudice on a motorcycle trip to the Mardi Gras. But Jack Nicholson steals the show as an alcoholic young lawyer in this originally acclaimed rerun that's back for a showing at the Hyde Park Drive-In.

THE GODFATHER. The Mafia women are still getting married and the Mafia men are still machinegunning and garroting their underworld colleagues in "The Godfather," still showing at Poughkeepsie's Bardavon after weeks and weeks and weeks. Marlon Brando is the aging Don in his finest role in a dozen years.

FIDDLER ON THE ROOF. Broadway's all-time, longest-running musical hit as a movie continues its lengthy run at Poughkeepsie's Juliet. Topol, talented Israeli actor, is marvelous as the milkman marrying off his daughters.

SKYJACKED. A maniac hijacker terrorizes passengers and crew of a superjet in this airlines adventure tale now playing at Red Hook's Lyceum. Big name cast includes Charlton Heston as the pilot, Roosevelt Grier and James Brolin as passengers, Yvette Mimieux and Leslie Uggams as stewardesses.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

Almost 7,000 horse racin' buffs battled both the heat and the masses at Saratoga Raceway last Saturday afternoon.

Why such a mob? Well, first off, it was "Children's Day" and hot dogs were 10 cents. Then, too, it was the day Albatross — the youngest millionaire in history of harness racing — was to make a record for himself on the half-mile track. Ah how talent will out!

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eng of Eng's Chinese Restaurant in Kingston were there to see their horse, Fortune Paul, come into the "Show" money. Several Kingstonsians collected on THAT race at least, including George Schick, even if only for sentimental reasons. Good thing, too, 'cause everywhere we turned, bettors were strainin' at the purse strings. One gal was takin' a collection to get enough for Thruway fare home.

It was so hot, even the flag wilted. By the time some fans split, they were so sun-tanned they looked like burnt offerings. However, somebody must've been cleanin' up but judgin' from our pocketbook, we're prone to believe it was the janitor.

Nevertheless, Kingstonsians NEVER give up. Not by a long shot! In order that the day shouldn't be a total loss, a gang of 'em hightailed over to Trade Winds, Saratoga's four-starred restaurant. Now, one doesn't walk right in at Trade Winds, you know. Doors remain locked-tight 'til 5 p.m. while customers gather outside, formin' breadlines. Among those waitin' patiently were Kingston's Gus and Pearl Wiedemann and the Buddenhagens, Clarence and Ethel, that is.

Even though there'd been a party the night before at the Wiedemann home, Saturday was another day and everyone was rarin' to go AGAIN. Gus was recently named president at Siller Beef and offerin' congrats at the soiree were such folks as Bud and Olive Stewart, Mary and Bill Scully, Bertha and Vince Connelly. Vince, a prime asset at any shindig, was livenin' things up with tidbits 'bout his life a few years back his paperboy era.

Congressman Hamilton Fish was responsible for puttin' the sun in Sunday last week when he showed up at St. Remy to present a flag (not just any flag, mind you; this one had flown over the Capitol) to the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club Ladies Auxiliary. Soon as formalities were over, Congressman ditched his tie, opened his shirt and dug into the tempting buffet like a good fellow.

The dessert was decorated patriotically in red, white and blue in honor of the occasion which also marked the 84th birthday of Auxiliary member, Mary Schatzel.

Bill Scott was tryin' soooooo hard to be a goooooood boy; wife Jane saw to it that he succeeded.

There was a poolside party at Al Cawein's home in Blue Mountain last Sunday for lovely Georgianna Dacre, first runner-up in Miss New York State Pageant.

A real knock-out in person as well as in pictures, Miss D. had been second runner-up in 1971 with title Miss Rockland County and first runner-up this year as Miss Ulster County. Just proving when you've got it, you've got it, right? RIGHT!

Freeman employees held Family Day at Lester Davis Park in West Shokan last Sunday. For weeks prior to the event, a registration list was posted in the office where Freeman personnel could sign. Just to attest to the kind of cut-ups who attended, the list contained everything from Dagwood and Blondie Bumstead to Judge Crater.

Enamel Classes

WOODSTOCK

Those popular Enamel Classes which have been a feature at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen for many years are being readied for another summer session.

Taught by award-winning enamelist Joan Pond, the classes will resume in the Guild classroom on Tinker Street beginning tomorrow, Monday, July 24. Course will include eight weekly sessions from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. each Monday. Those interested should drop by and see Kottie Wangler at the Guild, or call 679-2815.

Acting Workshop Offers Oscar and Tony Winners As 'Guest Lecturers'

MIDDLETOWN
Academy Award winner Estelle Parsons, Tony Award winner Richard Kiley, Obie Award winner Anne Meachem and Broadway director Joseph Anthony participated in an acting workshop for high school students at Middletown's Orange County Community College recently.

Miss Parsons, who won an Oscar as best supporting actress in "Bonnie and Clyde," has had a full acting career on stage and screen. Her film credits include "Rachel, Rachel," "Watermelon Man," and "I Never Sang For My Father." The winner of two Obies and a Tony Award nominee, she starred in Broadway productions of "The Seven Descents of Myrtle," "Malcolm," and "Miss Reardon Drinks A Little," Lincoln Center's "East Wind," and "Galileo," as well as productions with the Berkshire Theatre Festival, Woodstock Playhouse, Yale Repertory Company, and the New York Shakespeare Festival.

The Original 'Man'

Tony winner Kiley opened June 26 in the Lincoln Center revival of his "Man of La Mancha." He has appeared in "No Strings," "Kismet," and "Advise and Consent." A frequent television actor, Kiley is also a film performer with credits including "Blackboard Jungle," "Phoenix City Story," and "Spanish Affair."

RICHARD KILEY, in makeup for his role as the original "Man of La Mancha," was among the celebrated guest-lecturers who shared theatrical knowledge with area high school students at OCC's Acting Workshop.

Broadway actress Meachem won Obie Awards for her performances in the off-Broadway productions of "Suddenly Last Summer" and "Hedda Gabler." She also appeared in productions of "Witness For The Prosecution," and "A Passage To India," and has made frequent television appearances, including performances in "Wuthering Heights," "Therese Racquin," and "The Virginian."

Director Anthony brought both film and theatre experience to the workshop. A founder-member of the American Actors Company and teacher at the American Theatre Wing, Anthony directed such theatre productions as "The Most Happy Fella," "Under The Yum-Yum Tree," "Rhinoceros," and "Mary, Mary." He is currently on the theater faculty of the State University Performing Arts Center at Purchase.

ARTIST E. LENT painted this "View of Hudson from West Point." It was among the many canvases of the Hudson River and Historical Sites on display in the most recent show at Bethlehem Art Gallery, R.D. 2, Newburgh. A wide variety of views of the Hudson in all seasons was represented in the show. Bethlehem's current July exhibit features abstract and semi-abstract paintings.

THIS LOVELY STUDY in black-and-white is among the 75 illustrations in "BROCK—The Man and the Work," just published book by Cusick Associates. It's entitled "Semi-Draped Nude;" was painted while the model was resting and relaxing rather than posing.

'The Small Miracle'

One of the items on the 1972-73 "Hallmark Hall of Fame" schedule of dramatic specials for NBC will be an adaptation of a Paul Gallico short story, "The Small Miracle," tale of an Italian orphan boy who relies on St. Francis of Assisi for help when his donkey becomes ill. Playwright John Patrick will write the script, and production will begin late this summer in Rome and Assisi.

Brock's Book

finds it all ending after 97 handsome pages. A marvelously detailed book, brilliantly complemented by the illustrations that reproduce examples of Brock's art and the places he has known, it is a faithful mirror of his talent and durability as a master in his field. A distinguished portrait limner and a landscape artist whose renderings of nature are a veritable cornucopia of her largesse, Brock long since earned the right to a book of his own. And the book, in turn, should do much to boost interest in art.

It is available at Catskill Book Shop, 35 Mill Hill Road, Woodstock (watch for announcement of an autographing party there shortly), or from the publishers, Cusick Associates, 208 Charles Street, Throop, Pa. 18512. The price is $20 and well worth it for an autographed, special limited first edition. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

Tissue Paper Art Shown With Oils

NEWBURGH—her present exhibit are oils, acrylics and tissue paper techniques reflecting impressionism, abstract and hard edge. The public is invited to visit the exhibit during regular library hours: Monday through Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.; Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m.; Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m.

The colorful works are executed in oils and in tissue paper technique.

Carole Prusansky is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, and a teacher at Newburgh Free Academy. She has exhibited in several area shows, including a show at present in the Empire National Bank in Wappingers Falls.

European Student

Ruth Raynor-Venezia studied art at Marietta College in Marietta, Ohio. Her art background includes sculpture, oil painting and sketching. She has spent the last few years experimenting with various media and in the study of the works of European artists. In

Series for Rodney

Viacom Enterprises has in preparation a half-hour situation comedy series, "Dangerfield's," starring, of course, right club comedian and operator Rodney Dangerfield whose humor theme is that he gets no respect from anyone. The series will be in that vein.

Prince Valiant[®]

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: EVENING CREEPS INTO THE PALACE GARDENS AND PRINCE VALIANT SIGNALS TWO ATTENDANTS TO HELP THE TIPSY KING. A PLEASED SMILE WREATHES HIS FACE FOR TODAY HE HAS BECOME A SPORTSMAN.

NOW VAL CONSIDERS THE NEXT STEP IN HIS PROMISE TO MAKE A MAN OF THE FAT LITTLE TYRANT. YESTERDAY'S HUNT HAS SHOWN HIM THE PRIDE OF SELF-SUFFICIENCYANOTHER HUNT, PERHAPS?

HE SPENDS THE DAY AMONG THE BOAT MEN ON THE RIVER AND FINDS TWO STALWART MEN WHO MAKE THEIR LIVING HUNTING AND FISHING. HE HIRES THEM AND ORDERS THE BOAT PROVISIONED.

KING DASHAD, AMID HIS FAWNING COURTIER'S, DISPENSES JUSTICE. USUALLY A THIEF HAS HIS HAND LOPPED OFF, LESSER CRIMES GET TWENTY LASHES. BUT YESTERDAY'S ENCOUNTER WITH HOT GREASE HAS TAUGHT HIM WHAT PAIN IS AND HE MODERATES HIS PUNISHMENTS.

"WHERE HAVE YOU BEEN FOR THE LAST THREE DAYS," GRUMBLES THE KING. "I'VE SENT MESSENGERS ALL OVER TO FIND YOU. YOU STAY HERE IN THE PALACE WHILE WE PLAN ANOTHER HUNT." VAL SMILES BUT SHAKES HIS HEAD AND SAYS:.....

....."I AM LEAVING YOUR CITY ON A HUNTING AND FISHING HOLIDAY DOWN THE RIVER; TO SLEEP UNDER THE STARRY SKY, ROCKED TO SLUMBER BY THE WAVES AND AWAKENED BY THE SONG OF THE LARK."

"CAN I GO, TOO?" PLEADS THE DESPOT. "NO, SIRE, FOR A HUNDRED COURTIER'S AND AN ARMY OF GUARDS WOULD FOLLOW THEIR KING AND SPOIL THE SPORT, BUT....."

....."IF YOU COULD GET AWAY UNNOTICED, DISGUISED AS JUST AN ORDINARY SPORTSMAN.....!" "I CAN, I CAN!" BABBLES DASHAD. "WHEN DO WE START?"

WHAT MADE YOU DECIDE TO BUY A HAIR PIECE, MR. DITHERS?

I FIGURED IT WAS TIME TO CREATE A NEW, YOUNGER IMAGE FOR MYSELF

THESE JOINTS HAVE A LOT OF CLASS THIS WAY, GENTLEMEN

NOW, THAT'S OUR PRINCE VALIANT BOB IT'S NICE, BUT IT'S NOT THE REAL ME

NOW, WE CALL THAT THE BEN FRANKLIN NO WAY!

THAT'S OUR YOUNG EXECUTIVE MODEL RIGHT ON! THIS IS THE ONE FOR ME!

OUR WIVES WILL BE SURPRISED WHEN WE MEET THEM FOR LUNCH WONDER WHAT CORA WILL SAY?

BE BRAVE, JULIUS, I'LL SAVE YOU!

CORA, STOP-- THAT'S MY NEW HAIR PIECE!

I THOUGHT YOU WERE BEING ATTACKED BY A WILD MUSKRAT BOO HOO

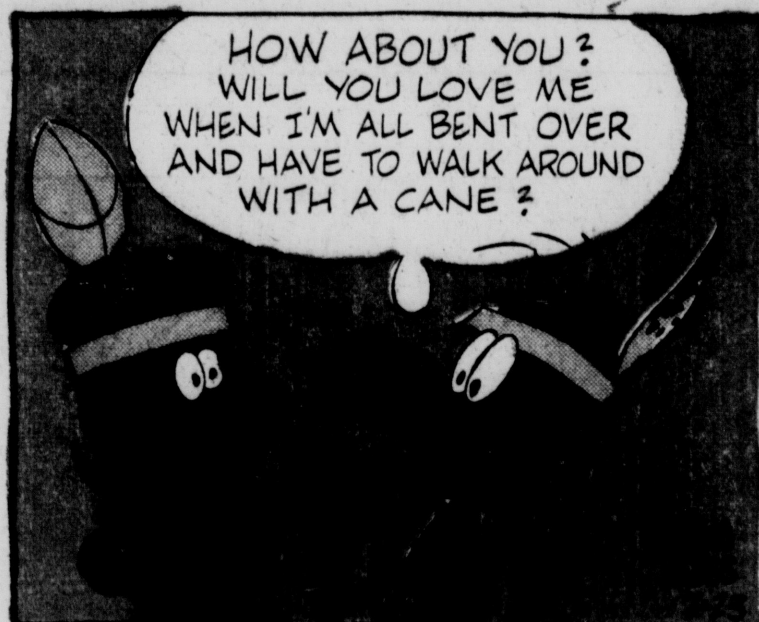

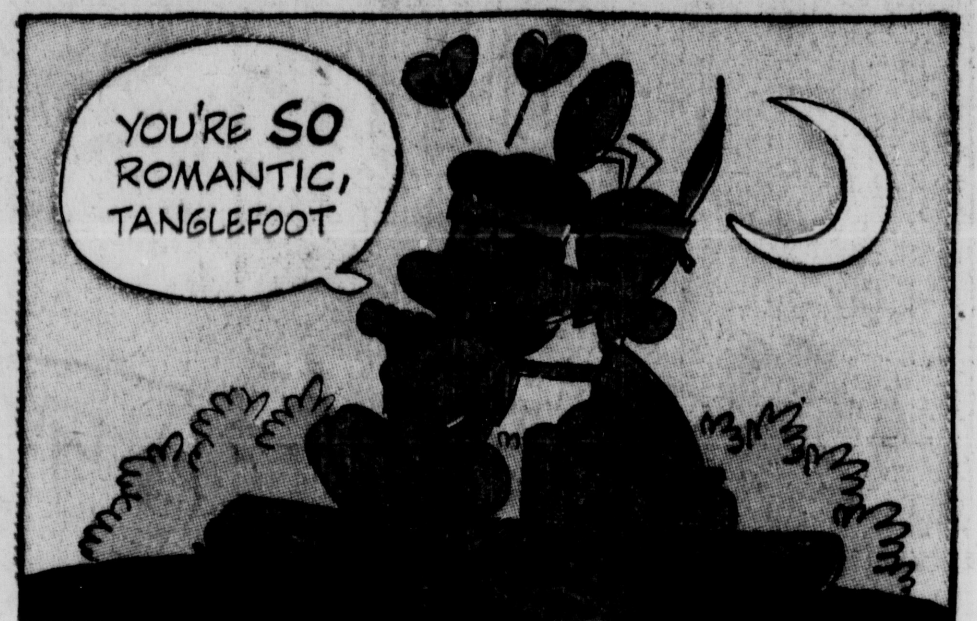

IF YOU WANT MY OPINION, I'D SAY GET RID OF IT
